MORTGAGE LOANS NEGOTIATED at lowest rates. Latourette's office, Commercial Bank Building, Oregon City.

The whereabouts of Josephine McCoy were learned Wednesday when she was located at the home of friends where she is boarding while working at the wooden mills. This is the young woman who suddenly disappeared Sunday following a buggy ride with John McDonald, an operative in one of the paper mills. The charge of abduction against the girl's escort has been suspended pending the good behavior of the girl who will be allowed to remain with friends.

High grade whiskies and Weinhard's celebrated Columbia beer at the Planet where the proprietors, Kelly & Ruenrich have provided a merchant's noon-day lunch that is served daily from 11 o'clock to 1:30 p. m.

While civic improvement may not have asserted itself in a general way in this city during the summer months, many of the enterprising citizens of the city have not spared the paint brush and the prying knife to the material improved appearance of their yards and homes. Among the improvements along this line may be mentioned that of Chas. Albright who has repainted his elegant residence and greatly added to the beauty and attractiveness of the grounds surrounding the building.

The store of I. Selling will be closed Saturday, September 30, owing to Jewish New Year.

The program for September 29th will contain, among other notable feature, a story of unusual character, entitled "The Lone Fisherman," a story from New York by "Flanour" do "as it is," performance of "Man and Superman" and other plays in an interesting manner. In the literary department a highly interesting article tells of a remarkable collection of books by and about Oscar Wilde. Mrs. Josephine Hart Phelps discusses the Mansfield play, "The First Violin," and Porter Garnett writes of Tetraxini in "Lucia."

If you do not have time to go home for lunch, drop in at the Planet and enjoy the merchant's lunch that is served every day from 11 o'clock to 1:30 p. m. Only the highest grade whiskies and liquors carried.

After being out less than six hours, the third jury, which heard the testimony of the government against Congressman Williamson, Dr. Gesner, Williamson's partner in the livestock business, and Marion R. Biggs, a Prineville attorney, at one time register of the federal land office at that place, Wednesday night found all three defendants guilty of having entered a conspiracy to suborn perjury by inducing locators to fraudulently file on government land, providing them with the money so to do, under agreement that these persons convey title to Williamson and Gesner when the patent was secured from the Government.

Those who wish to buy millinery to the greatest advantage, call on Miss C. Goldsmith.

Elwood L. Clark, of Portland, and Mattie A. Yoder, of Oregon City, were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Yoder at Ely, Rev. J. H. Wood, of the First Methodist Church, officiating. The wedding was quite elaborate and was witnessed by about thirty guests. The Yoder home was beautifully decorated with Oregon grape and flowers. Miss Nellie Swafford played the wedding march, the groom being attended by Mrs. Jones, of Portland, while Miss Linnie Seely, of Oregon City, served as bridesmaid. Following the ceremony congratulations were offered and refreshments were served after which the happy couple boarded a car for Portland, where they will reside.

It is not an exaggeration to say that the comedy drama "Sweet Clover" as presented at Shively's Opera House Wednesday night was one of the best entertainments that was ever presented to an Oregon City audience at the local play house. Otis B. Thayer and Miss Gertrude Bondhill, in the leading roles, were capably assisted by a cast so well balanced that it would be difficult to determine a single member of the company who did not faithfully sustain his part. In giving the musical accompaniment during the production of the play, the pianist appeared to have her foot riveted to the loud pedal to the extent at least that at times it was impossible to follow the pretty play as told by the performers, a mistake that will no doubt be corrected before another show is presented.

Pattern hats, fancy hats and ready to wear hats. Miss C. Goldsmith.

The curing and baling of the hop crop in this county has not progressed sufficiently to warrant an accurate estimate as to the yield. In the aggregate, however, the yield by reason of the increased acreage, will exceed that of last season while the quality will be materially better. With the exception of a few yards, the product will surpass in quantity that of last year while the quality will be far better than that of the 1904 crop. On the Dr. Nichols' yard north of this city, there was picked from a 15-acre yard, planted last March, the phenomenal crop of 27,000 pounds, green weight, of baby hops while a matured yard of the same acreage produced 63,000 pounds. Jacob Miley, a prominent grower of the Wilsonville district, reports that the crop in that section of the county is an improvement over the 1904 crop both in respect to quality and quantity. Offers of 12 1/2 and 13 cents are being made by dealers but growers are rejecting all such bids.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our thanks through the columns of the press to the many friends for their kindness, sympathy and help during the sickness, death and burial of our loved husband, father and brother. MRS. JAMES HANNEGAN. MISS EFFIE MOREY. DR. R. C. HANNEGAN.

