> Saw a Real, Live Cougar.-W. H. H. Samson and Earl McAdam, who returned Monday morning from Dodge in the Clackaman county foothills, report an experience, the pleasantest part of which was the distance that separated themselves from a mountain cougar to which they were unexpectedly introduced. Sun-Having driven a herd of cattle to the ranch of Frank Busch at Dodge, Samson and McAdam repaired to a deserted log cabin, where they passed night without incident, having taken the precaution to securely barricade the doors and windows. In the morning an attempt was made to start a fire, but the chimney refered to expel the smoke. A hasty investigation revealed a large mountain cougar secluded in the mouth of the Being without guns and ammunition, the Oregon Cityites did not argue the question, but decamped, leaving the quadruped the sole occupant of the cabin. Cougars are more pientiful in the foothills this year than ever before, and the settlers have suffered great loss to their herds on this account. McAdam declares he will never go to the mountains again except he is accompanied by a good-sized battery and an abundance of

Painting the Roof

Many people put off painting their roofs until they are covered with moss, thinking no doubt they are being economical, when in reality they are just the reverse. In the end it is far better economy to paint all build ings than to let them go to pieces for the want of a few dollars' worth of paint. From our experience we are sure there is no paint quite so good for roofs as Sherwin-Williams Creosote Paint, but on account of its price ($1.25 per gallon) some people think they cannot afford it. For those people who want something that will wear well at a low price, we have secured the famous Trinidad Roof Paint. It is a beautiful black, is equally good for tin, iron or wood, will fill cracks and prevent leaking. One gallon will cover about 300 feet of tin, iron or smooth wood. We are making a special price of 80 cents a gallon to introduce it. Let us give you a pamphlet showing what it will do.
