THE VANITY OF MAN.

Illustrated by the Way He Looks About His Photographs.

The man was about fifty-five, was rather bald. His wrinkles were many. His mustache was gray, and his eyes looked vigorous and intelligent. He was handsome, taken altogether, than he had been at forty. But he brought out a photograph of himself at forty, which hardly resembled him, so much had he changed. "If you want to print my picture use this," he said to the reporter. "I don't lose it, for it's the only one I got of myself at that age, and I'd like to keep it, for, you know, I don't get any younger." "I'd rather have a picture as you are today," said the reporter, "for you are handsomer than you were at forty." "Oh, no, am too old and wrinkled and faded now," said the man. "Use the year-old picture." The reporter claimed, with a puzzled laugh, "many men are like you. Though they are old, they insist on having their pictures printed. They fail to realize how much more interesting and pleasing their face is in old age if they lived a fairly wise and industrious life. I've had men of seventy actually have given me for reproduction photographs of themselves at thirty. Women don't do this. I believe I hate old age more than women do. Hate it," said the other grimly.

THE NATURE OF STARS.

Why They Range From White Dull Red in Color.

The very constitution of stars in the presence of some that are dark, every one of them is more or less glowing up fiery matter which is long at one temperature; hence a range of colors, from incandescent white or bluish white to dull red cooling darkness, the ultimate goal.

The so-called temporary stars which no fewer than twenty-seven have been noticed in historic time, were waned with maximum and minimum brilliancy, sometimes within the period of sixteen months, as Tycho star in 1572, and then became dark, only to be lit up afresh by the fall of a vast mass of meteoric matter from some neighboring swarm.

Many bright stars are known by periodic doubling of certain spectral lines or by curious perturbations attended by dark companions. A companion of Sirius was found after its existence was pointed out by Bessel; so was the tiny green fellow the fiery red Antares, while the companion of Procyon still eludes astronomers.

The absorption of light in passing through space, especially in distances so infinite, causes the number of stars to exceed by millions the ones, and this is supposed to be many of them, and to be in the

"A SECRET."

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman of her mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book, such as for instance, the "People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps for paper-bound volume, or thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The change from maidenhood to womanhood is one that involves the whole body. The strain at this time upon the blood-forming structures may be too great. Disorders of the functions peculiarly feminine are nearly always dependent upon defective nutrition. In all such cases Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is just the vegetable tonic for the female system.

"I cannot express my thanks for the benefit I have received from Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mrs. Julius Verity, of Cambridge, Rochester Co., Md. "I took Favorite Prescription and feel that a perfect cure has been effected. I feel like thanking you for the kind and fatherly letters which you wrote."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was the first exclusively woman's tonic in the market. It has sold more largely in the past third of a century than any other medicine for women. Do not let the drug-gist persuade you to try some compound that has not had the test of so many years' success.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.
