Washington street has been greatly improved the last few days by the new sidewalk from 13th street down to the Abernethy bridge. This walk has long presented a very uninviting appearance and was in fact unfit for use. Now a four foot walk has been built and the public can walk over it without sustaining any broken limbs.

A sad death was that of Orville P. Robertson, in Portland a few days ago at his father's residence. Mr. Robertson died with typhoid fever after an illness of about two weeks. Mr. Robertson was 27 years old and well known in these parts especially in the Eagle Creek country, where he has lived most of his life. The deceased was buried in Salem.

Two fine draft horses walked into town Tuesday and were put in the pound by Chief of Police Burns. The horses bore no marks or evidence of the owners and the authorities are at a loss to know who they belong to. They each weigh 1600 pounds and probably could not be bought for less than six hundred dollars. They evidently came from the Marquam country as it was learned over the telephone that two horses passed through that neighborhood early Tuesday morning.

Next Sunday afternoon at Willamette Falls there is going to be the baseball game of the season between the crack clerks' team and the teamsters of Oregon City. It will be remembered that a few Sundays ago the clerks and barbers had a game, in which the clerks got the better of the barbers in a score of 7 to 9. Now it remains for the teamsters to get in and lower the colors of the clerks. The teamsters have several ball players among their number, who will greatly increase the rivalry and uncertainty of the game. The clerks are playing when their time allows, and they declare that they must win the game at all odds.
