The session of Congress which came to a close today accomplished much for the Pacific Northwest. Both Oregon and Washington have farred well at the hands of the first session of the Fifty-seventh Congress. In fact at no other Congress have these states fared so well as at this session, although large appropriations were made by former sessions for river and harbor improvements. For rivers and harbors, Oregon, including the Columbia River, gets about $2,589,000, and Washington gets $601,000. The Indian bill carried the necessary amount for continuing schools and agencies in both states, while minor appropriations were made in the sundry civil bill. The Portland post-office is assured of $200,000, and $10,000 will put the finishing touches on the Custom House. Aside from appropriations, Oregon has been exceedingly fortunate in local legislation, getting an Indian war pension bill; the Crater Lake National Park; authorization of the sale of Umatilla lands, and relief of Sherman County settlers, aside from a number of private pension bills. Washington, in addition to $1,100,000 for the Puget Sound Navy Yard gets several light-house, $17,000 reimbursement for state expenditures, public building at Spokane and Tacoma, and a bridge across the Columbia at Vancouver.

Taking the fourth man with him, he embarked and went into Ballard, six miles from Seattle. There he ordered his involuntary companion to leave him. A posse is now in pursuit of the convict.

Need More Help.

Mother Always Keeps It Handy.

"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Swadling, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now, at the age of seventy-six, eats anything she wants, remarking that she bears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It is nature's own tonic. Geo. Harding.

Plural Names of Edible Fish.

A few days ago I was asked by a foreigner, "Why do you say 'two herrings' and 'two soles' and not 'two cods' and 'two salmon'?" I do not think my answer was very satisfactory, but the question suggested the thought that there are several cases in which it would be difficult to say whether there is anything like a consensus of opinion as to whether a plural form of the name of a fish is admissible. We all speak of soles, herrings, sprats, lampreys and anchovies, the singular form never, I believe, doing service for the plural. No one, I think, says mackerels, cods, salmon, trout, brooms, shads, carps, plaices, basses, barbels, Sturgeon, perch, mullet, pike, turbot, tunny and skate have not unusually the plural form in "s."

Fishermen and fishmongers are inclined to avoid the plural form in some instances where it is employed by the majority of educated people. In some cases there is considerable uncertainty. This I have ascertained by means of a fair number of tests. Among them are carps, shads, tenches, Compilers of English grammars, so far as my experience goes, in treating of plural forms of nouns make no note of the names of fish which do not vary in the plural—Notes and Queries.

Thackeray as a Showman.

In Thackeray's case the justification of artificial names, if it be right to speak of justification, lies in this, that with all the solid reality of the life portrayed we are never allowed to lose sight of the author and his art in portraiture. He is ever at hand to underline the snobbery or laugh off the pathos. There is a strong strain of the satirist in him, and satire is akin to allegory. There is even a strain of the caricaturist ready to emerge in the midst of his noblest art.

He is especially fond of putting on the airs and graces of the showman. His preface to "Vanity Fair" is headed "Before the Curtain," and this great novel of real life concludes with "Come, children, let us shut up the box and the puppets, for our play is played out." And we accept Thackeray's showman's humor.—Blackwood's Magazine.

What We Owe to Cockfighting.

The now disreputable amusement of cockfighting, which was once respectable enough to divide with scholarship and archery the attention of Roger Ascham, has provided the language with "crestfallen," "in high feather" and Shakespeare's "over-crow" (cf. to crow over). "To show the white feather" is from the same source, since white feathers in a gamecock's tail are a sign of impure breeding. Often the origin of such words or phrases has been quite forgotten, but when traced discloses their true character at once. "Fair play" is still recognized as a figure from gambling, but "foul play" is now specialized to "murder," is hardly felt as a metaphor at all.—Open Court.

Kettle Bridges.

Perhaps the most remarkable bridges in the world are the kettle bridges, of which Cossack soldiers are expert builders. The materials of which they are constructed are the soldiers' lances and cooking kettles. Seven or eight lances are passed under the handles of a number of kettles and fastened by means of ropes to form a raft. A sufficient number of these rafts, each of which will bear a weight of half a ton, are fastened together, and in the space of an hour a bridge is formed on which an army may cross with confidence and safety.

