UNCONSCIOUS ALL NIGHT FROM A FALL

SAMMY ROAKE, JOLTED FROM STREET CAR PLATFORM STRIKES ON HEAD

Samuel Chester Roake, fifteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Roake of Sixteenth street and Madison avenue, fell from an incoming one o'clock street car at Fourteenth street Wednesday afternoon, and struck on his head, rendering him unconscious. He was taken to the office of Dr. Carl where his injuries were found not necessarily fatal and later removed to his home. He was partly unconscious all night, but at noon Thursday was reported much better, and that the doctor thinks there are no internal injuries.

The lad was returning from Portland. He was standing on the back platform and had signaled the car to stop, when a jolt caused him to lose his balance and fall. No bones are broken but his left forearm is bruised and there is a contusion on his forehead. Thursday forenoon he could not recall the accident but remembers events just before.

The lad fell from a cherry tree two years ago bursting an ear drum and otherwise affecting his head.

PROVED A GOOD PROPERTY.

A Portland paper had an exhaustive description of the mines in the Blue River district and had this to say of the Crown Boys mine that is owned by Oregon City men: The Crown Boys, incorporated, another property on the southwest side of Gold Hill, on Simmons creek, has had sufficient development work done to prove it a good property. The ledges on this property are very large and average assays give them $8 per ton.
