GUARD FROM FIRE

Prune Growers Form Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Organization Will Be Incorporated
And Protection Afforded at Actual Cost.

"The prune growers of the Willamette valley met in the Willamette Valley Prune Association warehouse yesterday afternoon and organized a fire relief association," says the Salem Statesman. "L. M. Gilbert, of the prune association, presided, and W. E. Way acted as secretary. The prune growers present at the meeting were Lloyd T. Reynolds, C. O. Constable, R. J. Spencer, Bruce Cunningham, R. D. Allen, John Pemberton, W. E. Way, A. W. Mize, L. M. Gilbert, Evan Barnett and A. L. Wess. "The committee, consisting of John Pemberton, H. J. Zercher, H. S. Gile, W. E. Way and J. F. Blanchard, which was appointed at the last meeting to make all arrangements for organizing and commencing business as soon as possible, reported favorably and outlined a plan of organization, which was adopted.

"The regulations and by-laws of the Farmers' Fire Relief Association, of Butteville, Oregon, was taken as the frame work upon which to build the by-laws of the organization. Those by-laws were read article by article and adopted with such changes as were deemed necessary to adapt them to the needs of the new association. It will conform in almost every particular to the Butteville Association.

"The association will be known as the Prune Growers' Fire Relief Association of Oregon. For the present, at least, the association will insure only prune driers, prune warehouses, fixtures and prunes. The plan of assessment is based upon the old line insurance rates on prune driers. Each assessment, which may be levied whenever the association is in need of money, will consist of 20 per cent of the assessment of the old line companies.

"The delegates elected a board of directors, consisting of Bruce Cunningham, John Pemberton, A. W. Mize, L. M. Gilbert and Lloyd T. Reynolds. Immediately after the meeting adjourned, the board of directors held a meeting and elected temporary officers as follows: President, L. T. Reynolds; vice-president, Bruce Cunningham; secretary, J. F. Blanchard. The headquarters of the association will be Salem, and the by-laws provide for an annual meeting of the association. The board of directors will meet again next Saturday to perfect the business of the association and get solicitors in the field.

"A committee, consisting of John Pemberton, W. E. Way and L. M. Gilbert, was chosen to draft articles of incorporation and file them with the secretary of state. According to the state law the association cannot transact business until $300,000 in stock has been subscribed, or applications made for risks covering that amount. This will be about 300 prune driers and warehouses, counting the average insurance on each at $1000. The state law also regulates the amount of insurance to be carried; no property to be insured for more than $1000, nor for more than two thirds its actual value.

"The object of the association is purely for the benefit and protection of the prune-growers of the state, and there are to be no pecuniary profits or dividends paid to any member or stockholder.

At a meeting of the Willamette Valley Prune Growers' Association last week the matter of insurance on prune driers was brought up and discussed, and it was finally decided that the rates charged by the old line companies were too high, so it was proposed that a committee be appointed to investigate the workings of the Butteville Hop Growers' Mutual Association, with a view to organizing a similar mutual association, says the Salem correspondent to the Portland Telegram. This committee, after due investigation, called a meeting last Wednesday, made a favorable report, which was adopted and a temporary association was organized and a board of directors appointed with instructions to complete the organization and incorporate.

The Board of Directors of the Prune Growers' Fire Relief Association, however, held a meeting on Saturday evening last, and decided not to complete the organization of the association, but to accept instead a proposition made them by the Oregon Fire Relief Association, of McMinnville, which was considered very fair and favorable to the growers.

Under the state laws it would have been necessary for the association to secure $300,000 worth of risks, the maximum amount to be carried by any one man to be $1000, before they could do business. This would require the patronage of at least 300 growers within the state, and to secure this amount of business in time to insure before prune drying begins would require the employment of about a dozen solicitors, at considerable expense to the association, the funds for which would have to be advanced by the promoters. In the Oregon Fire Relief Association the same plan and proportion of rates will be charged as in the old line companies, but only 50 per cent of the old rate will constitute an assessment.

AN EXCURSION TRAIN WRECKED.
Chief of Police Burns on Train and Escaped Uninjured.

An excursion train on the Northern Pacific, consisting of an engine and several coaches, en route to the Elks' clam bake at Olympia, was wrecked at 11 o'clock last Saturday morning, two miles south of Chehalis, Washington. Two people were killed and about thirty injured. The train left Portland about 7:30 Saturday morning, crowded with prominent Elks, their friends and families. The train was running at a good rate of speed when the rails spread throwing the engine down an embankment forty feet. Three coaches piled on top of the engine, and to add to the horror of the scene, the boiler of the engine exploded, throwing scalding water and steam for several yards around.

The fourth, fifth and sixth coaches left the track, but only the front end of the fourth car went over the bank. The seventh coach did not leave the rails.

Nearly every one in the first coach was injured, the most of them having fractured limbs. Those who escaped injury started in to assist the injured and pull them from the wreck. Several doctors were on the train and within a short time were at work on the sufferers.

A messenger was hurried to Chehalis with the news and a train of flat cars was sent to the scene of the wreck to bear the injured to the hospital. Every doctor in Chehalis and Centralia hurried to the wreck and a special train was sent from Tacoma with doctors and nurses.

