An Answer. As there never was a good war or a bad peace, as I was reading over the Enterprise last week, I came upon a piece headed "an explanation" accusing the Beaver Creek correspondent of thinking himself the whole district, (and still the School Man thinking him big enough to put up a forty foot flag pole himself), revealing uncorrupt feeling and using poor judgment, and as far as revealing uncorrupt feeling is concerned, I will say that I was asked by several parties what had become of the Beaver Creek School Flag, I told them that I did not know, but that I would find out. And if any thing the people of the Beaver Creek District hates to see is that one of them, to see the noble Stars and Stripes of the United States of America, which is the emblem of the Nation taken down from the staff high in the air where it can breeze herself to the good fresh healthy air of Beaver Creek, and tacked up inside on nails, in one end of the school building and breeze itself to second hand breath. And as far as good judgment is concerned, I will simply say that if a 10 foot pole which is stationed on top of the building which is 27 feet in height and the pole 10, which makes 37 feet, that any person with common sense could easily see that the flag could not breeze itself any more on the top of a 50-foot pole, which the teacher wanted the correspondent to put up. Yours truly, B. C. Correspondent.

How to Be Happy Though Married, in New York. A New York woman has written to one of the papers there laying down rules for the guidance of the man who wishes to keep out of the divorce court. This is her formula:

Never neglect a parting kiss when starting for business. Take your wife to the theatre at least once a week. When you buy theatre tickets telephone your wife and give her ample time to dress. Tell your wife at least once a day that you love her. Never compel her to force this confession from you. Say "I love you" of your own free will.

It is not surprising that the lady puts the theatre tickets next to the parting kiss as a promoter of congenial happiness. The wonder is that she did not name it as the first among the things that are expected to keep husband and wife on good terms. In New York the people live for two main purposes. These are, going to the theatre and eating in public places that are not affected by the Raines law. Without the theatres the people of New York—or at least those who regard themselves as "the people"—would have nowhere to spend their evenings and nothing to talk about. Without the regular eating and drinking in the chophouses and the French and Italian restaurants, with now and then a meal at one of the more fashionable feeding places, the average New York man and woman would feel that starvation was inevitable. No doubt the New York lady who has furnished directions for the man who wants to retain his wife's regard would be glad to have good fat checks thrown into her lap at frequent intervals, and she might be pleased if her husband were to win fame and honor. But the lack of those things may be borne as long as he provides theatre tickets at least once a week. Let him fail and divorce follows at once. It is almost terrible to think what the result would be if the theatres of New York were all to be suddenly and indefinitely closed. If the theatre once a week will stave off divorces what happiness must she have whose husband is manly enough to buy tickets for every night in the week, as many New York husbands do? Down with the varlets who would destroy the happy homes of the people of New York by throwing obstacles in the way of the theatre managers.

Her Deep Concern. "Your daughter seems to be terribly depressed because she may not be able to graduate this spring." "Yes, poor girl. It is going to be a terrible blow to her if she fails. The lovely dress we have had made for her will not, of course, be in style another year."

MRS. CECELIA STOWE, Orator, Entre Nous Club. 176 Warren Avenue, CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 22, 1902. For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being. Cerbera Stowe Mrs. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is saddened by female weakness and how completely Wine of Cardui cures that sickness and brings health and happiness again. Do not go on suffering. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.
