Eugene Redding, who plays Colonel Larivette in "Before and After," is a Frenchman, by name Joseph Ribodeaux.

THE SUBMARINES.

Submarine science, like that of navigating the air with certainty, is still "in its infancy."—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

It will not take many more accidents to eliminate the submarine from naval armaments through the impracticability of obtaining crews.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

As experiments are made to be encouraged, but the navy generally is probably correct in not attaching much military value to the type as it has thus far been developed.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

CROPS.

The 1906 crop of potatoes in this country is estimated at 277,000,000 bushels compared with 253,000,000 in 1905 and 289,000,000 in 1904.

The peanut crop in the United States now amounts to 11,000,000 bushels annually. The total sales amount to be between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Rubber is steadily increasing in value owing to the growth of the automobile, bicycle and electrical industries, and this year's crop for the whole world is estimated at 75,000 tons, valued at $120,000,000.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

The layer of the sea taken up in clouds each year is now estimated at fourteen feet in thickness.

Arcurus is not less than seventy and is probably more than 100 light years distant from us. This star certainly surpasses the sun in volume many thousand times.

The moon is the sluggard of the solar system. Its 2,273 miles an hour in its journeying around the earth comparing badly with the earth's 68,572 miles an hour.

George Edwardes, the London producing manager, is responsible for the statement that the speculation of the theatrical trust in that city last year involved them in a loss of $330,000.

Liebler & Co. will produce a musical version of "Mrs. Wiggs." It will be a novelty in that it will be the first time a musical production has been shabbily costumed by intention.

"The Sweet Girl," an English version of "Das Suesse Maedel," an operetta popular for the past few seasons in Germany, has recently been produced in Nottingham, England.

SHORT STORIES.

It is said that 7,700 husbands deserted their wives in the city of New York last year.

The earliest creatures which were furnished with eyes were the trilobites. The sense of hearing did not exist for ages afterward.

With face lathered on one side and the other neatly shaved, the driver of a New York hook and ladder wagon was observed racing his equipment through the streets.

The following announcement to the hungry was posted one day in the front of a restaurant conducted by a Greek in the Horseshoe section of Jersey City: "Korut beefe and garbags in sin stle too-day."

President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California suggests for language reform that an international academy might be founded to have authority in the matters of language changes, just as the French academy and the Spanish academy have done.

"Frenzied Finance" Man to Become Novelist—Meyer's New Job—Sir William Perkin—Attorney General Moody. Garlington's Difficult Task.

THOMAS W. LAWSON.

THOMAS W. LAWSON is not satisfied with the literary fame he has won through his magazine expose of "frenzied finance," but is credited with an ambition to enter the field of fiction.

In view of his prediction for the "muck rake" it is supposed that should he write a society novel it would show up some of the delings of the smart set in a way that might not be quite to their liking.

George von Lengerke Meyer, the United States ambassador to Russia, who is scheduled for early appointment to the cabinet as postmaster general, comes of a distinguished Massachusetts family.

GEORGE VON L. MEYER.

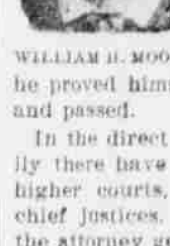

At a luncheon party not long ago Mr Meyer told an incident illustrating the gallantry and wit of the czar.

"A beautiful Italian girl," he said "was summoned to play the violin at the Winter palace.

"She was an excellent musician. Her performance was admirable. At the end, with a smile and a little bow, the czar said to her:

"If I were to shut my eyes while you are playing, I could fancy it were Ysaye, but I much prefer to keep them open."

William H. Moody, the present attorney general in the cabinet of President Roosevelt, who will soon go on the bench of the United States supreme court, was not always recognized as possessing the making of a great jurist.

WILLIAM H. MOODY.

Inspector General E. A. Garlington of the United States army had a difficult task to perform in connection with the trouble over the battalion of colored troops of the Twenty-fifth infantry stationed at Brownsville, Tex.

In the direct line of the Moody family there have been five judges of the higher courts, three of whom were chief justices.

Joseph Moody, one of the attorney general's ancestors, was a stern puritanical minister in Portsmouth who, on account of his zeal, suffered imprisonment.

The Rev. Joseph Moody of York, Me., or, as he was always called, "Handkerchief" Moody, was another relative who suffered from a nervous disorder on account of the accidental killing of a friend in his youth.

others. He always ate at a side table with his face turned away. Sometimes he was induced to show his face, but his eyes were always closed.

Another Moody who has been winning fame is William Vaughn Moody, who wrote "The Great Divide," a play which is one of the biggest hits of the present theatrical season in New York.

WILLIAM VAUGHN MOODY.

