IS READY FOR WORK

CLACKAMAS COUNTY PRODUCERS
ENTHUSE OVER EXHIBIT.

Executive Committee is Named to Collect and Arrange Products at 1905 Fair.

Twenty-two of the thirty-seven members of the general committee appointed to arrange for an exhibit of Clackamas county products at the Lewis & Clark Fair attended a meeting of that committee held at the court house last Saturday. An executive committee of nine members was named to have general charge of the exhibit, in the gathering and arranging of which it is to have the help of the members of the general committee. The executive committee is to hold a meeting next Monday, October 24, when organization will be had and rules of procedure determined upon.

County Judge Ryan and the members of the county court were in attendance at the meeting, the former acting as chairman of the meeting. E. E. Brodie was appointed secretary. After a general discussion of the proposed exhibit, a motion was successful providing for a nominating committee to consist of five members, this committee to name the executive committee. Those appointed on the nominating committee were: Judge Ryan, Oregon City, No. 1; H. E. Cross, Abernathy; Henry Gans, Oswego; J. S. Vaughan, Union; Mrs. Mary S. Howard, Multnomah. This committee named the executive committee, which was ratified by the general committee. The executive committee consists of: Henry Gans, Oswego; J. T. Apperson, Abernathy; W. B. Stafford, Oregon City, No. 3; Mrs. Mary S. Howard, Multnomah; Dr. J. W. Thomas, Molalla; George Lazzelle, New Era; Mrs. George A. Harding, Oregon City, No. 2; J. W. Roots, Boring; and Harvey C. Starkweather, Milwaukie.

Judge Ryan informed the committee that he had secured floor space 25x40 feet in the agricultural building, this being the greatest amount of space allotted any other county. Clackamas county can show a great variety of products. For instance, in addition to all the products of the farm and orchard, this county is perhaps the only county in the state that produces iron, wool and paper.

The executive committee is a good one and is capable of preparing an exhibit of such an extent and worth as an advertisement to the county that the people of the county will have every reason to take pride in claiming a residence in Clackamas.

WILL HAVE SCHOOL EXHIBIT.

Clackamas County Educators Decide to Have Display at 1905 Fair.

At a meeting of the Clackamas county teachers held at the office of Superintendent Zinser last Saturday afternoon, it was decided to make an exhibit of the work of the schools of the county at the Lewis & Clark Fair. Prof. H. S. Lyman, of Astoria, superintendent of the educational department of the 1905 Fair, was present and informed the teachers that if the educational exhibit, from this county is made a part of the State's educational exhibit, then the Fair Commission will meet the cost of the paper and the binding incident to the display. Details of the exhibit were discussed but the detailed arrangements for collecting and arranging the same will be arranged for a subsequent meeting.

Superintendent Zinser has received an invitation to go to St. Louis and assume charge of Oregon's educational exhibit for the concluding month of the World's Fair. The invitation to take charge of the exhibit also includes its packing and shipment to Oregon. Mr. Zinser has the invitation under consideration and may decide to accept it for the value the experience would be to him in collecting and arranging an exhibit from this county for the 1905 Fair.

LET THE MAJORITY BE LARGE.

Every Republican Should See That Entire Precinct Vote is Polled.

In the words of the street, there will be "nothing to it" in the November election in Oregon but the vote-counting to ascertain the size of the majority for Roosevelt and Fairbanks. What is true of the State is equally true of Clackamas county in which there are many Democrats who will vote for the Republican standard bearers and the definitely defined policies for which they stand.

Every loyal Republican in every precinct in the county should not only go to the polls himself on November 8th, but he should see that every Republican vote in his precinct is cast as well, that the majority may be decisive and without precedent. Precinct pride should suggest the getting out of a full vote.

Commenting along this line the Newberg Graphic says:

"For the indifferent voter who thinks Oregon will go Republican anyway, and for the voter who is appealed to by other than purely patriotic sentiments, there is plenty of food for reflection between now and November 8th. A thirty thousand Republican majority would mean for Oregon more river and harbor improvements, more internal improvements in general, more favorable legislation, than would an indifferent majority. The President has been a great friend to Oregon in furthering and guaranteeing the interests of the Lewis & Clark exposition. Will Oregon show her gratitude in a substantial manner? If so, she will stand in direct line for more favors in the future."

WHAT MIGHT TAKE PLACE.

