Entered at the postoffice at Oregon City, Oregon, as second-class matter.

THE PEOPLE DECIDE.

By a decisive majority the voters have decided that the city should not be taxed to buy the old home of Dr. John McLoughlin.

This adverse vote does not indicate any less regard for the founder of our city, but that the public memorial to him should be of a different character than the expensive preservation of the house in which he lived only ten years of a long and busy life.

The main causes of the result were, first, the belief, as already stated, that the city should honor Dr. McLoughlin in a different way, and second, the sandwiching of the practical with the sentimental, or in other words, combining with the preserving of the home to honor Dr. McLoughlin, the plans to use it for that civic purpose.

A third cause that may have caused more adverse votes than most people think was the very general belief that wealthy local men, with some assistance from voluntary contributions by pioneer families all over the State, should buy the home, and turn it over to the State to preserve.

THE LONG WAY AROUND.

The item in the Stafford letter published in this paper, expressed a general desire of the Clackamas county people living west of the Willamette for more direct mail connection with Oregon City.

A large part of that territory is now served by rural routes from Sherwood and Oswego. Mail from or to the county seat goes a roundabout way through Portland and somewhere is held up or delayed so that it takes from two to three days to reach its destination.

Rural routes from Oregon City should serve all Clackamas county people residing west of the Willamette except in the town of Oswego. That would suit the convenience of the great majority of the patrons.

It is probably out of the question to secure those changes now, or until county services is granted, but it is well to bear in mind the desirability of such changes when Clackamas turn for county service comes.

Each presidential postoffice will be supplied within the next year, with stamps having the name of that postoffice printed on them, the Department having recently ordered that kind. Aside from sentimental reasons for the change, it is said the new kind of stamps will be more difficult for thieves to dispose of in large lots or at least it will be easier to trace the thief who attempts to dispose of them.

"There are," says the Indianapolis Star, "thousands of happy houses for which the trial marriage possesses no charm. The husband and wife loose, and they would marry twice as quick as before." Still, it would perhaps be best not to take any needless risk by turning them loose while family living expenses are so high.

Peary got within 265 miles of the pole and says he would have reached it but for one unlucky storm. All failures are explained with an if or a but. The expedition ran short of coal, so they were not any better off than Reppner and other inland Empire towns are these days.

The Chicago Record-Herald says of Mrs. Eva Emery Dye's book, "McDonald of Oregon" that it "will have a greater charm for the lover of American literature than for the novel reader," which according to our way of thinking is a high compliment to the work.

San Francisco has a lot of money left out of the funds that were subscribed for the relief of the earthquake sufferers. Evidently Reuf and Schmitz didn't believe in the old saying "might as well be hung for an old sheep as a lamb."

If the Louisiana congressman is acquitted of killing a man the day after election, it will be a dangerous precedent. Nearly half the people of this country feel life killing somebody next day after election.

It seems to be possible for any man to do any thing, if he first makes a picture of it and goes at it with his shirt sleeves rolled up.

MEADE POST RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolution was adopted by Meade Post No. 2, G. A. R. at the regular meeting held December 2, 1906:

Resolved, That this Post, by the death of our late comrade Patrick Page, has lost a true and honorable member and the country a good and upright citizen; the Colors and Charter of the Post will be draped for the next 30 days in honor of his memory; we extend to his bereaved family our deepest sympathy in their great loss of husband and father, and that a copy of these proceedings be sent to them. Geo. A. Harding, J. A. Tufts, Daniel Williams, Committee.

King of All Cough Medicines.

Mrs. E. G. Case, a mail carrier of Canton Center, Conn., who has been in the U. S. Service for about sixteen years, says: "We have tried many cough medicines for croup but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is king of all and one to be relied upon every time. We also find it the best remedy for coughs and colds, giving certain results and leaving no bad after-effects. For sale by Howell & Jones.
