A Wonderful Octogenarian.

Mr. Oscar Eaton, of Oswego, celebrated his eighty-second birthday Friday, August 8, 1902. Several friends were invited to be present on the occasion, namely: Mr. and Mrs. Ivyle, of Oswego; Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jones, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Morton, of Oswego; Mr. Dobbins, of Clatskanie; Mr. Thayer, of Oregon City; and Miss Rogers, of Oswego. The happy guests sat to a sumptuous dinner prepared by Mrs. Thompson and Miss Thompson, daughter and granddaughter of the venerable host.

After dinner America and the Duxology were sung and prayer was offered. Mr. Eaton seemed in countenance and spirit like a youth of eighteen summers. Three of the guests were his comrades-in-arms during the Civil War, and it was interesting to hear them indulging in reminiscences of those eventful years, when the Blue and the Grey were engaged. If we are not mistaken, Mr. Eaton's grandfather and father fought in the Revolutionary War, and he thought his duty to fight in the war of 1861-65. The Eatons, in tracing their pedigree, find that their ancestors came from Wales, and some of them possess the Celtic traits of strength of intellect and poetical nature. Mr. Eaton himself could have stood as a distinguished poet if he had tried. One of his brothers was an eminent professor of a prominent institution in New York. Mr. Eaton is an officer of the State Grange of Oregon, and is held in great esteem among all the Grangers. He has also been a faithful deacon of the Congregational church at Oswego since its organization. He read a poem of his own composition lately at an encampment of the G. A. R., and all the vast audience could hear him. His voice is clear and his enunciation is as distinct as ever.