Friendly Relations Between O. W. P. and S. P. Companies Provokes Comment.

The interest that is being manifested by officials of the Oregon Water Power

& Railway Company for the passage of the perpetual franchise ordinance in favor of the Southern Pacific Company by the Oregon City council is considered to be not without significance to some Oregon City people who discuss their theories as to the real motive of the unusually friendly relations existing between the two corporations.

While the Southern Pacific franchise ordinance has been under consideration by the members of the council it is claimed by these inquisitive individuals that there has not been held a meeting at which some prominent official of the O. W. P. Company has not been in attendance in the interest of the ordinance. Another significant fact, it is claimed, is that two of the members of the council who are regularly employed by the street railway company are unqualifiedly for a perpetual franchise.

These friendly relations have provoked some comment as to the motives. There is a belief among some citizens that in event of the passage of the ordinance the street railway company may acquire the right to extend a track through the Third street underground crossing and thence to Canemah Park via the South End road. This is the only feasible route for reaching the company's pleasure resort and besides would afford a splendid outlet to the interior of the county which the street car managers have long been desirous of acquiring.

By establishing a side-track alongside the tracks of the Southern Pacific Company, it is also reasoned that there would be an abundance of room within the limits of the proposed right of way for the convenient interchange of freight between the two companies. It is further claimed that there are grounds for this theory in the fact that the railroad company insists on having its proposed additional sidetracks extend beyond the point of the intersection of Third street with the South End road.

The conclusions above outlined are perhaps more theoretical than practical. A hurried consideration of the proposition suggested in the foregoing, seems to show that the theory is not at all feasible. The grade over the South End road is too great for the successful transportation of cars and, besides, the width of the road is not sufficient to construct a railway track and at the same time reserve any space for a roadway.

WOULD PAY FOR THE BASKET.

An Iowan, Formerly of Oregon City, Discovers He Has a Conscience.

One's conscience is a troublesome thing. Evidence of its disturbing qualities are revealed every day. For instance, the Enterprise this week received a letter from M. A. Kirby, of Mount Airy, Iowa, who after a lapse of eight years, is desirous of reimbursing the owner for the value of a basket that he obtained from a tramp in this city. In his letter Kirby relates that while living at Oregon City eight years ago, he made an exchange with a tramp by which he received a good basket in return for some food. He afterwards learned that the basket had been stolen from Gladstone Park and states that he made an effort to locate the owner and have the basket returned, but in this he was unsuccessful. Since going to Iowa, Kirby declares his conscience has been troubling him on the grounds that he did not search as diligently as he should have done in ascertaining the owner.

He now asks that the owner of the basket furnish him with a description of the missing article, which has been worn out and discarded, and he will remit the full value of the basket to the great relief of a much troubled conscience.

CLACKAMAS AGAINST THE WORLD.

Young Helfer Raises a Pig for Which Great Attachment is Formed.

J. H. Wolfer, a leading farmer of Needy, Clackamas county, reports an unusual instance of animal attachment at his farm.

Early in the Summer one of a litter of young pigs began sucking a young Jersey heifer that was then less than a year old. The practice was continued by the porker until it finally abandoned its mother and received its nourishment entirely from the heifer which yielded a flow of milk. Mr. Wolfer says that the pig began its relations with the heifer while the animals were allowed the freedom of the barnyard, the remarkable search for nourishment being made when the heifer was lying on the ground. The porker has now attained such a growth that it is enabled to receive its food while standing as would a calf.

Another surprising result is that the young pig outweighs by twenty pounds any other one of the litter. So unusual is the strange attachment that the heifer bellows and otherwise creates a disturbance if it is not allowed to feed the pig at regular intervals. In order to preserve its value as a milk cow, Mr. Wolfer regularly milks the heifer when the product is not taken by the pig.

MAY HAVE PUBLIC BUILDING.

Government Officials at Washington Inquire as to City's Needs.

Postmaster Randall a few days ago received from the office of the government's supervising architect at Washington, D. C., a letter inquiring as to the amount of space that is now occupied by the Post Office and the Land Office and asking the amount of rent that is being paid for the quarters so occupied.

This is considered locally to be an indication that the government authorities at Washington are investigating the actual needs of a government building at this place. Congressman Hermann having introduced a bill in Congress providing for a sufficient appropriation for such a building.

