The fishway over the Willamette Falls at Oregon City was this week completed. This improvement will enable the salmon to reach the upper Willamette river and its tributary streams for spawning purposes. The fish ladder was designed by J. W. Moffitt, of this city, under the direction of Fish Warden VanDusen. It consists of a succession of pools blasted from the solid rock at intervals of three feet, enabling the salmon to ascend the Falls which are 25 feet high. The improvement was paid for by the state which made an appropriation of $5000. This was adequate to meet all cost. By an established law, fishing is prohibited within 500 feet of the new fishway.

One of the city's obliging and vigilant guardians of the peace and a West Side motorman had a rather exciting chase Tuesday night after a stranger that was supposed to be the fugitive murderer Okman of Hillsboro. The stranger was detected on the suspension bridge early in the evening. He resembled the Washington County murderer and as soon as he became aware that he was being watched, took every means to evade the officers and finally escaped from the city by way of Canemah. In explanation of the man's strange actions, it was afterwards learned that the fellow had during the day pawned a gold watch at a local store and it is suspected that the watch was stolen property.

Surface—Irwin Wedding.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Irwin, parents of the bride, in Garfield township, Clackamas county, Or., on the 24th of August, 1904, Mr. E. F. Surface and Miss Lillian Irwin were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. S. Black, at 7:30 p. m. in the presence of nearly fifty invited guests. The chosen colors, pink and white, were tastefully displayed. During the playing of a wedding march, the contracting parties entered the parlor and stood under a decorated arch. There were four flower girls in the party. After the ceremony and congratulations, refreshments were served.

Both bride and groom have established enviable reputations as teachers. Mr. Surface has a fine residence in course of construction at Estacada, to which he will take his bride in the near future. Mr. and Mrs. Surface are among the most highly respected people of the community in which they have lived.

EILERS PIANO HOUSE. To Hold a Special Sale of High Grade Pianos in Oregon City for Ten Days.

This announcement should interest every piano buyer in Oregon City, as it affords you an opportunity of purchasing a piano at home at the same price as our floors in Portland. Realizing that it takes time to come to Portland to make your selection, and from the number of inquiries received relative to pianos and prices from your city, we have concluded to ship an assortment of fine pianos to our local agents, Burmeister & Andersen and inaugurate at Suspension Bridge Corner a double-quick small profit sale and dispose of the entire lot in ten days. This means much to piano buyers as we realize that to dispose of a large number of pianos in this length of time, marvelous price cutting will have to be indulged in. This is exactly what we propose to do. Easy terms of payments can be arranged. We will simply leave you without an excuse on this piano proposition. Store open every evening. The wonderful Pianola will be on exhibition and for sale.

Come in and spend a pleasant evening, hear some good music, select your piano and go home happy.

Remember the place—Burmeister & Andersen's, Suspension Bridge corner.

EILERS PIANO HOUSE, W. H. Weir, General Agent.

While Intoxicated, Frank M. Ford, Steamboat Man Loses Life.

Frank M. Ford, a local steamboat laborer, was accidentally drowned in the Willamette river near the O. R. & N. Company's dock in this city about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. The body was recovered about two hours later.

At the time of the accident, for suicide was evidently not contemplated, Ford was intoxicated and it was while attempting to recover his hat, that he was drowned. The dead man came to Oregon City several years ago from Salem and has always worked as a laborer on the different river steamers having for some time prior to his death been employed on the Pomona. Tuesday evening he was dismissed from the boat because of his intoxicated condition and he was again put off the same boat when he tried to go aboard again Wednesday morning, being still under the influence of liquor. He returned to the business district of the city and while standing on the O. R. & N. Company's dock, the wind blew his hat into the river. He descended the ladder at the wharf and in attempting to reach for the hat, slipped and fell into a deep hole from which he was unable to save himself. He was seen to enter the water but disappeared before any help could reach him.

Ford was a young man about 35 years of age and was unmarried. Suicide was not the purpose of the young man, evidently, for he had just invested in a new suit of clothes; a pair of shoes and hat, presumably with the intention of preparing to get other employment. He had only five cents when the body was found.

Coroner Holman conducted an inquest Wednesday afternoon, the jury returning a verdict of death by accidental drowning. The remains were given burial here.
