The ticket had now been all provided for except coroner and surveyor. Counting hose who had declined nominations and the large number of delegates who had retired from the hall, there were not many eligible candidate- about. In fact the convention was almost too dead to provide the means for a respectable in-Dr. M. C. Strickland and Dr. ment. W.E. Carli retused the commanion in turn and then some delegate proposed Col. R. A. Miller. Well Bob did not know just what io say but he thought he did not possess the qualifications and got out of it by naming Chas. Notett. The local police officer suggested that Miller was somewhat out of order since he. Noblett, was a Republicat and the convention was composed of Democrats After a further lapse, a delegate proposed that these two places and any other vaexomes that might exist on the ticket should be filled by the county central committee. The motion was carried and the convention adjourned until 7 o'clock when it was intended to nominate candid des for justice of the peace and constable At that hour a quorum was not to be found and, if you please, according to the records, the Democratic convention must be, necessavily, still in session.

ported to live on terms of the greatest amity, and the shopkeeper himseif, who is fortunately in good circumstances. professes to be perfectly contented not withstanding that he is thus the thirteenth of his family. The incessant banter to which he is subjected he philosophically welcomes as tending toward the better advertisement of his business.

An Ultra Modern Child.

Margaret's mother numbers among her friends several schooltenchers, and, although she is not yet five, Margaret has observed some things. Not long ago a family of kittens made an entree into Margaret's home, and she was most anxious to keep them all. Her mother objected on the ground that they were all girl pussies and would eventually grow up into mother cats.

"No, they won't, mother," said Margaret very earnestly. "I won't let them be mothers; I'll train them to be teachers."-Brooklyn Life.

The Silver Bridge.

One of the customs observed at a Bohemian marriage feast is that of making the bride cross a silver bridge. The bride's father-in-law lifts her on to the table, where she walks on two rows of silver coins, at the end of which her husband stands and receives her into his arms. The silver bridge typifies the wealth with which her bridegroom hopes to smooth her path in life.

A Crushed Genius.

"So Josh didn't hold his position very long?"

"No." answered Mrs. Corntossel. "But it wasn't the boy's fault. It wasn't dr weeks before he knew so much more about how to run the business than the man who owned it that they got jealous and discharged him."-Washington Star.

Easily Believed.

"Many have said that if Longfellow were living today he could not sell his poems," remarked the girl with the book.

"I'm sure of it." replied the amateur poet. "Why, I haven't been able to sell mine."-Philadelphia Record.

A little boy in a Virginia Sunday school, when asked to tell something about Solomon, replied, "He's the man that knowed it all."

Always Gets the Last Word, "Say, pa," queried little Billy Bloobumper, "what's an echo?"

"An echo, my son," replied the old man, with a sigh long drawn out, "is the only thing that can flimfiam a woman sut of the last word."-Lyre.
