

Dragging Pains

2835 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down, gas and blinding headaches. All other remedies failed to give her relief. Any sick woman may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

WINE OF CARDUI

WASHINGTON'S VISION.

Three Great Perils To Be Overcome by Our Republic.

The last time I ever saw Anthony Sherman was on the Fourth of July, 1853, in Independence Square. He was then 89 years old and getting very feeble. But though so old, his dimming eyes rekindled as he gazed upon Independence Hall, which he had come back to look upon before he was gathered home. "Let us go into the hall," he said. "I want to tell you an incident in Washington's life—one which no one alive knows except myself, and if you live, you will before long see it verified. From the opening of the Revolution, we experienced all phases of fortune. Now good, now ill, one time victorious and another conquered. The darkest period we had, I think, was when Washington, after several reverses, retreated to Valley Forge, where he resolved to pass the winter of 1777. I have often seen the tears coursing down our old commander's care-worn cheeks, as he would be conversing with some confidential officer about the condition of his poor soldiers. You have doubtless heard the story of Washington going to the thicket to pray in secret for aid and comfort from God, whose divine providence brought us safely through the darkest days of tribulation. One day, I remember, the chilly winds whistled through the leafless trees. Though the sky was cloudless and the sun shown brightly, he remained in his quarters nearly all afternoon alone. When he came out, I noticed that his face was a shade paler than usual and there seemed to be something on his mind of more than ordinary importance. Returning just after dusk, he dispatched an orderly to the quarters of the officer I mentioned, who was presently in attendance. After a preliminary conversation of about half an hour, Washington, gazing upon his companion with that look of dignity which he alone could command said to the latter, "I do not know whether it is owing to the anxiety of my mind, but this afternoon, as I was sitting at this very table, engaged in preparing a dispatch, something in the apartment seemed to disturb me. Looking up, I beheld standing opposite me a singularly beautiful female. So astonished was I, for I had given strict orders not to be disturbed, that it was some moments before I found language to inquire the cause of her presence. A second, a third and even a fourth time did I repeat my question, but received no answer from my mysterious visitor, except a slight rising of the eyes. By this time I felt strange sensations spreading through me. I would have risen, but the riveted gaze of the being before me made volition impossible. I essayed once more to address her, but my tongue had become powerless. Even thought itself had become paralyzed. A new influence, mysterious, potent, irresistible, took possession of me. All I could do was to gaze steadily vacantly at my unknown visitor.

"Gradually the surrounding atmosphere seemed as though becoming filled with sensations, grew luminous. Everything about me seemed to rarify, the mysterious visitor herself becoming more airy and yet more distinct to my sight than before. I now began to feel as one dying or rather to experience the sensations which I have sometimes imagined accompany dissolution. I did not think, I did not reason, I did not move. All were alike impossible. I was only conscious of gazing fixedly, vacantly at my companion.

"Presently I heard a voice saying 'Son of the republic, look and learn,' while at the same time my visitor extended her arm eastward. I now beheld a heavy white vapor at some distance, rising fold upon fold. This gradually dissipated and I beheld a strange scene. Before me lay spread out in one vast plain all the countries of the world—Europe, Asia, Africa, and America. I saw rolling and tossing between Europe and America the billows of the Atlantic and between Asia and America lay the Pacific. 'Son of the republic,' said the mysterious voice as before, 'look and learn.' At that moment I beheld a dark, shadowy being like an angel, standing or rather floating in mid air between Europe and America.

"Dipping water out of the ocean in the hollow of each hand, he sprinkled some upon America with his right hand while with the left hand he cast some on Europe. Immediately a dark cloud arose from these countries and joined in mid-ocean. For a while it remained stationary, and then moved slowly westward, until it enveloped America in its murky fold.

