

WILL BUILD GOOD ROADS.

Senator Fulton Enthusiastic Over Proposed Experiments.

In a letter to residents of this state, Senator Fulton writes as follows:

"At dates to be fixed later in the Spring or Summer, one mile of road is to be built under Government supervision on each side of the Cascade, in the State of Oregon. The judges of Umatilla and Marion counties have agreed to provide the labor and materials, specifications for which will soon be agreed upon by an engineer for the Government and the county courts named.

"This work is to be undertaken at the most propitious time, the benefit of national experience will be offered and it is the hope of the officials of the Public Roads Bureau that all persons in Oregon who are interested in this vital question will attend through the demonstrations. To this end I wish to add my most solicitous request. No other work should be done at this time or indicating the high plane of Oregon progress, as that showing our interest in good roads. Nothing could be done by our people in other lines that would command greater attention of the home-seeker and the home-builder, for by these standards does the eastern farmer judge our opportunities in Oregon.

"The Government promises to have present its best road engineers with the most modern grading and road-building implements. Mr. Samuel Hill, connected with the Government bureau in an advisory capacity and president of the Washington Good Roads Association, and Judge John H. Scott, president of the Oregon Good Roads Association, will attend the work in both parts of the State, bringing to the scene as many as possible of their good roads workers. I would be pleased to know that the county judge and commissioners of every Oregon county had arranged to attend one or both of the demonstrations, bringing with them all of their prominent road men. This fact would be an encouragement to the government officials in the first instance to continue in a departure that is certainly in the right direction, and would result in the officials of the state who control and make our highways receiving a practical demonstration of the very latest and best work known to the revived science of road-building.

"As soon as the Government engineers have ascertained from the judges of Umatilla and Marion counties the best date for this work, I will communicate the same to you, and in the meantime will be ready to furnish all possible information, and co-operate in every way, that these demonstrations of work and cost may be given the widest possible educational influence throughout the State of Oregon.

"The first work to be done in the Northwest will be at Pullman, Washington, and I think it is probable that Pendleton, Oregon, will be the scene of the next demonstration." The work at Salem will not likely be undertaken earlier than the middle of the latter part of May. Surveys and consultations regarding specifications, will be finished soon, and in the course of the present month I can probably announce the exact date for the demonstrations."

GET A FEW SHEEP.

When I say get a few sheep, I talk from past experience, but the sheep industry looks more profitable when looking at it from the standpoint of future prospects. Twenty-five years ago I had some experience with sheep, as I was often put in charge of my father's flock when a youth, and many times was called upon to answer why I had let the sheep into the crops. It was frequently the case that a game of marbles with a neighbor's boy was the cause. My experience since then has led me to see the folly of using a boy as a sheep fence, for even a boy's time is worth more than the fence costs. In spite of my trials as a boy, I still retained a love for sheep. I ran a meat market in the early days and it was difficult to get mutton enough for the trade. One day a Mr. Percy came into the market and wanted to sell me four yearling wethers and four spring lambs. The spring lambs were then about six months old, while the wethers were about one and one-half years of age. I paid Mr. Percy 4 1/2 cents per pound for the yearlings and 5 cents for the lambs, and when he delivered them the lambs came to $52.54. He was pleased and told me that they were the increase of two ewes, being two set lambs and when one year old they both had twins and all four lambs were wethers; the next spring the prolific mothers again had two lambs each and they were all four wethers, and he had eight fleeces of wool and $52.54 cash that he derived from the two ewes in two years.

That was pretty good. It set me to thinking and I came to the conclusion that sheep were the stock to raise and since there were no sheep for sale around here, I went to Caxton, and bought two carloads of mixed lambs, wethers and ewes. When I got them home I sorted out the wethers, fed them that fall and let Mr. P. Bullis take the ewes on shares. I then bought an improved Shropshire ram which cost me $76.25. He proved to be one of the best investments I had ever made and Mr. Bullis, being a great lover of sheep and a good, straight, honest, upright man, such as one often finds among the sheep men, I let him keep sheep on shares for nine years. He did well for me, as well as for himself. He was man of very limited means when he first got the sheep, but during the nine years of sheep raising he bought up more land and made some improvements; today he has as good a farm as one can find and he gives the sheep the credit for it.

Now my advice to every farmer is to keep a few sheep; fence in a small pasture and keep them in there during the summer months; then when your small grain is harvested, turn your sheep in the fields, they will get whatever waste grain there is on the ground and if there is any pigeon grass, wild buckwheat, or any other obnoxious weeds on your farm they will weed them out for you. The time has come when the vast sheep ranges of the west are a thing of the past and the mutton demand is rapidly increasing every year. In my estimation a good Shropshire ewe is the queen of all beasts; she furnishes you meat to eat and clothes to wear, and those are two of the greatest commodities we live for. If every farmer would keep from 25 to 125 sheep, according to the amount of land he has, he would soon realize profits as he gets two crops a year—the wool in June and the lambs in October. The only contagious sheep disease we have to dread is the scab, but that can be cured. I know from experience as I am the county sheep inspector and have cured many cases. I do not mean to say that you will not lose some sheep every year but when you have sheep once they are not so easy to lose anything, but it is not so with the hog. When cholera gets into your hogs, it will sometimes take your entire crop with your hogs, hence I say again to my brother farmer, get a few sheep. But do not use your children as their guardians; build six-strand wire fences with posts three rods apart and with two pickets stays between each two posts. That will make a good sheep fence, dogs or wolves will seldom go through it, and thus your sheep will cause the least trouble and be most profitable of any animals you have on your farm. Do not be afraid that you will overstock the market.—J. Byrne, in Farmers' Tribune.