C. B. Farleman, who was killed in the wreck, conducted a cigar and confectionery store in Portland, and was the oldest living member of the Portland lodge of Elks. T. E. Daniels, son of Ex-Lieutenant-Governor Daniels, of Washington, and a reporter on the Oregonian, had an arm broken, hand crushed and leg fractured, but was able to telegraph the news of the accident to his paper. The other person killed outright was a tramp, who was helping on the engine.

OREGON CITY PEOPLE WERE THERE.
Chief of Police Chas. Burns, was the only Oregon Cityite who was a passenger on the Northern Pacific Elks' excursion train that was derailed Saturday near Chehalis. Chief Burns, Mr. and Mrs. W. Cole, Dr. W. E. Carl and E. J. Danton, all of this city, went to Portland to join the excursion, but of that party Mr. Burns was the only one to reach the depot in time to take the excursion train, the other members of the party being passengers on the regular overland that left afterwards. For a time following the announcement of the accident there was considerable anxiety among the relatives of the members of the party here as to their safety.

At the time of the accident Chief Burns, in company with a traveling man, was standing on the platform of the rear coach of the train, and it is a coincidence that they were discussing the possible extent of the damage that might follow if the train should leave the track.

The first intimation Chief Burns had that anything was wrong was the sound of the boiler exploding, which was plainly heard above the roar of the train that was going at the rate of more than fifty miles an hour. This disturbance was followed almost instantly by a fearful lurching of the train, the rear coach alms leaving the track. A second concussion caused much confusion in the last car, where all of the passengers were thrown violently from their seats. Chief Burns hastened to the demolished cars and gave a helping hand in caring for the injured. He gives a graphic description of the scenes of the accident, and says the railroad company is in his opinion entirely responsible for the accident, because the train crew proceeded with the engine in its evident unsafe and dangerous condition under protest.

CANNOT LIVE TOGETHER.
Two Dissatisfied Married Couples Desire to be Separated.

Julius Galbraith has sued Sarah Ann Galbraith for a divorce and the custody of four minor children. They were married at Winnipeg, Canada, in September 1874. The husband charges the spouse with being possessed of a cross and irritable temper that greatly disturbs the domestic tranquility of his home. Stella A. McCord is the plaintiff in a second divorce suit filed in the Clackamas county circuit court this week. She alleges that her husband, Walter A. McCord, is a habitual drunkard and that he has deserted her. They have been married since February 1898. Geo. C. Brownell is the attorney for the plaintiff in each suit.

CAME FROM DENMARK.—Lars Anderson, a native of Denmark, died at the Electric hotel last Friday morning, of cancer of the stomach. The deceased was aged 70 years, 2 months and 2 days. As relatives, he had only two nephews in this country. They are: F. B. Madison, of Highland, and Peter Madison, of Carus. Deceased emigrated to this country from Denmark and located in Iowa, where he resided for eight years, when he came to Oregon, locating at Highland, where he lived for 22 years.

REFUSE TO SELL

Owners of Fairclough Mine Will Hold Property.

Rejected an Offer of $20,000—One Ton of Ore to be Sent to San Francisco.

It is reported that Fairclough Bros., of this city, who together with Portland parties own one of the most promising claims in the Molalla mining district, this week refused an offer of $20,000 for their property. While the rumor could not be confirmed, it is known that the owners of this claim have received several flattering offers all of which have been refused. It is the purpose of those holding the property to prospect the claim for all it is worth and if the present promising prospects hold out, it is their purpose to put in a plant.

G. W. Grace and R. Lee Westover, of this city, returned last Friday from Ogle Creek on the upper Molalla where the Fairclough claim is located. They report that nearly thirty of the claims are being worked by prospectors while many other claims have been staked out and the locators have returned to their homes. Many new people are going into the mining district daily and the excitement that followed the first substantial discovery a month ago does not diminish. The owners of the Fairclough mine are daily sending out a quantity of the decomposed gold-charged ore and when a ton has been brought to this city, it will be sent to a reliable assayer in San Francisco and upon his findings largely depends the future operations in this district. Samples of the ore have assayed $42.20 to the ton. It is the belief of mining men that if a ton of the ore assays proportionately with the samples that have already been tested, that the entire region of the Molalla in the neighborhood of Ogle Creek is rich with deposits of the yellow metal.

PREPARING FOR A LOG BOOM

W. P. & P. Co. is Constructing a Weir—Will Not Cause Overflow.

The Willamette Pulp & Paper Company, having recently acquired title to Rock Island in the Willamette river near New Era, is building a weir that extends from the lower end of the island to the mainland on the east. By means of this obstruction the company expects to provide a suitable place for the booming of its logs during the winter months. People residing on the east side of the river in the vicinity of the island are alarmed that the building of the weir will cause the overflow of the river during the high water season with the result that damage to property will follow. They have intimated that injunction proceedings may be resorted to, that the further building of the weir may be defeated. The management of the mills explains that the weir will not exceed in height the highest stage reached by the river last winter and say that it will be so constructed that damage to property cannot follow. The weir is being constructed of twelve foot planks set four inches apart. All water that will not pass through the weir in the east channel will be sufficiently deepened to accommodate the increased volume. In this way the company expects to avoid all possibility of any back water resulting from the construction of the weir.

Boy Cured of Colic After Physician's Treatment Had Failed.

My boy when four years old was taken with colic and cramps in his stomach. I sent for the doctor and he injected morphine, but the child kept getting worse. I then gave him half a teaspoonful of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and in half an hour he was sleeping and soon recovered.—F. L. WILKINS, Shell Lake, Wis.
