160 FRUIT MEN ATTEND MEETING

Clackamas and Marion Growers Gather at Aurora — Inspector Lewis' Report.

Fruit Inspector Lewis of Clackamas county was in Oregon City Friday giving out more notices of warning to the owners of infected fruit trees of this district. The inspector also was scattering hand bills on which was printed different spraying solutions.

Mr. Lewis has just returned from a meeting of the fruit growers of the districts that border along the boundary line of both Clackamas and Marion counties. The meeting was held in Aurora Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Lewis worked in conjunction with E. C. Armstrong, Fruit Inspector of Marion county. The meeting was an interesting one as over 150 farmers and business men had responded, to the call.

Fruit Inspector Armstrong of Marion is an especially strong man along horticultural lines and brought many good ideas to the persons assembled.

No set speeches were made by either inspectors, but specimens of diseased branches were brought and explained to the growers and remedies given for the same. Fruit growers in this county are trying to agitate the building of a plant where spraying solutions will be manufactured and sold to the growers. The solutions would be purer, more effective and could be secured at a much lower cost. This plan is being favored in Southern Oregon, and is headed there by Charles Meserve of Medford, who is county fruit inspector of Jackson county. In speaking of the condition of fruit trees in that district Mr. Lewis said, "Trees of the south end of the county are in fairly good shape, and in fact in much better condition than in other parts. In the isolated districts diseased trees are practically unknown."

CANBY ITEMS.
The new bank building is nearing completion.
S. P. Bird, formerly of Big Timber, Montana, has recently sold his ranch there and bought that old Barlow place here.
J. H. Bissell has returned to Durkee to resume charge of his position as Ledgerwood engineer.
Andrew Koehler has purchased Egypt, Hambletonian three year old, sire of Coeur d'Alene of Geo. Speight well known breeder of fine horses. Mr. Koehler also contemplates the purchase of another horse of the same stock, which will without doubt complete one of the finest teams in the country. Both horses promise well for speed. Mr. Speight will keep the team until well broken. Purchase price withheld at present.

PRIVATE SURVEYS CAUSE SPECULATION
Several surveying parties that are at work in the country about Sandy, have created a good deal of comment. It is not known just why the surveyors are working except that the Oregon Water Power & Railway company expects to extend its line into the Sandy country and the east end of Clackamas county.
The present survey started from Anderson, a small station on the O. W. P. & Ry. line to a point seven miles east of Sandy. About 40 men are now employed in the two parties. One of the crews is in charge of D. W. Kinnaird of this city.

New Depot for Canby.
John Baney of Canby was in Oregon City Saturday on business. Mr. Baney spoke in praising terms of the enterprising town of Canby. The Southern Pacific is now building a new depot at that point.

The Grip.
"Before we can sympathize with others, we must have suffered ourselves." No one can realize the suffering attendant upon an attack of the grip, unless he has had the actual experience. There is probably no disease that causes so much physical and mental agony, or which so successfully defies medical aid. All danger from the grip, however, may be avoided by the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy, not one case has ever been reported that has resulted in pneumonia, or that has not recovered. For sale by Howell & Jones.

J. J. Hill will retire from railroad interests. His son will be Great Northern's head.

TEAM FALLS OVER BANK 70 FEET HIGH

WILLAMETTE MAN LOSES SPAN OF VALUABLE HORSES BY QUEER ACCIDENT.

A valuable team of horses was drowned Thursday evening in the Willamette above the falls near the mouth of the Tualatin river.

Gustave Schneau was plowing on the tract of land which corners at the intersection of the Tualatin and Willamette rivers Thursday until the day was well spent. Later in day while working on the edge of embankment the horses slipped and fell over the bluff, a distance of 70 feet, to the swift water at the mouth of the Tualatin. As the darkness prevented seeing the fate of the horses, the young man in charge took for granted that the horses had been killed by the terrible fall and did not summon aid.

A little later, men that were working the booms of logs on both sides of the Willamette report that one of the horses was seen near the bank, but the deepness of the water at that point prevented the horse from landing. In a short time the horse sank out of sight. The loggers on the Canemah side say that the other horse then swam across the Willamette but the logs prevented landing and it also disappeared from sight.

The team was beautifully matched and was valued at $250.

FREE RURAL DELIVERY IDEA.

American Indians Practiced It For Many Centuries.

