TERSELY-TOLD TALES OF THE WEEK'S DOINGS.

Died at Molalla— Mrs. Ida Dodge, aged 25 years, died last Wednesday of inflammation of the brain at her home at Molalla. Deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Woodside, pioneer residents of the county and is survived by a husband and two young children. Funeral services were held at the late home Friday and burial was had at Molalla.

Wife Gets Custody of Child— In the divorce suit of F. E. Linn against Kate B. Linn, in the state circuit court for Clackamas county, Judge G. E. Hayes, appearing as attorney for the defendant, was successful Saturday in having the decree reopened and the custody of the 5-year old son, which at the original trial of the suit was awarded to the father, transferred to the mother.

Neither Could Score— Teams from the Mt. Angel College and Barclay High School, of this city, Saturday afternoon played a scoreless game on Willamette Falls field near this city. While visitors outweighed the home team on an average of ten pounds to the man, the high school players were the speedier and showed effects of two weeks coaching under direction of Sam Stowe, of this city, recently of University of California.

Water Plant Inspected— Mayor Wood and Councilman Frank McGown, representing the City Council of Waitsburg, Washington, on Saturday inspecting the filtering plant of the Oregon City Water Works. The municipality of Waitsburg, contemplates installing a filtering system in connection with its water works and sent its representatives to this city to inspect the system here used before any purchases are made. The refined product from the system here used analyzes 99.8 per cent pure.

To Great Lawyer's Library— An effort is on foot in Oregon City to create a lawyers' library. A meeting will be called in a few days for all members of the Clackamas bar to discuss the advisability of such a movement and ways and means. The attorneys believe that this method will insure having many of the new law books that will be valuable to the practitioner that no individual attorney or firm feels warranted in buying. It is believed the county commissioners will provide a room for such a library in the county court house.

Died a Poor Man— Richard Graff, a county charge, who died last Thursday at Jones' Mill, this county, was at one time worth $10,000. Several years ago Graff went to Mexico, and invested his wealth in a saw-mill, but the natives, becoming antagonized, were successful in conducting a boycott against the American, who recently returned to Clackamas county, having lost both his fortune and his health. Since his return, Graff was supported by the county and his remains were interred Friday by a number of his German friends who contributed to a fund that their countryman might be given a respectable burial.

"Move to Green Point"— Proud in the possession of the certificates of awards they have received for fruit that was exhibited at the Lewis & Clark Fair, some of the residents of Green Point, one of Oregon City's pleasing suburbs, insist that it is essential to reside in that locality if the cream of the fruit for which Clackamas county is rightly noted is to be enjoyed. Among the Green Pointites to receive recognition in the prize awards at the recent Exposition were Chas. Burns Jr., who received a silver certificate for a basket of peaches grown in his yard and John W. Kelly, who received a bronze certificate for a display of prunes.

The "Gypsies" Entertain— Saturday evening at Knapp's Hall the Gypsies, a social organization recently formed by a dozen of the leading young society women of the city, informally entertained about forty invited guests in a manner that bespeaks much for their entertaining capacity. After a delightful programme of dancing, music being furnished by Shaw's orchestra, there was served a delicious lunch which concluded an evening of genuine pleasure for which the social enterprise of a company of young women was responsible. Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Huntley, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin T. Griffith and Mr. and Mrs. J. Nelson Wisner were the chaprones for the affair.

Objected To Two Changes— To be obliged to twice change her name was more than Mrs. Nellie Willet bargained for when she was married to Bird Willet in Iowa in 1887, and for that and other reasons recited in a divorce suit filed recently, the woman wants to be legally separated from Willet whom she denominates Bird Willet, alias Levi Barr, in her complaint. Mrs. Willet alleges that shortly after her marriage with the defendant, the latter without order or authority of the courts, changed his name from Bird Willet to Levi Barr and obliged her to adopt the same name. In addition to submitting to a double change of name, the woman represents that the defendant was guilty of cruelly treating her, that he used violent and obscene language toward her and falsely accused her of infidelity. Plaintiff asks for a divorce and the custody of three minor children.

A Most Pleasing Entertainment— One of the most interesting entertainments that has been given in Oregon City for several months was that under the auspices of the ladies of the First Baptist Church. It consisted of a recital by Miss Bertha Kay, of Portland, assisted by Miss Benson, Miss Foster and Mrs. R. C. Ganong. Miss Kay was recently graduated from the Emerson School of Oratory, of Boston, Mass., and in her work Friday evening she fully justified the reputation as a successful entertainer that had preceded her. Her numbers, "The Bear Story that Alex 'est Maked up His Own Self," by James Whitcomb Riley and Helene Thaire, by Elizabeth S. Phelps, were perhaps the best, affording Miss Kay an opportunity for displaying to advantage her ability, although the other numbers were equally faithfully presented. The musical numbers by Miss Benson, Miss Foster and Mrs. Ganong, contributed materially to the entertaining features of the evening's program. Miss Kay is now a resident of Portland and is contemplating organizing an elocutionary class in this city.

