Quality in Drugs

The quality must be supreme. It is the one consideration, whether the quantity and price be little or great. In buying Homatropine, which costs about $2 for 5 grains, we are very particular to be sure the quality is right; and in buying Borax, which costs $2 for 20 pounds, we are just as particular about the quality.

We do not advertise cheap drugs, nor offer cheap medicines for the sick, but we will promise to show that if you buy drugs at prices lower than ours, you have bought lower quality. It is our business to buy and sell quality in our drug department, and we maintain a constant watch over incoming and outgoing drugs to see that they are up to the highest standard. It pays in the long run. People KNOW that the prescription from Huntley's is all that it ought to be. And remember that the same care and service is given to every prescription, no matter what doctor writes it.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Utah will have a comprehensive exhibit at the Lewis & Clark Exposition. It is expected that a state pavilion will be erected.

Cupid was temporarily defeated in his pranks here Wednesday when a blushing young man from the Molalla section appeared before Deputy County Clerk Greenman and presented an unsigned permit from the parents of his intended sanctioning the marriage of their daughter to himself. The embarrassed young man was Sam Coleman who was accompanied by the necessary witness, Wm. Lusk, also of Molalla. Bravely the young man handed to the Deputy Clerk the precious document which upon investigation failed to disclose the signature of the parents. Because of the omission, Deputy Greenman was compelled to deny the issuance of the license until the permit had been properly indorsed. The disappointed young man went home with a resolve to return fully prepared next time. O. D. Eby and C. E. Ramsby, of this city who were raised at Molalla, declare that everything that happens between the Willamette River and the Cascade mountains is placed to the credit of some Molallite and they declare that in this instance that there must be some question as to whether or not the prospective groom is actually a resident of Molalla. They insist that if the party mentioned is a native of their locality he would have seen that the permit was properly signed before he started from home.

The Massachusetts State Building at the Lewis & Clark Exposition will be larger than the pavilion the state erected at St. Louis.