"Archaeological research reveals many important details of the domestic economy of ancient times, but practically nothing that indicates the character or even the existence of what are today regarded as vital branches of an adequate public service," says Frank Abial Flower in Records of the Past. "Perhaps there were no such branches in those times, and perhaps there were many of which we have no inkling, because they were organized, like an afternoon reception, in such form that they could and actually did disappear without leaving palpable traces behind.

"The general delivery of private information from house to house, theoretically at public expense, and actually under government regulation, is supposed to have been unknown to the ancients of all periods; but I can state that one of the most effective as well as one of the most interesting systems of rural free delivery ever conceived was in use for untold generations by the Indians on the north shore of Lake Superior, especially the Pilegors, and (I suppose prior to the demoralization wrought by the advent of the Caucasian) by the Indians of other localities.

"Under tribal law, every person who travels over the trail must examine the contents of each post office that he passes for the purpose of forwarding any messages which are delivered in the direction that he is pursuing. If the first person who passes the cache or post office in which I have deposited my letters knows my family or where they live and expects to see them, he must take the message to them. If he intends to go only a portion of the way, he copies my message, leaves the original as he found it, and deposits his copy in the last post office that he passes on his journey toward my wigwam.

"If another person comes into the trail on the hither side of this copy, he must repeat the operation described, delivering it to my family or his own copy into the last cache on the road he travels in their direction.

"I asked the civil chief of the Pilegors how long his people has used this beautiful and effective free-delivery system, and he replied 'always.'

"As the Pilegors claim to be the aboriginal natives of the soil where the remnant of their tribes is now located, and as the tepee of the present hereditary chief overlooks the graves of more than 30 generations of his ancestors the term 'always' in this case must mean, at the lowest many, many centuries."

Dangers of A Cold and How to Avoid Them.

More fatalities have their origin in or result from a cold than from any other cause. This fact alone should make people more careful as there is no danger whatever from a cold when it is properly treated in the beginning. For many years Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been recognized as the most prompt and effectual medicine in use for this disease. It acts on nature's plan, loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by Howell & Jones.

OVER THE OREGON TRAIL ONCE MORE

EZRA MEEKER NEAR JOURNEY'S END—HAS SET UP TWENTY MONUMENTS.

A dispatch from Bloomington, Ill., concerning the journey of the Oregon pioneer, Ezra Meeker, says:

"On the last lay of a toilsome journey of 3000 miles, Ezra Meeker, aged 76, guiding a team of patient oxen yoked to an old-time prairie-schooner, passed through here, his objective point being Indianapolis, Ind., where his journey ends. He started on March 1 from Portland, Or., and has been steadily going ever since, his object being to mark the famous Oregon trail, which he hit in 1851, and which has been the subject of so much controversy of late years. There was much talk during the Lewis & Clark exposition at Portland in 1905 concerning the exact route of this trail, and Mr. Meeker, who was one of the few men there who had passed over it, decided to make the journey once more. He procured a typical outfit of the prairie, and starting with his own horse, which he numbered Camp No. 1, he has numbered consecutively each camp since, and has also set up 20 marble monuments along the trail, suitably inscribed. His unique personality and tour have attracted great attention over the entire route. He has been writing a book of the incidents met with. He hopes to reach Indianapolis, the point from which he started in 1851, in a few days."

A Jamaican Lady Speaks Highly of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mrs. Michael Hart, wife of the superintendent of Cart Service at Kingston, Jamaica, West Indies Islands, says that she has for some years used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for coughs, croup and whooping cough and has found it very beneficial. She has implicit confidence in it and would not be without a bottle of it in her home. Sold by Howell & Jones.

Protecting the Horses.

The other day a brutal teamster struck his horse with a board. Fortunately he was seen by a humane officer and was prosecuted. In the Municipal Court he was fined $3.

But the case did not stop there. The judge looked the facts over and decided that the owner of the horse who employed a brutal teamster was even more culpable than the teamster himself. Therefore he fined the owner $5.

These fines were small enough, considering the character of the offense, though, of course, it may be that with the costs added they were properly proportioned to the pocketbooks of the offenders. But in giving the owner of the horse the heavier fine the judge certainly showed a proper comprehension of the situation. Most team owners are intelligent enough to know that a brutal teamster is the ruin of a horse, and they are only too glad to get rid of teamsters who are not sensible enough to manage the horses by humane methods. When a team owner is found who cannot see the facts in this way he deserves to be punished, whether he profits by the punishment or not.—Chicago Record-Herald.
