TERRIBLE DEATH OF A CHILD.

Little Daughter of William J. Wilson Is Burned to Death.

Reva Grace Wilson, the four-year old daughter of William J. Wilson, of this city, was burned to death Tuesday afternoon about 2 o'clock. Her parents re-ade on Fifth street, between J. Q. Adams and Monroe streets. She had gone into the yard to light a bonfire of old wall paper, that had just been torn from the walls preparatory to repapering some of the rooms. She struck a match and stooped down to light the pile of paper, when the flames caught her dress and in an instant she was enveloped in a mass of flames. Her screams aroused the neighbors and several women came to her rescue, but before they could extinguish the fire her clothes were completely burned from her body. She was carried home and several physicians were sent They did every thing possible to alleviate her sufferings and administered opiates to soothe the terrible pain. The child did not lose consciousness but about 6 o'clock death mercifully ended her

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the Presbyterian Church, Rev. A. J. Montgomery preaching the sermon. A large number of sorrowing friends of the family followed the remains to their last resting place.
