

STOP TWO RUNAWAY PORTLAND YOUTHS

Captured at S. P. Depot by Local Police—Tiniest One Had A 22.

Herbert Martin aged 14 and Charles Hunt aged 16 were apprehended by Chief of Police Burns and Nightwatch Ed. Shaw just after they had purchased tickets for Albany about 8:00 o'clock Monday evening. The two boys had run away from home in Portland, and presumably came down here on the car and intended to take the train south. The little lad was armed with a small 22-caliber pistol. They were put in the jug for safe-keeping until word came from Portland what should be done with them.

The Portland authorities telephoned Chief of Police Burns just before eight o'clock to keep a look-out for the boys, and furnished him with a description of the runaways. Burns went directly to the depot with Shaw, and as luck would have it, caught one of them in the act of purchasing a ticket for Albany. The officer let him conclude his purchase and waited for him to join his companion, which he did, putting both of them into the officers' hands.

Hunt's mother came up Monday night and took charge of her precious, and Martin was turned over to the tender grasp of his father Tuesday morning.

GRAND ARMY OF THE POST ELECTS OFFICERS

J. C. Sawyer Is Chosen Commander—Delegates to Department Encampment.

Meade Post No. 2 of the G. A. R. held its regular meeting last night and elected officers and also delegates to the department encampment to be held next June. Resolutions were passed honoring a dead comrade, Patrick Fuge, who died recently. A joint installation, with proper ceremonies, will be held on the first Monday in January of the officers elected to the G. A. R. positions Monday night and also the officers elected recently in the Women's Relief Corps.

The following were chosen: Commander, J. C. Sawyer; Senior Vice-Commander, Daniel Williams; Junior Vice-Commander, H. Blankenship; Chaplain, E. T. Grider; Officer of the day, A. T. Hobbie; Quarter Master, G. A. Harding; Sergeant, J. A. Tufts; Officer of the Guard, W. W. Freeman; Delegate to Department encampment, J. M. Taylor, O. L. Clyde, H. Blankenship, E. T. Grider, Daniel Williams, J. A. Tufts, and E. Cahill; Alternates, J. A. Roman, W. W. Freeman, Joshua Gorblitt, C. C. Babcock, J. C. Paddock, H. H. Johnson, city surveyor, also left. The encampment will be held next June in Newberg.

HELPED HIMSELF TO PAIR OF OVERSHOES

L. Erickson from near Clackamas went into the Red Front store about 11:20 Tuesday and helped himself to a pair of overshoes that belonged to the proprietor. E. C. Hamilton had his eye peeled for various reasons, however, and caught him at it. Erickson was taken before Justice Stipp by Chief of Police Burns who happened along just at the right time and the judge fined him $25 for petty larceny. Erickson secured the necessary money and was released shortly after.

DR. JOHN McLOUGHLIN, FRIEND OF THE PIONEER AND FOUNDER OF OREGON CITY.

How Dr. McLoughlin Appeared in Life.

Following is a pen picture of McLoughlin from an address by Dr. H. K. Hines of Pendleton, who visited Oregon City in 1852: "I was walking up the Main street of that then rustic pioneer hamlet, when I saw advancing toward me a man of the most majestic and venerable mien I had ever beheld. Much over six feet in height, with the body and limbs of an Apollo Belvidere, he moved with an easy, graceful stride, that revealed the cultured gentleman as well as the sturdy athlete. He was dressed in sober black, so well fitted as to display his superb frame to the finest advantage. His feet were encased in beaded moccasins which made them appear as delicate as a well-gaited woman. His long, flowing hair, white as a bank of snow, swept the tip of his shoulders, forming a shining, silver setting for his round and ruddy countenance, full of strength yet full of benignity. It was a form upon which every god did seem to set his seal, to give the world assurance of a man, as we met, and I was introduced to him by my companion, who had known him well from 1840 to 1846, and received his kindly greetings with a word of welcome to Oregon, I felt a gentle moving in my heart towards the strong and kindly manhood that evidently throbbed within that magnificent body."

Henry Miley has returned from a visit with relatives in various parts of Missouri. He left here about the middle of last month, and has been spending his time with different relatives in the central, eastern, and northern part of his old state. He reports Missouri mud as juicy as it has always been. No mishaps occurred to the train on his way east, though the trip was made in the very midst of the high floods. A half hour's delay occurred near Pendleton, and about eight hours more further down the line waiting for a wrecked freight train to be cleared out of the way.

Dr. C. H. Meisner, who has been on an extended visit in the east in Philadelphia, New York and Chicago, where he is taking a post-graduate course at the Chicago Polyclinic, will return to this city about the first of January to resume his work here in the practice of medicine.
