Oregon City's Business College. Since the opening, last October, this school has enrolled thirty-six students. The plan pursued for securing students and the methods employed in teaching have been such as to merit the patronage it has received.

The school is located at the corner of Main and Seventh streets in the Garde Block, which is a new and modernly equipped building. The appliances for the school are such as to afford all necessary advantages to those pursuing the courses. The equipment used by the students of the typewriting department alone represents an investment of from five to six hundred dollars. Such a training as is offered by an institution of this kind is just what many parents should choose for their sons and daughters.

Professor Allen, who is in charge, states that students are already entering for the summer term, and that all who intend entering for this term, for either day or evening sessions, would do well to make arrangements at once. Students may enter at any time. Individual instruction is given no one being held back by others not so apt or energetic. Full information regarding the courses of study with other particulars will be furnished any who will address President E. O. Allen, Oregon City, Ore.