One Failure.

A Secret.

Old Bachelor Uncle—Well, Charlie, what do you want now? Charlie—Oh, I want to be rich. "Rich! Why so?" "Because I want to be petted. Ma says you are an old fool, but must be petted because you are rich. But it's a great secret, and I mustn't tell it!"

Thrilling Moments.

"Johnnie," called the mother, "I want you to go to the store for me." "Wait a second, maw," replied the youth, who was absorbed in a five cent volume. "Pepperhole Pete has thirty-seven Infjuna to kill, an' it'll only take him about two minutes."—Ohio State Journal.

"She Let Concealment

Like a Worm i' the Bud Feed on Her Damask Cheek."

How aptly Shakespeare touches the dominant chord in a woman's nature. She suffers in silence; draws a curtain over her private sorrows, and endures until endurance ceases to be a virtue. This is especially the case with the modest minded women who suffer from diseases peculiar to the sex. They are miserable and unhappy, and yet, although they know that they need medical aid and assistance, they choose rather to bear the ills they know than to submit to the examination of some local physician.

For this reason many a woman lets disease fasten upon her. She conceals her condition and endures a daily martyrdom of pain because her mind revolts at the thought of submission to the treatment she knows the local practitioner will insist upon.

Very many women have written grateful letters to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., because they have found in his methods an escape from the offensive questions, the obnoxious examinations, and the disagreeable local treatments insisted on by so many home physicians. These things are, as a rule, not necessary. Dr. Pierce's experience and success in treating hundreds of thousands of women, enables him at once to determine from the written statements of women the form of disease which it is necessary to treat. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is sacredly confidential and the same strict professional privacy is observed by Dr. Pierce and his staff in personal consultations with women at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

A WOMAN'S STATEMENT.

"I enjoy good health, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. J. J. Schneyer, of Pontiac, Livingston Co., Ill. "I have taken six bottles of each kind. I was taken sick last February and the doctors here called it 'Grip.' I lay for four weeks in bed, then when I got up I found I had 'Displacement.' Had such aches and pains in my back and limbs could not stand any length of time. I knew that our home doctor would insist the first thing on an examination, and that I would not submit to, unless I was dangerously sick, and then it would be too late to do any good. My son had your book, Common Sense Medical Adviser, and from reading it that Dr. Pierce would do more for the home doctors—and so the good I would have said, 'that much good.' I can truly say I was surprised at the benefit I can do all my washing and my flower garden. In fact I feel most all the time. An old man said to me, 'Why, you matter with you? You are getting again.' I told her I had taken of Dr. Pierce's medicine, would do likewise she was years younger, too."

However wonderful it may be, Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription uniformly successful in curing peculiar to women, it is not as it appears. It is not to us, that a machine made to do a certain task can do it perfectly. We wonder at the which pulls the cars, although nothing of it. We know the machine made to do it. We do not know the musical artist who reweaves his instrument and perfect harmony. We know that music enables him to command of a board. Let an enced player sit the piano, and keys falsely to into discord. Dr. Pierce's enue and practice. "Favorite Prescription" only was made to do. Pierce knows the gamut of the feminism. Where experienced produces a dis experience and ables the prod perfect harmon difference between success of Dr. the ordinary in the treatment and cure of ailments is the difference between success on the one hand and experience on the other.

GAINED TEN POUNDS.

"I took four bottles of Dr. Favorite Prescription and two 'Golden Medical Discovery' received great benefit," writes Mr. D. Shearer, of Mountbush, Lancaster, Pa. "I do not have those sick formerly. Before I took your I could hardly walk at times, my uterine trouble. I can truly after taking four bottles of 'Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I did not suffer more. I gained ten pounds in June I commenced using the and in July helped to harvest the so you may know that I did a very bad."

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity, dries discharges, heals inflammation and tions and cures female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages appetite, and induces refreshing sleep. As a tonic for weak, worn-out, or women it is unequalled. It makes women strong, sick women well.

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." The only motive situation is to enable the dealer to the little more profit paid on the less meritorious medicines.