"Sharp flashes of lightning gleamed through it at intervals, and I heard the smothered groans and grief of the American people. A second time the angel dipped water from the ocean and sprinkled it out as before. The dark cloud was then drawn back to the ocean, in whose heavy billows it sank from view. A third time I heard the mysterious voice saying, 'Son of the republic, look and learn.' I cast my eye upon America and beheld villages and towns and cities springing up one after another until the whole land from the Atlantic to the Pacific was dotted with them. Again I heard the mysterious voice say, 'Son of the republic, the end of the century cometh, look and learn.' At this the dark shadowy angel turned his face southward, and from Africa I saw an illomened spectre approach our land. It flitted slowly over every town and city of the latter. The inhabitants presently set themselves in battle array against each other. As I continued looking I saw a bright angel, on whose brow rested a crown of light on which was traced the word 'Union,' bearing the American flag, which he placed between the divided nations and said, 'Remember, ye are brethren.' Instantly the inhabitants, casting from them their weapons, became friends once more, and united around the national standard. And I heard the mysterious voice saying, 'Son of the Republic, look and learn.' At this the dark shadowy angel placed a trumpet to his mouth and blew three distinct blasts, and taking water from the Ocean, he sprinkled it upon Europe, Asia and Africa. Then my eyes beheld a fearful scene—from each of these countries arose thick, black clouds that were soon joined into one. And throughout the mass there gleamed a dark red light, by which I saw hordes of armed men, who, moving with the cloud, marched by land and sailed by sea to America, which country was enveloped in the volume of the cloud. And I dimly saw these vast armies devastating the whole country and burn the villages and towns and cities that I beheld springing up. As my ears listened to the thundering of the cannons, and clashing of swords, and shouts and cries of millions in mortal combat, I again heard the mysterious voice saying, 'Son of the Republic, look and learn.' When the voice had ceased the dark shadowy angel placed his trumpet once more to his mouth and blew a long and fearful blast. Instantly a light as of a thousand suns shone down from above me, and pierced the cloud which enveloped America. At the same moment the angel upon whose head still shone the word 'Union,' and who bore our national flag in one hand and a sword in the other descended from heaven attended by legions of white spirits. These immediately joined the inhabitants of America, who I perceived were well nigh overcome, but who immediately taking courage again closed up their broken ranks and renewed the battle. Again, amid the fearful noise of the conflict, I heard the mysterious voice saying, 'Son of the Republic, look and learn.' As the voice ceased, the shadowy angel for the last time dipped water from the ocean and sprinkled it upon America. Instantly the third cloud rolled back, together with the armies it had brought, leaving the inhabitants of the land victorious. Then once more I beheld villages, towns and cities springing up where I had seen them before, while the bright angel planting the azure standard he had brought in the midst of them, cried with a loud voice:

"While the stars remain and the heavens send down dew upon the earth, so long shall the union last, and taking from his brow the crown on which blazed the word 'Union,' he placed it upon the standard, while the people kneeling down, said 'Amen.'

"The scene instantly began to fade and dissolve, and I at last saw nothing but the rising curling vapor I at first beheld. This also disappearing I found myself once more gazing upon the mysterious visitor, who in the same voice I had heard before, said, 'Son of the Republic, what you have seen is thus interpreted. Three great perils will come upon the republic. The most fearful is the third. Let every child of the Republic learn to live for his God, his land and Union.'

"With these words the vision vanished and I started from my seat and felt that I had seen a vision wherein had been shown me the birth, progress and destiny of the United States."

"Such, my friends," continued the narrator, "were the words I heard from Washington's own lips, and America will do well to profit by them."—The Portlander, December 25, 1896.

A BIG WEEK AT THE FAIR.

Seven Days Beginning With July 9 to be Marked by Many Special Events.

Portland, July 6.—With four bands engaged and many special events arranged, the seven days beginning with Sunday, July 9, will constitute probably the biggest week so far at the Lewis and Clark Exposition. There will be something doing on every day, and it is expected that the attendance, which has been increasing steadily since the opening, will break all records during this week.

Liberti's Famous Italian Band, whose engagement began June 29, will play two concerts daily. Besides the band numbers there will be vocal solos by three soloists whom the great Italian band master takes with him on his tours. De Caprio's Administration Band will also give two concerts daily. The concerts will be held in the bandstand at the foot of Lakeview Terrace, on the shore of Guild's Lake. There is also a military band, supplied from some regiment of the Department of the Columbia, by order of the secretary of war, which will give daily concerts on the Government Peninsula, where Uncle Sam's magnificent $800,000 display is located. The Indian band from the Sherman Indian Institute, which is said to be one of the best of the Indian bands, will also play frequently.

On Sunday, July 9, Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, successor to Henry Ward Beecher and Lyman Abbott as pastor of the Plymouth Church in Brooklyn, will preach in the Auditorium at the Exposition at four o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Hillis is one of the foremost preachers in the United States and is a most successful lecturer.

Monday is Wyoming and Rock Springs day. On this day, also, the opening exercises for the National Association of Food and Dairy Commissioners, which will be in session all week, will be held. The Northwest Lacrosse Championship will also be decided in the stadium adjoining the Exposition grounds.

Charles G. Kilpatrick whom the Exposition is paying $500 a week for thrilling bicycle and automobile feats, will perform his daring ride down a long flight of steps on a bicycle every day and his even more exciting ride up a steep ascent and down again in an automobile. Kilpatrick is a one-legged man, his performances are free to all, and are given in the afternoon and evening every day.
