Ed. Johnson, proprietor of the Cascade Laundry, says things are coming his way. A derailed street car came nearly telescoping his laundry the other night.

George Demetewekowles and Mary Geanakepepoulous got a marriage license in Chicago the other day. Evidently the lady married for love alone .-- Record-Herald -She also gets a somewhat shorter name

The initial number of the St. Johns Review, a live newsy weekly publication devoted to the business and manufacturing interests of St. Johns, Multnomah county, has been received. J. C. Crome is the editor and publisher.

Will Ingersoll makes good? Several years before the demise of the leader of the agnostics: he made the remark that he would believe in hell when Missouri went Republican. It is up to the venerable departed to acknowledge the columay have made the discovery ere this to his own satisfaction and discomfort.-Roseburg Plaindealor.

At the November election, Benton, Coos, Curry, Gilliam. Tillamook and Yambill counties voted for County Prohibition. With but a few exceptions, the other counties of the state defeated the measure by such a decisive majority. that a revival of the issue cannot rea- ] sonably to be expected for some years. It may be considered well that Prohibition carried in these few countles. In them will be offered an opportunity for testing the prohibitive measure and upon the result depends the life of Prohibition in those counties as well as its application to other countles.

Linn and Lane counties, as well as other competing counties, were represented in the contest by the collection of products they had exhibited at the state fair. When it is known that these countles had two of the best exhibits at the state fair, even more pride may be taken in the honors that have been captured at this time

Securing first honors at this time should greatly encourage the members of the ommittee that was appointed to collect for the Lewis & Clark fair. It is quite possible for Clackamas with its rich and varied resources to capture the honors at the big fair in 1905. Let the work of preparing the exhibit progress with greater vigor.

Shooting Accident at Highland.

Accidentally Shot His Brother .-- While hunting last Friday morning, with an older brother at their home near Highland. Tracey, the 15-year old son of Samuel McSherry, was shot and perhaps seriously wounded. In crossing a field, the two brothers became separated for a distance of about fifty yards. Attracted by the flight of a flock of birds, the older brother, who was not aware that his brother was not beside him: turned and excitedly fired, several of the charge of shot striking Tracey on the upper part of the forehead, glancing, produced slight scalp wounds. One of the stray shots entered the right eye near the nose and may cause the injured boy the tors of the eye. Drs. Sommers and Mount, of this city, were called and attended the boy, whose injuries were not as serious as at first reported.

A correspondent to the Enterprise from Highland sends in a detailed account of the accident from which the following is taken "After being shot, the wounded boy walked, unaided, a distance of half a mile to the home of Mr. Baker, one of the young men who were accompanying him on the hunt. Dr. Mount was called from Oregon City and reached the injured boy late that night. The doctor produced his instruments and proceeded to test young Trucey's lrish grit. The boy was true metal and during the hour and a the bright and newsy weekly newspapers half that the doctor was dressing his wounds, kept up his courage by asking the doctor if he was a member of a gymnashum club and took his head for punching bag. He also inquired if it was not necessary to plerce his other car so that they would be mates, as a No. 4 shot had passed through one of his surs. But when the doctor offered to By what right, earthly or divine, can, stick a probe in Tracey's car the boy con cluded it was bed time.

WATCH FOR OUR OPENING DAY ANNOUNCEMENT NEXT WEEK

ANOTHER WEEK NEARER XMAS!

While it is still a month away the wise Christmas shoppers are looking around now and getting posted. Where they find particularly good things at reasonable prices they are having them laid away. By so doing many an anxious hour is saved during the crowded rush of the last few days. We still have a few lines to arrive yet --- the most conspicuous by its absence is our beautiful line of pictures. These, however, are on their way from the Steggall Art Co. and will be much finer and cheaper than anything of the kind ever shown before in Oregon City that every one can afford to wait their arrival. This will delay our Opening Day until December 6th We propose making this Opening Day an event worth attending and will give you all the details in our ad. next week.

DISTINCTIVE PRESENTS

Sometimes you don't want to give what everybody else gives. We always have this in mind when buying. We know there are particular people who want to give something different, something that they do not see in every dealer's window. This is particularly true of foreign novelties, etc. In nearly every instance in goods of this nature we buy one only of a kind and then buy these lines of dealers who sell to no one else in town; in this way we are able to have exclusive designs for our customers. Remember when you come to us you get articles that are hard to duplicate; you get things which other dealers do not have and cannot get now.
