TERSELY-TOLD TALES OF THE WEEK'S DOINGS.

Photographed McLoughlin.—D. H. Hendee, Milwaukee's octogenarian, was in the city on business last Saturday. Mr. Hendee claims that he secured the last photograph of Dr. John McLoughlin at his gallery which was located in the building that was formerly known and conducted as the Oregon House.

Ded at Puyallup.—Last Saturday C. N. Greenman received news of the death of his sister, Mrs. J. W. Lewis, at Puyallup, Washington, during the night before. Mrs. Lewis will be remembered as a former resident of this city where her husband was for many years a prominent business man. Burial services were conducted at Puyallup Sunday afternoon.

Revival Fires.—A Gospel Meeting is in progress in the Evangelical Church on Cor. 8th and Madison, near opera house. Various ministers are taking active part. The public is cordially invited to attend. The meetings commence with song and prayer service at 7:30 and the regular service at 8 p.m. and is conducted in the English language. Rev. C. Willey preaching an able sermon Thursday evening.

Looking for a Location.—Dr. L. G. Holland, of Salem, was in the city last Saturday, looking over Oregon City with a view to locating in these parts. Dr. Holland is a former Oregon City boy, being a son of the late H. B. Holland, of Salem. He was graduated from the medical department of Willamette University a year ago and has been practicing his profession in Eastern Washington.

Direct From England.—Mrs. Chas. Wright this week set out a number of rare blackberry and raspberry plants. The varieties came direct from England, being brought to Portland by a lady friend of Mrs. Wright's. There is a considerable difference between the native and the English berry, but the Enterprise will wager that the importation will not surpass the luscious fruit that is produced in this county.

Wants Damages.—Attorney F. G. Eby of Oregon City was in the city yesterday. Mr. Eby was here to prepare the case of the state vs. K. J. Carter et al., which action will soon begin in the Circuit Court. Damages will be asked for malicious prosecution of Chas. Hyslop, who was recently arrested on the charge of larceny and discharged without trial, the Justice considering the evidence to be insufficient to convict.—Woodburn Independent.

Merry Also Dealt in Oats.—Selling goods not his own is not the only charge for which J. J. Merry is wanted in this city. Several days before his sudden departure from this city, leaving numerous creditors, Merry ordered three tons of oats from a Portland commission house. He disposed of the entire shipment to Wilson & Zumwalt, a local livery stable firm for $60 which was added to his other wrongful appropriations. Merry was traced to Seattle where he entirely disappeared. It is believed he has gone to British Columbia.

Is a New Lodging House.—The old Phoenix house, of historical interest because for years it was the home of Dr. John McLoughlin, the founder of Oregon City, has been rented and will be occupied as a lodging house. In making some needed repairs, the original appearance of the building will not be materially altered. Nothing of a definite nature has resulted from the movement that was started a few weeks ago to raise the necessary funds for the purchase of the property, which it was proposed to preserve as a monument to the memory of the founder of Oregon City.

Charge Against Chambers Dismissed.—The charge of embezzlement, preferred against A. Chambers by C. D. Chandler, was dismissed in the Justice court last Friday. Chambers was charged by his employer, Chandler, with having disposed of a quantity of wood for $26 and for which he had not accounted. The case was dismissed upon the showing by the defendant that he was not employed as agent or clerk by Chandler, throwing the case on its merits as a civil proposition. J. U. Campbell was attorney for Mr. Chambers.

An Improved Service.—Oregon City patrons of the Oregon Water Power Company's line, to Portland, are more than pleased with the improved service the company has provided in the way of new cars. These coaches are of the latest improved model, equipped with high-backed chairs, smoking room, and other conveniences, and are well lighted. The cars are a material improvement over the old cars and when the forty-five minute service between this city and Portland is inaugurated, Oregon Cityites will have all that could be asked in the way of speedy and convenient communication with the metropolis.

Prospering in Eastern Oregon.—G. W. Kidder, of Haystack, Crook county, was in the city visiting old friends last week. He returned this week to Eastern Oregon, accompanied by Mrs. Kidder who visited in Oregon City during the summer. Mr. Kidder has been living in Crook county for two years, and reports things fairly prosperous with him, crops having been good both years. However, Mr. Kidder still has interests in Clackamas county, having a small ranch in the vicinity of Mt. Pleasant. Miss Maud Kidder is employed as teacher in the Prineville schools and the younger daughter, Miss Winnie, is attending the State Normal school at Weston.

Registration in Clackamas.—The total registration in Clackamas county was 4439, approximately, the exact number having been determined by deducting the numerous cancellations. In June the total vote cast for Supreme Justice in this county was 4034 while the voting strength of the county is undoubtedly 4500. It is expected that fully 4500 votes will be cast in the county at the November election, a great interest having been awakened by the Local Option agitation. A splendid showing in the way of population would be made if the voters of the county turned out to the number of 4500 to 5000.

Will Develop Property.—The financial Mining Company, of this city, this week closed a contract for the purchase of a Marigold Smelter of fifty tons capacity to be used in the development of its properties in Eastern Clackamas county. This machinery will be installed at the company's claims as soon as the condition of the roads in the spring will permit. Active development work of these properties will then begin. The claims to be worked are the Ester, Silver King, and Mother Lode, consisting of copper, silver and gold deposits. The product from this group of mines was awarded second prize at the recent mining congress held at Portland.

Tolpolar Will Appeal.—Judgment for $50 and nominal damages assessed at one dollar were awarded the plaintiff in the case of A. M. Wolters against I. Tolpolar, in the local justice court. In September, last, Mrs. Wolters in consideration of a loan of $6, delivered to Tolpolar a gold watch

POPULAR PRICE DRUGGISTS

Think of it! a guaranteed hot water bottle for 63 cents!

Remember that we are not under sold and will not be, buying inferior goods at our price is not getting as low a price as ours. Compare the goods--grade for grade--quality for quality--purity for purity. Do that and you will find our prices lower than others. If a competitor makes you a special price on a patent medicine we will cheerfully meet it, and that price will be the future price to everybody. We have no favorites.

Tried to be Impartial.—Among other visitors to the annual fair held by Warner Grange at New Era last Saturday was County Judge Ryan. Among other products to be passed on were eight young bouncing babies. It was the luck or misfortune, as you may construe it, for the Judge to be selected as one of the judges on babies. Now the Judge is not a good woodman, the water in the river was too cold to permit of an escape in that direction, and it was two hours until train time. The only escape for the Judge, and it must be admitted he exercised great discretion was to give the prize to each of the eight babies for an equal length of the time that intervened until train time. While he may not have dispensed any great amount of flattery on any one proud mother he has the satisfaction of knowing that he did not injure the feelings of the other seven.

An Evening of Music.—There was in attendance not a large number of people to enjoy the musicale given last Friday evening at the Congregational church by the members of the faculty of the musical department of Pacific University, under the auspices of the Saturday Club of that church. But the audience was a thoroughly appreciative one, and generously encouraged the young performers. Miss Linehan, the soloist, won the audience from her initial number and obligingly responded to encores after each of her four numbers. Miss Linehan has a splendid soprano and her singing is the more appreciable because of the absence of affectation. She has distinct enunciation. Mr. Chapman, who was just recovering from a two weeks' indisposition, played exceedingly well on the violin, his interpretation of Wienawski's Legend being exceptionally good. Miss Waggoner, the pianist, was heard in but a single number—Waltz Op. 42, Chopin—which offered an opportunity for showing her ability as an instrumentalist although as an accompanist she had already given convincing evidence of that ability. The concert deserved a much larger patronage from the music lovers of the city, who were very much in evidence by their absence.
