A RABBIT CAT.

The Manx Tallless Feline Was Once a Seaconst Frenk.

It seems probable that the talliess Manx cats originally came from Cornwall. They managed to survive longer as a distinct breed in the Isle of Man than in Cornwall, the predominance of the common talled cut being of course aided in the latter district by the fact that, although remote, it is part of the mainland of England, whereas new cuts could be carried to the Isle of Man only by sea. The Manx cut which first attracted modern attention was a very different animal from the variously colored specimens which now take prizes at cat shows. It was always of the color of a hare and had fur like a hare.

Like a hare, too, it siways moved its hind legs together. Its chief food was crabs caught on the beach, and when transported inland from the seacoasts it very seldom, if ever, survived long. No cat of this kind has been seen for Josephine, 7; Klamath, 4; Lake, 4; Lane, 19; Lincoln, 5; Linn, 14; Marion, 23; Polk, 9; Tillamook, 5; Washington, 13; Yazohill, 11; total, 177.

The same being one delegate-at-large for each county, one for every 150 votes from, the Cornish or Manx cut was more marily a senarate appears than more nearly a separate species than any kind of show cut now existing. It was a sencoast animal, with fur, color, absence of tall and method of locomotion obviously adapted by the inheritance of ages to its habit of entching crabs and other small life behind the ebbing tide.

To Avoid a Tie Vote. In the history of our comic literature there have been many genuine "Irish bulls" recorded, but rarely one that is of a neater brand than that encountered at a political gathering on Locust street above Broad, in Philadelphia, mays the Record of that city. A convention of delegates had been called to revise the rules of the party, and in order to expedite matters a delegate moved that a committee of fifteen be appointed to draft the proposed rules. Before this was adopted another delegate suggested that a committee of fifteen would be unwieldy and proposed an amendment reducing the number to eight. This was agreed to, but before its adoption an aged delegate, with a rich Milesian brogue, arose and sol-emnly proposed, "Misther Chairman, I move yer that the committee be incr'ased to noine, so that in case of a tole vote there'll be a majarity of wan."

Jean Paul Richter. Jean Paul Richter once observed that if a lady officer wanted to give the word "Halt!" she would do it in the following strain: "You soldiers, all of you, now mind what I say. I order you as soon as I have done speaking to stand still, every one of you, on the spot where you happen to be. Don't you hear me? Halt, I say, all of you!" Upon this a strongminded woman made the following comment: "Now, M. Jean, it was an unlucky day on which you wrote that sentence.
