Deputy Fish Commissioner H. A. Webster, of Clackamas, was in the city this week gathering evidence that will be used against fishermen in this locality who have been violating the statutes by catching salmon at the falls with the aid of dip nets. Several local fishermen were observed in the act by Mr. Webster, and arrests will likely follow. The law provides that all fishing in the Willamette river for salmon, except with hook and line, shall cease June 15, but the law is known to have been very generally violated here.

Among the notable features of the Argonaut for June 27th will be "Hurry and Anger in Travel," by Jerome Hart, who not only gives good advice but humorously illustrates the point of it; "High Life at Ovelo," a humorous cattle-country story by the late George S. Evans, an article giving a condensed but complete account of the great bay disaster by which one thousand people lost their lives in New York harbor; a letter from "Cockalene," describing the visit made by the Alake of Abcoquia to King Edward; a criticism of E. H. Southern in "The Proud Prince" at the Columbia Theater, by Josephine Hart Phelps.

At a special meeting of the city council Monday night the chief of police was instructed to proceed against all persons in Sewer District No. 3 who have not connected with the sewer as required by law. There are 24 families in this district who have not yet made the required connections. A notice providing for the improvement of Center street from First to Sixteenth streets was ordered published, as was a similar notice providing for the improvement of Third street from the east line of Main street to the east line of Railroad avenue. These two improvements are for the purpose of connecting the two streets with the new South End road. The improvement of Third street will include an underground crossing at the Southern Pacific tracks. The committee on streets and public property was authorized to put in two corner blocks at the intersection of Fifth and Center streets, and also three catch basins on Center street.

John Minto, of Salem, father of John W. Minto, Portland's postmaster-elect, came up to Oregon City yesterday to try and find where he had burned charcoal for the market in 1845, says the Journal correspondent in Wednesday's paper. Mr. Minto came to Oregon in 1845, and his first work here was burning charcoal. At this he made a little money and got his start in the West. He looked all around on the bluff yesterday afternoon trying to find any indications of coal on the ground that would show him where he had worked over half a century ago. He was not very successful, as the ground has changed much since he labored, but on Ninth and Washington streets, directly in front of the home of H. L. Kelly, is the remains of Mr. Minto's first work. At this spot there is scattered around on the ground considerable coal, but it would not be noticed unless one knew the place. If Mr. Minto did not find the place where he first toiled it is still there and can be pointed out to him.

MONEY AND RING STOLEN.

Unusual and Mysterious Burglary at the Cliff House.

Wednesday night the room at the Cliff House occupied by Julius Grazer, night-watch at the woolen mill plant of the Oregon City Manufacturing company, was entered and $15 in money, together with a gold ring, were abstracted from a trunk, the lock of which had been picked.

A mysterious circumstance disclosed Thursday morning at the house in which the burglary took place, was the discovery of George Joyce, in an unconscious condition at the foot of the stairs leading to the cellar. It is not known whether Joyce had a mix-up with the burglar and was knocked down cellar, or whether he fell down stairs. Joyce was badly bruised about the face and head, but the injuries could have been sustained in falling down a flight of stairs. The injured man is still unconscious and nothing definite can be learned from him until he regains his senses. Altogether the reported burglary and the finding of Joyce in an unconscious condition constitute a mystery that awaits solution.

Clothes with Style to Them

Men are often critical—they know exactly what they want—when going to buy clothes. Critical men can come here with a preconceived idea of what they want, and their desires will be satisfied in every detail. To be well dressed is after all as much a matter of judgment as of money. It merely involves good judgment in selecting a reliable value at a price consistent with the quality. Our clothing is reliable and is sold at the very lowest prices which the quality of the goods and a safe business policy will warrant.

We Must Reduce Our Stock

In order to do so are compelled to make stirring values in clothing. Note some of our many record-breaking bargains:

- $10 black clay worsted suits, very nobby, to go at $6.45
$10 blue serge suits, all wool, right up to date, to go at $6.45
$12.50 suits in the newest patterns, latest military cut, now $9.60

Many other values in men's and children's clothing, furnishings, shoes, etc., that we defy competition. Come and look over our exposition of money saving values.