He was born in Spencer, Ind., in 1869 and graduated from Harvard university in 1893. He is a great-grandson of one of the pioneer settlers of Indiana, and legend has it that the first homestead in that region belonged to his family.

Europe and has been writing verse since he was fifteen years of age, but it was not until about a half dozen years ago that he published his first important poetic work, "The Masque of Judgment," a lyrical drama.

Chemists and scientists in general and men engaged in commerce and manufacture have recently been celebrating in this country and in England the jubilee of the coal tar industry.

It is fifty years since Sir William Perkin, the distinguished English scientist now in the United States in connection with this celebration, made the discovery which led to the manufacture of mauve and other dyes from coal tar.

SIR WILLIAM PERKIN.

More than $100,000,000 is now invested in such industries in the United States alone.

Sir William was born in London. He was born in London at the age of sixty-eight. He was only eighteen when he discovered mauve dye.

At the national business show, held each year in the Madison Square Garden, New York, one of the leading features is the contest for the typewriting championship.

This was last won by Miss Rose L. Fritz, a New York girl whose fingers are nimble and whose wits are quick.

She has made a remarkable record in writing on the machine from dictation and from manuscript.

She has made a minute as many as 219 words, and her record for an hour is 4,017 words.

The typewriting contest attracts entries from all parts of the United States and even from Europe.

John Kendrick Bangs, the humorist, was moving goods from his home in Yonkers, N. Y., one rainy day, and before the house stood three moving vans, and the lawn was covered with furniture of all sorts.

"Oh, are you moving, Mr. Bangs?" "No, indeed, Mrs. —," replied the humorist.

"You see, it is such a beautiful day that I thought I would get all the furniture out of my house and take it for a ride."

Inspector General E. A. Garlington of the United States army had a difficult task to perform in connection with the trouble over the battalion of colored troops of the Twenty-fifth infantry stationed at Brownsville, Tex.

Colonel Garlington was born in South Carolina in 1803 and became a cadet at the West Point military academy in 1822. He reached the rank of colonel in 1904.

ARTISTIC WALLS.

Beautiful Results May Be Produced With Appliqued Paper.

Many women who have time and taste to expend in the beautifying of their homes are not aware of the novel and beautiful results to be obtained by the appliqueing of wall paper when attempted with care and a preconceived plan.

Usually paper of solid tone is used for the background, the figures from another paper being carefully cut out and mounted on this according to the decorator's own design.

In this way it is possible to obtain combinations and effects not to be found in the regulation papers.

Two of the most successful rooms in a recently formed woman's club are created in this way, the results being most successful.

The decorator, being an artist, has suggested with her brush a wall or fence over which the roses come tumbling in profusion.

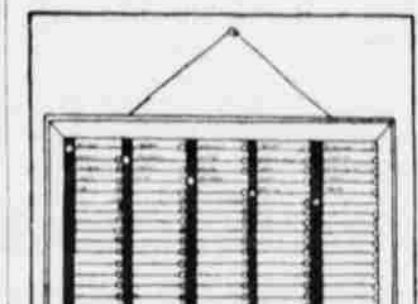

Another lovely room in the same house is papered in rough cartridge paper of soft gray tint.

Given leisure and an eye for color the devising of many such schemes suited to the appliqueing idea is a pastime open to any woman.

SUPPLY INDICATOR.

A Convenient Reminder For the Busy Housewife.

Every business man uses a reminder of some kind. Why should not the housewife do likewise?

KITCHEN SUPPLY INDICATOR.

Within a frame is a plate having rows of names of articles of household use arranged in horizontal lines across the front.

In front of and parallel with the names are rods, transverse rods extending at points adjacent to each row of names.

Moving freely on each horizontal rod are indicators in the form of small balls, one for each name on the plate.

Normally, all the indicators are to the right of the names.

When the housewife discovers she is short of sugar or salt, etc., she moves the corresponding indicator to the left.

Before going to market she looks at the board and lets down each article she needs to purchase.—St. Louis Republic.

To Restore Nerve.

A certain doctor in Paris much sought after by fashionable ladies whose nerves are overwrought by pleasure adopts some curious remedies with which to cure his fair patients.

"You are on the verge of nervous collapse. Now, what you have to do is this. Every afternoon walk to such and such a hospital. When you get there ask for Nurse X. She will take you to the second floor, into a room entirely furnished in white.

While much has been said, from a material standpoint, about the effect of dress upon the health, the spiritual side has been largely ignored.

Dress and Mental Discomfort. The mental discomfort of an unbecoming or badly fitting garment is probably greater than the bodily uneasiness occasioned by overtight bands or foot-wear, and the former, perhaps, causes more actual physical harm.

It is not the least of the hardships of poverty that a garment that offends the taste cannot be discarded, but has to be worn, with all its depressing effects upon the mind, until something at least of its money value has been extracted from it.
