

CORRESPONDENCE

Correspondents are requested to re-new their work. We will supply all necessary stationery. The news from your neighborhood should appear in these columns every week.

George

Farmers have improved their property considerably this last year. The needed is a few miles of good road in the Eagle Creek bottom to come to the nearest railroad station.

A great many head of cattle and hogs were brought to Portland from this neighborhood this fall.

The boys were out to charivari a newly married couple last night and expect to have some more fun in the same way in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt are in their usual health, after their accident of upsetting the buggy.

Mr. Hans Paulsen lost a valuable horse last Sunday. It was kicked by another horse and had its leg broken so that it had to be killed.

Mr. C. Beck, of Aurora, was visiting his friends here.

Some time ago Mr. H. Klinker shot a panther instead of a deer for which he was hunting.

Miss Ida Boberts, of Firwood, is teaching her first term of school here with good success.

Our church has a new coat of paint, which makes it look a great deal better. Rev. Grafenstein will preach here the first Sunday in September.

Some more of the boys have joined the Maccabee lodge at Eagle Creek at their last meeting.

Julius Paulsen, our school clerk, visited the school the other day and presented all the children with a ruler and a biot.

Bert Marston is putting up a shingle mill on his place, to run by steam.

A Remarkable Case.

One of the most remarkable cases of a cold, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E. Fenner, Marion, Ind. who was entirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and draining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." Sold by Geo. A. Harding.

Canby.

The Canby Packing Co. opened a store and commenced business here last Thursday.

Our streets are now lighted by electric lights. It is a great improvement over the old way.

Carus is booming, though she has been

Amy Thomas and Dolly White were at Mr. Cooper's Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Faust and family spent Sunday with Mr. Howard and family.

Edgar May, of Meadowbrook, called on relatives in Carus Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Spratz and daughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

Agnes Wallace, of Mulino, is working at B. Helvey's.

A number of Carusites attended the party at Mr. Hardesty's Saturday evening. As Mr. and Mrs. Hardesty's parties are always very enjoyable affairs, a number were disappointed in not being able to go.

The dance at Martin's was a great success, although the Carus crowd was not very well represented, owing to the fact that a number of them started and took the wrong road, and didn't get there "till the dance broke up."

G. Thomas' slippers took the prize at Martin's.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. Kodol cures indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does not only cure indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy cures all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Mr. S. S. Ball, of Evenswood, W. Va., says: "I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk and baby." Kodol Digests What You Eat.

A Good Name.

From personal experience I testify that DeWitt's Little Early Risers are unequalled as a liver pill. They are rightly named because they give strength and energy and do their work with ease. -W. T. Easton, Boerne, Tex. Thousands of people are using these tiny little pills in preference to all others, because they are so pleasant and effectual. They cure biliousness, torpid liver, jaundice, sick headache, constipation, etc. They do not purge and weaken, but cleanse and strengthen. Sold by Geo. A. Harding.

Dover.

How nice it is to see the sun shine once more. It looks like a spring morning.

People in this neighborhood are suffering from severe colds. Some of the children are compelled to stay at home from school.

The hens are all on a strike, and consequently eggs are very scarce.

Mr. Brown went on a wolf chase one night last week. He sent to Portland after a new rifle, but he didn't get his gun until after he had made the chase.

For Young Men and Young Women.

There is nothing that will arouse the ire of a young man or woman so quick as to have inferior laundry work put off on them. They may dress ever so well, but if their shirt front or shirt waist is mussed, their neat appearance is spoiled. The Troy Laundry makes a specialty of ladies' and gentlemen's fine work. There can be no better work than is done at the Troy. Leave your orders at Johnson's barber shop.

THE LEONINE DUMAS.

How His Worshipers Adored Their Literary Idol.

One evening in the beginning of June I was taken to the residence of Dumas, on the Boulevard Malesherbes, by an intimate friend of the great novelist. As one thinks of a lion, with his shaggy mane full of the jungle burrs of adventure, so I can see the author of "Monte-Christo" as he appeared on that memorable evening. Standing about were women friends, actresses, writers, poets, attracted by a world of romance symbolized in the figure seated in the middle of the salon. I was instantly impressed with two things—the frescoes on the walls and the attitude of the host. He sat like a silent oracle, surrounded by a crowd of female admirers, the whole company set off by panels representing life sized figures from Goethe's great drama—Faust, Mephistopheles, Marguerite. There were no other pictures in the room. The influence of these figures, the attitude of Dumas and his worshipers, concentrated the mind on the quintessential element of romance. Half indifferent he sat, as some handsome young woman would stroke his head, while another would place her hand on his shoulder, as they might have done with an old lion long tamed and without teeth. There was nothing to distract the mind from the harmony of idea and personality—the company of women might have been part of the frescoes and Dumas the creator of "Faust" instead of "Monte-Christo." There was an enchanted element about the people and the room.

The whole company conversed among themselves, standing as if they were at court, while the host sat still and mused. I was held by the mystery, the fascination of the romantic atmosphere, the peculiar spell of the huge mass that filled the fauteuil like an idol of adamant. For there was something of the idol about the man. I thought of a Buddha statue in a sitting posture, corpulent at the base, crisp at the top. The lower part of the face was of porcine dimensions, the skin swarthy, the hair curly, the expression of the eyes calm and sphinx-like. He was a man who not only had invented life, but had seen it.—Critic.

DEER LACK STAMINA.

The Wild and Fleet Footed Animals Are Soon Fagged Out.

"It seems to be the opinion of a great many people that deer and antelope are at the top notch among animals as far as speed is concerned," said a Dakota ranchman. "I have often heard the expressions 'as swift as an antelope' and 'he can run like a deer'; but the fact is any good horse can run over Mr. Deer or Mr. Antelope within a mile on level or nearly level ground.

"I will guarantee to take any first class cow pony and run down any deer that ever lived inside of two miles, provided the ground be level and the deer has no more than twenty-five or thirty yards start. I often have seen cowboys run down and rope a deer within half a mile. This, of course, can only be done when you are riding up the wind and surprise a bunch of deer or antelope feeding or lying down in a depression where they do not see or scent you till you are almost on them. Over a rough or hilly country your horse wouldn't be in it with a deer.

"The action of a deer under full speed reminds me of nothing so much as a seashell sent ricocheting over the surface of smooth water. They don't gallop; they simply bound, and that is where they lose speed over level ground. But I have seen deer bound straight up the side of a mountain and go fully as fast as if on the level, and no living animal can catch them at the uphill game.

"Deer have tremendous vitality. I have never seen one drop instantly when shot. They will make a jump or two even when shot through the heart.

"Your true deer hunter will never shoot a deer running from him, as the bullet will invariably spoil the hams and hind quarters. Most of the western deer hunters can turn a deer when he is running full speed from him with a shrill whistle. The deer almost always will turn to see what that sound means, only for a fraction of a second, perhaps, but that is the hunter's opportunity, and Mr. Deer generally gets it in the neck about that time."—New York Press.

Effect of Music on Animals.

At the zoo the zebra, wild ass, deer and ostrich went into paroxysms of rage at the sound of the piccolo, although they had manifested various signs of pleasure over the violin and flute. The tiger was asleep and refused to be awakened by the fiddler and flutist. But when the man with the piccolo began to play the animal sprang furiously to its feet and rushed angrily up and down the cage, lashing its tail. So extreme was the beast's anguish that the piccolo man speedily gave place to the flutist. The difference in effect was at once apparent. The tiger stopped, listened, lay down and purred like a kitten in its enjoyment of the grateful sounds, and presently fell asleep in luxurious repose.—London Spectator.
