Painless Operations

The advance of dental science has been so rapid and the improvements so numerous in all branches of the work that few people realize to what an extent the pain accompanying dental operations has been minimized. This has been accomplished not alone by improvements in the agents employed for producing an aesthesia, both local and general, but in methods and appliances used for their administration. The work of filling teeth has been so improved as to allow of its performance in much less time, and with little or no pain as compared with the work of former years.

MISS BENSON'S RECITAL.

Miss Benson's piano recital, which takes place at W. O. W. Hall, Saturday, June 16, at three o'clock, promises to be a treat to all interested in music. Miss Benson has been most fortunate in securing two of Portland's favorite singers to assist her pupils upon this occasion—Mrs. J. S. Hamilton and Mr. J. Ross Fargo.

Mrs. Hamilton is a divorcée musician, having received her musical education at the Chicago Musical College, and since coming to Portland has had charge of the choir of the Grace M. E. Church, and is now director of the musical department of the Woman's Club of that city. She has a mezzo-soprano voice of great sweetness and power that has won her many enthusiastic friends.

Mr. Fargo needs no introduction in Oregon City, being already well and favorably known here as the possessor of a rich and pleasing tenor voice. His former appearances have gained for him many admirers and insure him once again a warm welcome.

The piano numbers to be given have been already noted in these columns and consist of a series of carefully selected solos and duets of varying grades of difficulty, ranging from simple compositions adapted to small fingers to the works of such masters as Schumann, Mendelssohn and Grieg.

Louis W. Ingram, a veteran of the Civil War and an honored and respected citizen, died suddenly of heart failure, at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday morning at his home at Parkplace. The announcement of Mr. Ingram's death is scarcely believed. He had been in his office every day until and including Tuesday and was enjoying his accustomed good health until Wednesday morning when he arose somewhat earlier than usual, complaining that he did not feel well. About 6 o'clock he reclined on the sofa and within a half hour was dead.

Mr. Ingram was a native of Pennsylvania, having been born at Bellefonte, January 2, 1840. He came to Oregon in 1888, locating at Oregon City, where he has since resided. The deceased is survived by a wife, six sons and four daughters.

Mr. Ingram was always prominently associated with the G. A. R., being past commander and the present adjutant of Meade Post, of this city.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by Rev. J. Robert Landsborough, at the First Presbyterian church. Following the services at the church, the members of Meade Post No. 2, G. A. R., took charge of the remains which were interred at Mountain View cemetery.

RUINS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

The Clark American Biograph Company which is to present the ruins of San Francisco tonight at the opera house, has been received with such enthusiasm that without doubt they gave an excellent performance.

They are the only troupe on the road having moving pictures of the fire itself, and the dynamiting of the buildings. These were taken by Mr. Clark himself, and are shown by none other.

The following telegram was sent by the manager of the Ashland opera house to the manager of the Grants Pass opera house:
