Argument for and against the proposed building of a bridge by the county across the Clackamas river at Barton was heard Thursday by the members of the Clackamas county court, who have taken the subject under advisement. Gordon E. Hayes and J. M. Tracy, a prominent tax-payer spoke for the petitioners and urged favorable action on the part of the court. W. A. Huntley, president of the Oregon City Board of Trade, which is opposing the construction of the bridge, and W. P. Kirchman, a leading farmer, argued negatively on the proposed improvement, contending that there are already a sufficient number of bridges for the accommodation of travel without particular inconvenience to the petitioners. The plans and specifications submitted by Surveyor Kinnaird estimate the cost of the bridge to be about $8500, but it would cost an equal amount to construct a road to connect with the structure. Petitioners ask the county to assume 70 per cent of the cost.

Methodist Congress at the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

More and more the church is entering into the civic life of our country and becoming a factor in its progress. The Methodist Church has been at the front in pioneer days, and in the Pacific Northwest she has had an exceptionally useful career. It is eminently fitting that this church should take its place and do its part in connection with an occasion fraught with such momentous significance to this country as the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

To this end the Methodists of this region have arranged for a great Methodist Congress to be held at the First M. E. Church, Portland, from July 11 to 21. During this time many of the strong men of the church, in this section, will discuss the work, problems and resources of the denomination in this region. On Friday evening, July 14, Dr. Heritage, president of the Spokane Musical College and one of the greatest chorus directors on the continent will lead a grand chorus concert of 150 voices. This will be a musical treat no one can afford to miss. Saturday and Sunday, July 15 and 16, has been devoted to the Epworth League. There will be no afternoon sessions that the time may be spent in sight-seeing.

The members of a strong committee of Portland business men and ministers have done all in their power to make the Congress a great success and render the stay of visitors pleasant and profitable. A secretary has been secured to give all his time to this work. Good rooms, with modern conveniences may be had at very reasonable rates. Headquarters will be at the offices of the Pacific Christian Advocate, Commercial Block, to which place inquiries should be sent.

In the name of the church we bid you all a hearty welcome.
DAVID H. MOORE, President.
DANIEL L. RADER, Secretary.

THE GRAY WOLF.

His Cunning is Marvelous, and He is Difficult to Catch.

The cunning of the gray wolf is marvelous, and it is most difficult to catch napping. He somehow seems to know that iron is associated with man. A piece of iron anywhere will keep him at a distance. If you shoot an antelope, for instance, and just put your spur on the carcass you may leave it as long as you like and no wolf will touch it. A pocket handkerchief will do as well.

Lobo, a great gray wolf who was the king of the pack at Currumpaw, a vast cattle range in New Mexico, was a thinker as well as a rler. His pack ate nothing but what they had killed themselves, and thus poison was no good. At last a thousand dollars was set upon his head. This brought a noted wolf hunter from Texas, with his pack of great wolfhounds. But again there was failure. Then two other hunters came with subtly devised poisons to work his undoing. Then I came on the scene. First I tried poison, and there was no combination of strychnine, arsenic and prussic acid which I did not use. I put the poisons in cheese melted together with kidney fat, and during the whole process I wore gloves steeped in hot blood. And I scattered the bait all over the ranch. The next morning I went out and found Lobo's tracks, with the bait gone. I was delighted. I followed the track and found another bait gone and yet another. Then I found the three baits piled upon another one and covered with filth. Lobo had evidently carried the first three in his mouth and had taken this means of expressing his utter contempt for my devices.

But Lobo's downfall came about through a big white she wolf who was always with him. I managed to catch her in a trap. Then I knew we should soon have Lobo. Night after night he came around the homestead and mourned his mate in long, plaintive howls. I knew he would try to find her body. I set 130 strong steel wolf traps, and in one of these I caught him—a martyr to constancy. And that was the end of Lobo.—Interview With Ernest Thompson Seton.

A bachelor, old and cranky, was sitting alone in his room. His toes with the gout were aching, and his face was o'erspread with gloom, no little ones' shouts to disturb him—from noises the house was free. In fact, from cellar to attic 'twas as still as still could be. No medical aid was lacking; his servants answered his ring, respectfully answered his orders and supplied him with everything. But still there was something wanted, which he could not command—the kindly words of compassion, the touch of a gentle hand. And he said, as his brow grew darker and he rang for the hireling nurse, "Well, marriage may be a failure, but this is a jolly sight worse."

A Water Candlestick.
A glass of water makes a fine emergency candlestick. Weight one end of the candle with a nail just large enough to hold the candle in the water so that the water touches its top edge, but does not touch the wick, and then light the candle. It will burn until the last vestige of wick is gone and the flame will not flicker. The melted tallow that runs down but serves to hold the candle more stationary.—Wm.
