HER VOICE HER FORTUNE.

The rise of no singer in Oregon is giving more pleasure to her friends than that of Mary Adell Case whose concert at the Marquam promises to be an event of unusual significance. To those who have watched the sad eyed little girl growing up among us, never finding time for the usual frivolities of childhood, this concert at the Marquam Grand means a great deal. The daughter of a widow whose dignified management of her numerous family has won the respect and admiration of all who knew her, Mary Adell, like Emma Abbott, had little time for play, but music, music was her constant, quiet study. Like the prince "whose feet with fairy shoes were shod" she sang herself into the hearts of patrons and patronesses who sent her to New York and to Boston, and now, when she begins to see a chance for study abroad, Oregon will do herself honor to wave her songbird on to farther opportunities and farther triumphs for a voice that is the gift of God. The youngest, perhaps, of any of our successful singers, her teachers in New York were amazed at her progress, undertaking as she did the work of women of ten and twenty years her senior. Oregon City is proud of her gifted pianiste, Beatrice Barlow Dierke, and equally proud of her rising celebrity, Mary Adell Case. Friends from Hillsboro, Eugene, and Salem where she has sung are planning for the Marquam event, and Oregon City will not be behind with a special car and Chautauqua ovation, for Monday evening, February 20. If there is anything the world loves it is a young woman blossoming into a great singer, whose repertoire includes the musical classics upon which no amateur can venture.
