October is the month in which the Granges hold their fairs. However, owing to the Lewis and Clark Exposition, some have postponed these events until next year. This has been done in Multnomah county generally. In Clackamas county several local fairs will be held. At Maple Lane the Grange holds its fair next Saturday, October 7, when there will be an agricultural display, including household products and some livestock. There will be best bread, butter and cakes. At Milwaukie arrangements are being made for the annual fair to continue two days, Friday and Saturday, October 20 and 21. An effort will be put forth to make the display the most complete yet made under the auspices of the Grange. There will be a baby contest. Friday evening a program with short addresses will be rendered. W. K. Newell, of Dilly, has consented to talk to the people on one of the days of the fair. Oswego Grange 173 also is making preparations to have a colonial display this month.—Oregonian.

"ON THE BRIDGE AT MID-NIGHT."

Shively's Opera House, Monday, October 9th.

No play has a stronger appeal to human sympathy than "On the Bridge at Midnight" with its sightless mother looking for her stolen child while the tide of events flows all against her as she gropes about in the heart of a great city. But even the sad side of city life has its humor and this is very ingeniously introduced in "On the Bridge at Midnight" with two characters among others, that have become popular as the famous draw-bridge scene. Germany the professor and Reddy, the bootblack. Klint and Gazzolo have not made the mistake often to be noted in some flamboyantly advertised plays, of relying on a bit of scenery to get the attention and patronage of the public. They offer a full and excellent drama with even such a masterpiece as the company presenting "On the Bridge at Midnight" this includes two widely known comedians for the leading comedy characters, and other metropolitan actors.

GRANGE FAIR.

Molalla Grange No. 310, will hold its first annual Fair tomorrow, Saturday, October 7, 1905. The Agricultural Fair, where everybody is invited to make exhibits of the products of the soil, mechanics and art, will have as one of its attractions, a market place and auction sale, where personal property may be bought and sold. Literary program will take place at 2 p. m. Exhibits in pavilion must be in place on Friday before opening day. Stock may be entered up to 10 a. m., October 7th. Basket Dinner. Admission free. A good time for all.

CARD OF THANKS.

For the many acts of kindness and attention shown the late Elmer E. Charman during his long illness, which were so greatly appreciated by him, and the loving attention and remembrances after his death, the family herewith tender their heartfelt thanks.

It was almost a miracle. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body. I am very grateful. Miss Julia Filbridge, West Cornwell, Conn.

WILL MAKE PAPER

MINIATURE MACHINE IN OPERATION AT PORTLAND FAIR.

Sketch of the Remarkable Growth of the Paper Making Industry on the Pacific Coast.

Saturday afternoon there will be exhibited at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, in the Machinery building, in the exhibit of the Willamette Iron & Steel Works, the smallest paper making machine in the world, complete in every respect, and that actually manufactures paper from pulp, said Sunday's Oregonian.

Joseph Kaster, superintendent of the LaCamas mills, designed and built the machine, which embodies improvements on some of the modern machines used in the manufacture of paper, demonstrating in this successful product of his genius and labors that he not only knows how to operate a mill and take care of its machinery, but is capable of creating a machine that involves improved principles and does the work. In honor of the pioneer of the paper manufacturing industry in the Northwest, the inventor has named the new machine the "H. L. Pittock."

History of the paper-making industry of the Northwest is closely allied with the largest consuming mediums of paper of the region. The first mill was installed at Oregon City, just above the present bridge over the Willamette, in the '60s. H. L. Pittock, founder of the Daily Oregonian, and the man to whom more than any other the industry owes its present prominence, was one of the interested persons in this pioneer project. The mill was not a success in any respect, through the mistake of installing old machinery and discontinued operation after a few months.

The second mill erected was that of the Clackamas Paper Company, located on the Clackamas River, a few miles above its mouth, in 1868. This plant was owned and operated by H. L. Pittock, and was entirely successful, and for 16 years manufactured all of the paper used by the Oregonian. William Lewthwaite, superintendent of the mill and a thoroughly competent and progressive paper-mill man, who had charge of the plant, still resides near Oregon City. His son is one of the great papermakers of the East, and his brother, John Lewthwaite, is general superintendent of the big Willamette Mills, at Oregon City, the success of which has been in a large measure attributed to his untiring efforts and intimate knowledge of the business.

When the first mill at Oregon City was established and proved unsuccessful for reasons above mentioned, necessity for large water power did not exist as the use of wood pulp in manufacture of paper had not been developed. Overtures were made to H. L. Pittock for sale of the Willamette Falls for purposes of power to operate paper mills, at a price ridiculously low when present-day methods of paper manufacture are considered, but which did not receive serious consideration.