During the campaign before the June election it will be remembered that Congressman Hermann pledged his Oregon City audience that in event of his election, he would work with the other members of the Oregon delegation and do his very best to secure the passage of his bill providing for a public building at this place.

DID NOT TAKE IT ALL

EXPERT COMPLETES EXAMINATION OF COUNTY RECORDS.

A Few Clerical Errors are Discovered but No Evidence Found of $14,000 "Discrepancy."

According to the report that has been filed with the county court by Mr. Lee, of Portland, who recently "expedited" the books of the present county officials, the courthouse is still in Clackamas county and the fixtures therein remain undisturbed, having not been annexed by the present incumbents. There is also nothing in the report corroboratory of the charge so industriously circulated last June that a discrepancy of $14,000 of any other amount exists in any of the departments at the court house.

Several clerical errors were found by Mr. Lee and reported to the county court. The records in the different departments were found to be kept in a satisfactory manner although the system employed in some of the offices was found to be cumbersome and conducive to the making of mistakes such as those reported. Recommendations were made to the court in connection with the report and all will be taken up and considered at the regular meeting of the court in November.

Fair at Barlow.

The Twentieth Century Grange of Barlow, will hold a fair today and Saturday, Oct. 21 and 22. The new Barlow Hotel has been secured for the occasion, and here the exhibits will be placed, consisting of agricultural products, handwork of all kinds, curios and relics from early days, etc.

The object is to draw the people of the neighborhood together for a social time and members of the Barlow Grange are noted for their hospitality. This evening a literary program will be given and the festivities will close Saturday evening with a dance in Columbia Hall. No one will ever regret having visited Barlow during the Fair.

HOW TO PRESERVE FRUIT JUICES.

Result of Experiment Made at Corvallis Agricultural College.

Experiments by Prof. Pernet at the college have evolved a method by which cider and kindred beverages may be kept sweet for a period of years. Prune juice in a sweet state, put up three years ago was opened the other day and was found to be in as perfect a state of preservation as the day it went into the bottle. Cider, kept for a less period, but long enough to determine that it can be preserved for a man's life time if desired, and was likewise found to be sweet and as pleasant to the taste as the day it was put up. The method prevents any ferment whatever, and leaves the apple juice or prune juice in exactly the same state as when it came out of the fruit. For carrying out the preservative process, bottles or glass vessels capable of being hermetically sealed, are required, and beyond this there is no expense except the labor, and accordingly the process is within the reach of all who desire. With cider apples rotting under the trees or selling at 10 cents per bushel, the process opens a way for converting that which is now a waste into a means of much profit. An industry for the manufacture and preservation of sweet cider for the market by the plan, would undoubtedly develop into a business of large proportions. California has been enriched from the sale of the juice of her grapes, and Oregon by sale of the juice of her apples as sweet cider could put by a handsome profit annually.

Prof. Pernet's method of preservation of cider is as follows:

"As cider comes from the press, it is filtered through asbestos, or any other material which will remove all the pumace that is held in suspension, so that after bottling there will be no sediment. After filtering, the cider is immediately placed in clean bottles, and corked placed loosely on top, the bottles are then put in a steam chest and steam turned on until the contents of the bottles register a temperature of 190 degrees. This heat is maintained for fifteen minutes, the steam is then turned off and allowed to cool down without opening the door. Twenty-four hours afterwards they are again steamed, and twenty-four hours after that the operation is repeated for the last time; while the bottles are still hot, they are tightly corked, and after cooling in the steam chest the corks are dipped in hot tanning wax which finishes the sealing.

"Cider and other fruit juices may be preserved in the same way and used to an advantage in the preparation of many delicacies for the table as well as being used as a beverage."—Corvallis Times.

"Did Not Care If It Did Die."—The other evening during a drenching rain a woman, carrying a young babe in her arms, was observed standing on the depot platform without even the meagre protection of an umbrella. The child was wrapped in a thin garment and was noticeably suffering from exposure. It's clothing being saturated with the rain a woman witness suggested to the indifferent mother that the child be taken within the waiting room where there was a fire, but she made the unusual response: "I do not care, it is going to die anyway." The interested witness volunteered and received the child which was taken into the waiting room and made comfortable until the arrival of the train. The name of the unnatural mother was not learned.

It's a mistake to imagine that itching piles can't be cured; a mistake to suffer a day longer than you can help. Doan's Ointment brings instant relief and a permanent cure. At any drug store, 50 cents.
