"Foreigners in Egypt." Jerome Mari's article in the Argonaut for June 12, is an entertaining account of the people of different nationalities who dwell in Egypt. This number of the Argonaut is designated "The Summer Resort Number," contains twenty-four pages, and is beautifully illustrated.

J. F. Clark and G. A. Heinz returned Monday night from a three days' fishing trip. They both relate the same story as to the catch, declaring that their baskets contained 322 of the speckled beauties. Of course, the statement is not questioned but it is a notorious fact that the two anglers were observed seated by the roadside, en route home, and they were very greedily disposing of a quantity of canned sardines. Now no one will insist that sardines are more palatable than trout but Clark and Heinz declare that they had tired of the fish diet and wanted some substitute.

As the result of a flatie bout at Canemah Park Sunday and the resisting of an officer by some of the participants and their friends, Judge Stupp's court was the scene of unusual activity Tuesday. It seems that Harry Woodard had some trouble with a stranger and when he went to adjust the situation with his fists, he was re-inforced by Burley Lee. About this time an officer put in an appearance and having placed the combatants under arrest started with Woodard down town when two of the latter's companions, Millard Hamilton and Rudolph Siler, interfered and forced the release of Woodard from the officer. The affair was settled in court Tuesday when each of the quartet paid a fine of $10. While the resisting of an officer is a serious offence, the lads were allowed to plead guilty to simple assault and pay the fine of $10 that was imposed.

Another exhibition of baseball as it should be played is on the programme for Sunday afternoon at the Willamette Falls grounds, when a second game will be played between the Eagles and the Red Men. In the first game the semi-civilized savages were victorious by the interesting score of 5 to 4, but the Eagles complain that because of the Oregon mist that fell during the game, their feathers became dampened and they were unable to properly sustain their reputation for making the circuit of the bases. Present indications are that Sunday will be an ideal day so it will be up to the Eagles to make good by defeating the Red Men who have held undisputed title to the baseball championship among the city's fraternal organizations for the last dozen years.

Died. F. G. Neukircher died of neuralgia of the heart at his home at La Grande, Oregon, Friday evening, June 2, 1905. Mr. Neukircher had not been well for some time but his condition was not considered at all alarming until just before his death, which occurred while he was seated in a chair feeding the chickens. The deceased was aged 68 years, having been born in Germany in 1838. When 18 years of age he went to Tennessee where he married Miss Katie Bounds and came to Oregon in 1856, settling in Clackamas county on a homestead on which he lived until 1902 when he removed to LaGrande. He is survived by a wife and four children: James and Albert Neukircher, of La Grande; Ida Bloomer, of San Francisco, Cal.; and Annie Jones, of Philomath, Oregon. He was a man who had many friends wherever he went and he will be sadly missed by all who knew him, both old and young.