Gold Medal for Peters. Fountain Hose Company, No. 1 has had a beautiful gold medal made, which the next meeting will be presented to W. Peters, whose fine work at the firemen's tournament, July 5th, won the wet test and secured the prize money to Oregon City. The cost of the medal was met by subscription. Lawrence Runoich, D. Hartman, J. A. McGlashan and a few other Fountain Hose men had the work done.

Captain Apperson Returns. Captain J. C. Apperson returned home from a meeting at Washington, D. C., of the American Association of Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations. Captain Apperson represented the O. A. C. and the experiment station at Corvallis. Captain Apperson said the principal object of the meeting was to take steps to secure more financial aid from the general government for experiment stations. Two other matters of vital importance to the states on the Pacific coast came up; an organized effort to have established with national aid in all the general land grant colleges, which include the state agricultural colleges, schools to teach forestry and the care and preparation of forest reserves. Also to have established in these schools a school of mining. Should these plans be carried out Oregon will receive as much benefit as any other state.

Costs Money to be a Candidate— Secretary of State Dunbar has begun to make preparations for the general primary election to be held in this state and district offices must be filed with the Secretary of State by April 1, in order to have a place on the official ballot. It will require at least 60 days for each candidate or his friends to secure the necessary names and prepare the petitions required by law, so that the name may appear on the official ballot. Two tally sheets will be prepared: One for the Republican party and one for the Democratic party. No other party cast sufficient votes at the last election to entitle it to recognition in the primary election. Secretary Dunbar placed an order with the state printer for 32,389 blanks to be delivered January 1. The estimated cost of the primary election is between $3500 and $4000. There is nothing to prevent any man from circulating a petition to have his name placed on the official primary ballot. Secretary Dunbar has no discretion in the matter, but must place every man's name on the official ballot whose petition is regular and who complies with the terms of the law.

Crowded Conditions At Asylum— "If the population of the asylum keeps on increasing at the rate of the present and the past few weeks," says Superintendent J. F. Calbreath, "we will be taxed to provide accommodations. We will have to make the best of the situation under the circumstances and do what we can with the facilities at hand. The population has already passed 1400 mark, and keeps up at a steady increase. There is congestion now, particularly on the female side of the institution, but we can make room for a few more in each department. When it comes to a pinch we can resort to the quarantine hospital, or pest-house, which can be converted into temporary quarters for female patients and would provide accommodations for about 30. Upon the men's side we have recourse to the smoking or exercising-rooms, which are situated at the ends and between the wards. Beds could be placed in these and provisions made for about 30 more patients in each. It would, of course, be rather inconvenient and unsatisfactory, but would have to suffice until some relief is afforded by the legislature."

Had to Back Up— A somewhat sensational affair occurred last Thursday afternoon on the Portland train at Dilley and here. At Dilley, a Mrs. D. Bayless was boarding the train with a grip and four small children. A small crowd stood about and after the train had started she found that one of her children was not on. She told the conductor, but by that time they were well along towards Forest Grove. The train men were not as sympathetic as some of the passengers thought they ought to be, and quite a feeling was developed. However, after getting here and telephoning back to Dilley and finding out from Mr. Bricks that the child was actually there, the conductor wired in to the dispatcher's office and got permission to go back to Dilley after it. A student from the college who has the reputation of being rather "fresh" was at the depot to take the train to his home in Hillsboro, and angered the passengers by indiscreet interference in the case. The result was that some of the men made a rush for him and would have handled him roughly, but he got into the car behind some ladies who protected him. All together it made quite a sensation, but the train backed up, got the child and proceeded on its way half an hour late.—Forest Grove Times.

GOOD ROADS CONVENTION. Successful Meeting at Corvallis—Officers Elected. The Oregon Good Roads convention came to a close in Corvallis at noon Friday. All the speeches made were of a nature to arouse enthusiasm and awaken an interest in better highways, and the presence of so many of Oregon's supervisors would indicate that things will be doing in

Mr. Thos. George, a merchant at Mt. Elgin, Ontario, says, "I have had the local agency for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since it was introduced into Canada, and I sell as much of it as I do of all other lines I have on my shelves put together. Of the many dozens sold under guarantee, I have not had one bottle returned. I can personally recommend this medicine as I have used it myself and given it to my children and always with the best results." For sale by Howell & Jones.