In 1884 the new mill at LaCamas, Wash., was started, in which Mr. Pittock was largely interested, having developed the great water power necessary, and in doing this acquired the townsite and other necessary industries, the whole representing an outlay of about $250,000. The Columbia River Paper Company was the corporate name of the mill company, and when erected it was the finest plant on the Coast. Less than two years after completion it was burned, and rebuilt soon thereafter; again it was not a financial success. Although a good market for the product existed in Mr. Pittock's newspapers at Portland and Spokane, being interested in the Review at the latter point, the fire loss was too severe, coupled with the stress of the following years, and the property was sold at a nominal figure, Mr. Pittock, as the principal owner, being the largest loser.

F. W. Leadbetter acquired the mill property and the investment proved most opportune. With the Spanish-American War situation that developed soon after, when prices of paper increased tremendously, it was possible to increase the plant to its present magnitude. Having consolidated with the Crown Mills at Oregon City with connections in California, has become the largest factor in the industry of paper manufacturing on the Pacific coast.

S. D. Rosenbaum, of New York, is president of this company; F. W. Leadbetter, of Portland, first vice-president; L. Schwabacker, of San Francisco, general manager. Local management of the interests of the company repose with W. P. Hawley, resident manager, and M. Rosenbaum, assistant manager.

Illustrations presented herewith show the largest and highest-speed paper machine in the world installed in the plant of the Crown Columbia Company at LaCamas. This machine runs at a speed of 600 feet per minute, which means that a sheet of paper 114 inches wide and 600 feet in length is run upon the cylindrical rolls at the end of the big machine in one minute. In illustrative comparison with this machine installed at LaCamas 20 years ago, at that time the most modern machine extant, manufactured 135 feet of paper a minute. The machine installed at that time installed at that time was about 75 feet long and weighed 25 tons, whereas the new machine at LaCamas mills is 225 feet in length, 25 feet wide weighing 500 tons and produces more than 30 tons of finished paper daily.

In compliment to the skill and popularity with the officials of the company, the superintendent of the plant, the monster machine at LaCamas is named the "Joe Kaster." How fittingly the honor was bestowed is reflected in the product of his inventive genius to be exhibited in the miniature paper-making machine at the Exposition which is the result of thought and labor during the past two years.

Drs. Beattie & Beattie, Dentists, Rooms 16, 17 18, Weinhard Building.

WEATHER FOR OCTOBER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture Issues Some Statistics.

The following data, covering a period of 33 years, have been compiled from the Weather Bureau Records at Portland, Oregon. They are issued to show the conditions that have prevailed, during the month in question, for the above period of years, but must not be construed as a forecast of the weather conditions for the coming month.

FREE TRAINING OF NURSES.

Young Women of Small Towns and Country Districts to be Favored. By the terms of a fund to be administered in connection with the Philadelphia Schools for Nurses, Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia, a number of young women from every county will receive free training in Nursing. It is planned to ultimately reach and help in this way every village and township.

The young women will be provided with room, board, nurse uniforms and all the refinements of a well-appointed Christian home. At graduation the diploma of the school of the Order of the Red Cross will be conferred, qualifying for practice in any state or country; the railroad fare will then be paid back home.

Those applying and chosen to receive the benefits of this fund will be given two years' training, with a rich experience in nursing the sick poor of the city under skilled leaders. The term may be shortened to eighteen months by taking a preliminary course of six months' reading and study at home. A special short course enables young women to quickly qualify themselves for self support and a substantial income.

In addition to regular nursing, the young women are taught how to preserve their own health; how to recognize, avoid and destroy contagion; how to establish and maintain perfect sanitary conditions about the home; they are prepared for positions as office nurse and physician's assistant; they get a practical knowledge of City Mission movements, Deaconess training, College settlement work, and are trained for special positions of trust in institutions. The school is ten years old and is endorsed by physicians, leading educators and prominent men throughout the country.

CLEVERNESS AND CHARM.

Woman's Greatest Charm is a Glowing Complexion.

Every woman's aim should be to cultivate a fresh, blooming complexion, for while Nature may not have made her attractive in form and feature, the charm of a clear skin and a healthy complexion can be had if she will only try for it. The greatest enemy of a good complexion is constipation, and if it were known how many Oregon City ladies have improved their appearance through using a simple laxative remedy on sale at Huntley Bros Co's drug store it might surprise you. Laxakola Tonic Tablets are a perfect combination of dandelion, cascara and other vegetable extracts known to have a peculiarly beneficial action upon the skin. They open the pores, enrich the blood, aid the natural changes of the skin, quicken the circulation, put new color in the cheeks and cure chronic constipation by regulating and encouraging the action of the bowels. Huntley Bros. Co. would not continue to recommend this remedy if it did not possess unusual merit, and unless Laxakola Tonic Tablets do benefit you as claimed we will return you 25 cents without the least argument.

THE SALVATION ARMY.