FREE EXCHANGE!

Editor Enterprise:—As a mutual Telephone Association, with five hundred subscribers and associates in the South half of Clackamas county, we are not ready or anxious to put such a construction on "Mutual" or "Free Exchange" that would induce us to install and maintain a switch board at Oregon City for the benefit and profit of a corporation. If Oregon City is afraid we would use their switch too much we have a like fear for our central—we feel that if we put up to establish at Oregon City, we should share in the profits.—Molalla.

MR. MCANULTY REPORTS.

His Enumeration Gives Oregon City An Increased Population.

An increase of 92 in the population of Oregon City is shown in the recent enumeration of this city by J. W. McAnulty, as against the returns of the County Assessor's office. Mr. McAnulty last Friday submitted his report to the Board of Trade, under whose auspices the second count was made showing the population within the city's corporate limits to be 3920, exclusive of nine Chinamen. Assessor Nelson's figures gave the city only 3838 inhabitants, and the second enumeration was ordered by the Board of Trade in the belief that the first count was not entirely satisfactory. Mr. McAnulty's report has been held up for several days pending the settlement of a disputed claim at to the amount of compensation he was to receive for the work. An adjustment was had today, Mr. McAnulty declining to submit his report until provision had been made for his pay.

REAPERS ABROAD.

Ida, the beloved and only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Akins, of Oregon City, died of Consumption, Friday, September 28th, at the home of her uncle, Mr. Bullard, of Currinsville, and was laid to rest at Wade's cemetery. She came to Oregon City with her parents when a small child which has been her home until her death. She has been a pupil of Oregon City Public Schools for the past several years, graduating with high honors with the class of 1903, at the Oregon City High School. While in school she was a diligent student, obedient to her instructors, and a kind and honest school mate.

Words fail to convey my feelings of sorrow on receipt of the intelligence of the death of my young and esteemed friend. My own grief at the loss of a true friend teaches me how crushing must be the afflictions of her dear parents.

We sat side by side in the graduating class of 1903; how proud and pretty she did look that night, how little I thought that our parting day was so close. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. She was 21 years, 8 months old at the time of her death.

Ida leaves many dear friends and school mates who mourn her departure. She has gone but not forgotten. May the Almighty in His goodness console her dear parents in this dark hour of their tribulations.

BIG POULTRY SHOW.

About 1000 Birds Entered in Exhibition at Lewis & Clark Fair.

Portland, Sept. 28.—A quality show—that is what the Lewis and Clark Poultry show will be. The show opens on October 5th and will continue until the 12th, inclusive. There are 1000 birds entered, and every one of these is worthy of praise. "The poultryman looked upon the show as a very fine exhibition," said G. L. Hunt, the secretary, "and they have entered only chickens that they think will stand an excellent chance to win. The result is that as far as quality goes the show will far excel anything of the kind ever held in the west. The pigeon show—there are 200 pigeons entered—will be bigger and of higher quality than any held west of the Mississippi river."

A majority of the entries are from western states, as prohibitive express rates spoiled plans for heavy entries from some eastern states. There are, however, a few eastern entries, and the birds exhibited by western fanciers will be a great surprise to visitors from the east. Four light brahms will be brought all the way from Shelton, Conn. They are entered by C. P. Nettleton, a well known eastern fancier. Eight rose-comb brown leg-horns, a rare breed, are entered by Fred Alger of Waukau, Wis., and one blue andalusian hen, the only bird of the breed to be exhibited, is entered by R. S. La Master, of Campbellsburg, Kentucky.

Pierce County, Washington, leads off as the largest exhibitor at the show, with a total of 235 entries. Of those W. R. Beers will exhibit 35 white Plymouth Rocks, and Fred A. Johnson 47 birds representing nine varieties. Geo. L. Story of Oregon City, Ore., has the largest entry, his birds numbering 56 and representing 16 varieties. The largest exhibit of one variety will be that of the Hazelwood Farm Company of Spokane, which has entered 50 white Plymouth Rocks.

