"Two Little Waifs," one of Mr. Lincoln J. Carter's best productions, will be at Shively's Opera House on Wednesday, January 11. The play involves an intensely interesting story. The plot is built upon the old theme, but in a new and interesting garb, of mistaken identity which is treated in an original and pleasing manner. Prominent in the plot are twin sisters, unknown to each other, of whom is pursued by the villain to destroy the domestic happiness which surrounds her sister. Working cleverly upon the husband's jealous feelings, she succeeds in this and the unfortunate mother is thrown upon the world with her two small children. The wrong is eventually confessed and the villain brought to justice. The company is one of the best ever gotten together and harmonize splendidly in their portrayal of the different characters. The comedy element comes in for a share of the praise and there is a clever dialogue between Richard III and Pinkie which is brought out in an amusing and quaint style. The scenic effects of the play are especially of note showing the Hudson River home, the change from twilight to darkness, with the setting sun, the rise of the moon, the river and the twinkling lights of the Jersey shore, and finally "The Little Church around the Corner."

JANUARY SALE

Here's a chance to lay in a supply of drug store merchandise at your own price—original cost of much of our stock will cut no figure. We want to unload all our surplus stock before invoicing and we have set aside the month of January for a cleaning up sale. There are some articles such as School Books, Kodaks, Patent Medicines, etc., contract goods, the prices of which are controlled by the manufacturer; but the discount on everything else will make a saving to our customers of from 20 to 50 cents on each dollar spent in our store this month. Don't get an idea this is just talk, but look in our windows and around the store and see the saving marked in plain figures
