R. T. WATTS PURCHASES DR. LEAVITT'S TWO HUNDRED ACRE RANCH. Dr. J. J. Leavitt of Molalla has closed a deal with R. T. Watts by which he sold his farm at Molalla. The farm contains about 200 acres, mostly under cultivation and is considered to be one of the finest farms in Clackamas county.

County Judge Dimick heard arguments Thursday on the disposal of the funds in the hands of the administrator in the estate of J. L. Cochran. Cochran died leaving an estate in real property, which according to law, became vested in the heirs, his sons Bert and Mort. The heirs had failed in business and their interest in the realty was attached by the judgment creditors, who sold part of the land under execution.

DISPOSAL OF FUNDS OF COCHRAN ESTATE.

County Judge Dimick heard arguments Thursday on the disposal of the funds in the hands of the administrator in the estate of J. L. Cochran. Cochran died leaving an estate in real property, which according to law, became vested in the heirs, his sons Bert and Mort. The heirs had failed in business and their interest in the realty was attached by the judgment creditors, who sold part of the land under execution. Subsequently J. J. Cooke was appointed administrator and he sold the entire land for the purpose of paying the intestate's debts, disregarding the prior sale by the judgment creditors. This proceeding on the part of the administrator was perfectly proper and invalidates the sale made by the creditors of the heirs.
