Got Off With a Light Fine.

Editor Enterprise: It seems to me that the unwarranted beating of a 16-year old boy by a full grown man is not sufficiently punished by imposing a fine of $15. The striking of my son Clarence, by J. W. Jones last Sunday was cowardly in the extreme. A $15 fine would not appear so insignificant but for the fact that this is the second or third time Jones has struck young boys recently. No one ever heard of Jones striking a man of his size. Boys are evidently the ones he is after. Yours for a fair deal,
JOHN GREEN.

WHEN WOMAN PROPOSES.

Methods of the Hungarian Gypsies and Burnese Maidens.

In England leap year is supposed to confer upon the fair sex the privilege of choosing her life partner for better or for worse, but the custom is more honored in the breach than in the observance. The gypsies, especially in Hungary, enjoy and make a very extensive use of the right at all times in accordance with an ancient custom. This a marriageable young gypsy girl in the land of the Magyars as soon as her heart is swollen takes good care to find the suitor shall hear of the havoc in his wallet and have a chance of seeing her. With this preliminary, she goes in person to the man's house and takes him a love letter in which she tells him that she is a gypsy girl and that she is a very beautiful girl. She then takes him to her home and there she takes him to her room and there she takes him to her bed and there she takes him to her heart.

The Burnese maiden begins her marriage campaign at a much earlier stage. In order to get together a goodly gathering of young men from whom to choose the place a lamp in her window at night—it is known as "the lamp of love"—and entices all those youths who are candidates for the order of Bonadict. In sunny Andalus the peasant girl whose heart has been stolen by a staid young husbandman prepares a tasty pumpkin cake and sends it to his home. If he eats it—and the Andalusian girls take good care to make it highly edible—the pair are forthwith betrothed.—London Telegraph.

Cleanliness and Arsenic.

In Styria and Carinthia there is much arsenic eating among the peasants. The women take it to give themselves a good complexion and to make their hair fine and glossy. The men take it because they believe that it gives them wind in climbing in the chase after chamois. There is nothing of this sort in Cornwall and Devon.

In Styria and Carinthia it is known that an arsenic eater can never be broken of the habit and that if arsenic be compulsorily kept from the enter death rapidly ensues. It is believed in the Tamar—and this is perhaps true—that an arsenic worker is fit for no other work. He must remain at this occupation. Health and breath fall him at other employments. Eventually it may be that chronic arsenical poisoning ensues. But this may be staved off, if not wholly prevented, by scrupulous cleanliness, by care taken not only to wash in the "changing house," but to bathe freely at home. As one of the foremen said to the writer, "Against arsenic the best antidote is soap taken externally."—Chambers Journal.

Purely For Ornament.

The trained nurse has to meet many curious conditions which arise among her poorer patients. One of these faithful women who had a sick girl in charge in a miserable tenement house noticed that the oranges which had been provided for the fever patient were not eaten. They were placed in an old cracked blue bowl on a little table by the sick girl's bed, and there they remained untouched.

"Mary," said the nurse one day, "don't you like oranges?"

"Oh, yes," answered the girl.

"You haven't eaten any of these," the nurse suggested.

Mary's mother answered, "Oh, miss," she said eagerly, "Mary, she's a half an' me an' Jimmy, we've the other half an' Mary an' me, we say we won't eat any more 'cause it looks so nice an' wealthy to have oranges settin' round."

—Youth's Companion.

Posterity of Drunkards.

A professor of Baum university in tracing the posterity of habitual drunkards has found 834 descendants from a woman who for forty years was "a thief, a drunkard and a tramp" and whose miserable life came to an end in the last year of the eighteenth century. The professor has traced the lives of 709 of this woman's descendants from youth to old age, and of these 122 were beggars and 64 more lived on charity. There were in the family 76 convicts, including 7 murderers. The professor estimated that in seventy-five years this family has cost the German authorities in almshouses, law courts, prisons and other institutions about $1,250,000.—Chicago Journal.

Friendship.

There are two elements that go to the composition of friendship, each so sovereign that I detect no superiority in either, no reason why either should be the first named. One is truth. A friend is a person with whom I can be sincere. The other element of friendship is tenderness. When a man becomes dear to me I have touched the goal of fortune.—Emerson.

A Yearning For Courtesy.

"Why do you sigh for great riches?"

"Well," answered the mild mannered man, "I don't value money for its own sake, but I'd kind of like to be in a position where the subordinate employees of large enterprises will say 'Good morning, sir,' instead of 'Step lively!'"

—Washington Star.

Royal Cook—That, sir, was a female missionary from Boston.—Spartan Set.

The Way With Life.

If you set down on a board with a tack in it the harder you set the more tack you get, an' that's the way with life—it's full of tacks, an' don't you forget it.—The Substitute.

A man who is eternally squaring himself must be just a little crooked.—Aitchison Globe.

M. D. Wisdom, Secretary Portland, Ore.

Many a man is looking out for his health, but looking for his health in the wrong direction. He takes medicine for his nerves, which seem "gone to pieces." He "doctors" for his heart, which is acting irregularly. He constantly sips up his liver with pills and powder. But he does not get any better. He is looking for the cause of his complaints in the wrong direction.

It is a common thing for some one who has used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for "stomach trouble" to find that when the diseased stomach is cured the "weak" heart is made sound, the sluggish liver stimulated, and the throbbing nerves tranquillized. This fact alone suggests the truth which every leading medical scientist knows and recognizes—that diseases which seem remote from the stomach are often caused by the disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. When the diseased stomach and the digestive and nutritive system are cured of disease, the other organs are cured with them.

Food is the basis of life and of strength. But it is not the quantity of food eaten which supports the life and health of the body. The body is sustained by that portion of the food which after being eaten is converted into nourishment and properly assimilated. When the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition are diseased or "weak," only part of the food eaten is converted into nutrition, and the body and its organs are therefore only partly nourished. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures the disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system which prevent the proper nourishment of the body. In that way the body is once more strengthened in the only way possible, by food properly digested and perfectly assimilated.

Any person suffering from disease in chronic or aggravated form, is invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence strictly private and confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." The main motive of substitution is the desire of the dealer to make a little more profit out of you by selling you a less meritorious medicine.

ABLE TO WORK AGAIN.

Mr. John L. Connelley, of Glenview, Ill., writes: "I had been suffering for about a year and a half being unable to work most of the time. The doctor said I had heart disease and indigestion. It began with a choking and oppressed feeling in the chest; later on I was troubled with a hungry feeling, and I seemed to be raw from my throat clear down into my stomach. My appetite was unusually poor, I was weak and nervous, and my heart kept throbbing continually, and I was short of breath. Finally I wrote to you for advice. I did not think your diagnosis was right, but I ordered six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and began its use. After using three bottles I began to improve slowly, and soon went to work, and I have been working ever since."

"SUFFERED ALL THE TIME."

"I feel that I would be doing an injustice to you if I did not send you a statement of my case," writes Mrs. David W. Gulce, of Hamburg, Franklin Co., Miss. "I had been suffering with indigestion. Everything that I ate disagreed with me. I suffered all the time with swimming in my head, heart beat, fast, my feet and hands were cold all the time. I did not sleep well at all. Was able to get about but very little. I commenced to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and by December I could begin to get about very well. Have been doing my work ever since except when I feel better than I have for several years. I would recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all who are troubled as I was. I can now enjoy my life and I think you must kindly let the larger relief and cure."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery" and should be used with it when a laxative is needed.
