Summary Crop Report .- Good rains ocurred last Twesday and Wednesday neary everywhere in the state, and since then the weather has been warm and bright, which has promoted the rapid growth of all early sown grops. The top soil near the close of the week in some localities was beginning to get dry, and many correspondents reported that more rain was needed for late seeded grain and were making a relatively slow growth. The ranges are better than for a number of years, and stock is in excellent condition. The flow of milk in the dairy districts is abundant, and the supply being received at the creameries has about reached its maximum point for the year. Sheep shearing continues in some localities, but this work is drawing a quantity and quality, making satisfactory advancement and early sown spring Wheat, barley and oats are thrifty and premising. A few complaints have been received of damage by wire worms. Corn planting is well along and potato planting is advancing rapidly. Hops, gardens and field onlons have done well during the week, and in general the outlook for staple crops throughout the state is most promising. Early blooming fruit was considerably, thinged by the late frosts, but fairly good yields are expected of all varieties except Italian primes, which in many sections will be a complete failure. Apples have set well.