FRANK BUSCH THE HOUSE FURNISHER

Do you remember the "sight unseen" trades or "swaps" of boyhood? One of the parties to the transaction usually got the worst of it, didn't he? And it wasn't usually the one who proposed the deal, was it?

There's a lot of the same sort of "sight unseen" trading going on to-day. Only now-a-days it is called Buying by Mail. The pictures in the advertisements of the mail order houses look nice; the talk sounds nice and sometimes the deal turns out all right. But even supposing it does—wherein is the buyer any better off than if he bought of a home merchant?

Take any article you chose from the long list of things sold by mail, and you can buy it just as cheaply and just as well here at home. The expense of selling it by mail is just as great, if not greater, than the expense of selling it over the counter.

Where we have rent, taxes and clerk hire to pay, the mail order dealer has all those—and rents and taxes are higher in the large cities than here—and in addition he has to pay a small army of bookkeepers, stenographers, shipping clerks and other employes, besides the immense cost of advertising.

We can do business on a smaller margin of profit than the mail order dealer can; we know our people and their desires, and we know that we have sold and will sell better goods for the money than the other fellow does.

If you wish to buy a new extension table, bureau, stove, chiffonier or a new carpet, or doors and windows, come and see us, we will figure with you and can save you money. Following we itemize a few of our bargains and prices speak for themselves:

IS DISEASE A CRIME?

Not so very long ago, a popular magazine published an editorial article in which the writer asserted, in substance, that all disease should be regarded as criminal. Certain it is, that much of the sickness and suffering of mankind is due to the violation of certain laws of nature, which, if understood and implicitly followed, would result in the prevention of much of the sickness and suffering of mankind. But to say that all sickness should be regarded as criminal, must, on a little sober reflection, appeal to every reasonable and intelligent individual as radically wrong.

Thousands suffer from contagious and infectious diseases most innocently and unconsciously contracted. Other thousands suffer and die of cancerous affections, the cause of which no medical man has yet been wise enough to ferret out and determine, and which can not, therefore, be avoided. Then too, many times the stress of circumstances compel people to expose themselves to various disease-producing agencies, such as malaria, bad air in overheated factories, coal mines, and many other situations, and surely those who suffer therefrom should not be branded as criminals.

In-so far as disease is contracted or brought on one's self from harmful excesses, over-indulgence in eating and other like indulgences and debauchery, we think, with our editor friend, that it should be regarded as little less than criminal. On the other hand, we think it would be harsh, unsympathetic, cruel, yes, criminal, to condemn the poor, weak, over-worked housewife who sinks under the heavy load of household cares and burdens which she is obliged to struggle along under until she succumbs to the strain and over-exertion, and suffers from weakness, various displacements of pelvic organs and other derangements peculiar to her sex.

The too frequent bearing of children, with its exacting demands upon the system, coupled with the care, worry and labor of rearing a large family, is often the cause of weakness, derangements and debility which the mother has to bear and which are aggravated by the many household cares, and the hard, and never-ending work which she is called upon to perform. Dr. Pierce, the maker of that world-famed remedy for women's peculiar ills—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—says that one of the greatest obstacles to the cure of this class of maladies is the fact that the poor, overworked housewife can not get the needed rest from her many household cares and labor to enable her to secure from the use of his "Prescription" its full benefits. It is a matter of frequent experience, he says, in his extensive practice in these cases, to meet with those in which the treatment fails by reason of the patient's inability to abstain from hard work long enough to be cured. With those suffering from pro-lapsus, ante-version and retro-version of the uterus, or other derangements of the woman's organs, it is very necessary that, in addition to taking his "Favorite Prescription," she abstain from being very much, or for long periods, on their feet. All heavy lifting or straining of any kind should also be avoided. As much out-door air as possible, with moderate, light exercise is also very important.

Now, while all the foregoing disagreeable symptoms and sensations will generally yield to the faithful and somewhat persistent use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, to realize the very best results from its use, the patient must, as far as possible, abstain from over-work, worry, and too much confinement in-doors. To such women as are not seriously afflicted with health, but who have exacting duties to perform, either in the way of household duties or in social duties and functions, such as teaching, nursing, etc., as well as to nursing mothers, the "Favorite Prescription" has proved a most valuable supporting tonic and invigorating nerve. By its timely use, much serious sickness and suffering may be avoided. The operating table and the surgeon's knife, would, it is believed, seldom have to be resorted to if this most valuable woman's remedy were resorted to in good time. The "Favorite Prescription" has proven a great boon to expectant mothers by preparing the system for the coming of baby, thereby rendering childbirth safe, easy, and almost painless.

Don't forget that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for woman's weaknesses and delicate ailments, is not a patent or secret medicine, being the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated and graduated physician, engaged in the practice of his chosen specialty—that of diseases of women. The ingredients are printed in plain English on every bottle-wrapper; that it is the only medicine especially designed for the cure of woman's diseases, and that it is the only one that has a professional endorsement worth more than all the so-called "testimonials" ever published for other medicines. An invitation is extended by Dr. Pierce to every sick and ailing woman to consult him by letter. There is absolutely no charge or fee for this. Every letter is carefully considered, fully answered, and its statements held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address as above directed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good."