The Pacific Coast Pigeon Fanciers' Federation, of Oakland, Calif., has entered 82 pigeons, and included in this assortment is one imported pair of the "blue runt" variety, that is valued at $250. Stewart and James, of Vancouver, B. C., and the California Giant Pigeon Company of Fruitvale, which raises large pigeons for the squab market, are other important exhibitors in this department.

The judges for the show are all experts, the best men procurable. The list follows: George D. Holden, President of the American Poultry Association; Theodore Hughes, of Indianapolis; R. C. H. Hallock, of St. Louis, secretary of the National White Wyandotte Club; W. W. Browning, of Ogden, president of the Utah Poultry Association; C. H. Hinds, Alameda California; H. H. Collier, Tacoma; E. J. Ladd, Portland, and Thomas Wilkinson, Napalmo, B. C.

THE IGORROTE VILLAGE.

Interesting Facts About the Igorrotes at the Exposition.

Picturesquely located in the valley below Centennial Park, with Willamette Heights looming near by, is the Igorrote Village, easily the most interesting single feature of the Lewis & Clark Exposition, and the latest attraction to be added to Portland's fine fair. Delayed on the trip from their homes in the mountains of Northwestern Luzon by tropical rains, unforgable rivers and typhoons, these strange wild people reached Manila on August 1st and the Exposition on September 4. Their village was ready for them in skeleton form, and since their arrival the houses have been thatched and are now complete. It consists of numerous straw-covered huts, a pavilion in which ceremonial dances occur, a public building which serves as a court house, a jail and assembly place for all men's meetings, an "o-lag" or dormitory for girls and unmarried women, a "fa-wi" or dormitory for boys and unmarried men, and other structures necessary to give a correct representation of the home life of these people.

Among the more than 100 tribes of the Philippine Islands the Igorrote is one of the most conspicuous, and easily the most interesting, because of his strange method of life and still stranger customs. So little is he, that today he would be as great a curiosity in the City of Manila as in Portland. They are of Malay origin, of a supey bronze color, long straight hair, and remarkable physiques, altho' as a rule not tall. They are the only people in the Philippine Islands with a keen sense of humor. In all their movements they are singularly graceful. The men wear a breech-clout, called "G-string," and a picturesque little hat, which is not worn as a head covering but as a pocket. In their native condition the women wear only an apron of leaves, but here they wear a short skirt and queer jacket made of a native woven cloth.

The Igorrote is a pagan, a barbarian in culture, an agriculturist from necessity, terracing the mountain sides with stone, forming "sementras" where they grow rice in the dry season, while others grow theirs in the wet season. This is accomplished by diverting streams so they will irrigate the sementeras. He is a head-hunter. There is constant warfare between neighboring tribes, and head-hunting is not only a means of self-defense, but in a measure a pastime, for after a member has taken and brought home a human head a month is given to happy celebration. There are rites and ceremonies peculiar to the event and there are constant dances and feasts, which bring to the otherwise hard-worked people relaxation and social intercourse.

All Igorrotes eat dog. It is a tribal dish. No female, however, is permitted to partake of dog-flesh, because it is considered to have a quality which nerves up the fighter for the head-hunting expeditions, and the Igorrotes do not care to have their women fight. Before agreeing to come to Portland, the Igorrotes exacted a promise that their customs would not be interfered with, and they are permitted to have their favorite dish at the Village. The dogs are carried to the Pa-ba-funan or public building, the throat is cut, the dog bled, singed, dressed, cut up, boiled and served in true Bontoc style.

The native industries of these people are shown in the Village and the women may be seen weaving their bright-colored cotton cloths, while the men are engaged in making rings, bangles and pocket-hats. Performances are given from ten in the morning to eleven at night, consisting of different dances, native songs, spear-throwing practice, sham battles, etc.

In the party are three Chiefs, the first ever to leave the islands, each with a record as a head-hunter, Domingo, the First Chief, according to official Spanish records, has taken seventeen human heads.

The Igorrotes are here in response to a request made by the President of the Lewis and Clark Exposition to the Government of the Philippine Islands.

The Igorrote Village has caught the popular fancy and is largely attended. It is an educational exhibit of high order, the only one at the Exposition portraying primitive man, and the little brown people are daily adding their quota to the gayety of nations," as exemplified at the Fair.

Mrs. Kathryn Ward Pope will manage the concert that is to be given by Miss Mary Conyers in this city the latter part of October. The program will include numbers by violinists and elocutionists of ability.
