FRUIT INSPECTORS ARE GIVEN LESSONS

ATTEND COURSE OF LECTURES AND DEMONSTRATIONS AT CORVALLIS COLLEGE.

County Fruit Inspector A. J. Lewis was in Oregon City Monday from his Maple Lane home. Mr. Lewis returned Friday from Corvallis where he took in the short course for the county fruit inspectors, previously arranged by the State Horticultural society at Portland a few weeks ago.

Seven county fruit inspectors took advantage of the course. The work was under the direction of the experiment station and Messrs. Reid and Parks.

The course lasted for five days and the inspectors heard lectures during the afternoon on the different varieties of diseases that are infesting our orchards, and were also shown the best methods of combating these evils. They were taken out in the college orchard for practical study of the San Jose scale and different fungus growths, and also given demonstrations of the spraying solutions and their effects on these enemies of the fruit trees.

In the evening lectures and chemical tests of these spraying solutions were demonstrated.

BOARD FILLS VACANCY IN TEACHING CORPS

At the meeting of the board of school directors Friday afternoon, Miss Irene Johnson of Portland, was chosen to fill the vacancy in the teaching corps of the city schools.

Miss Johnson came up from Portland Friday afternoon especially to meet with the board. She came highly recommended as an efficient teacher. She has been teaching in the schools of Columbia county.

Miss Johnson will begin her work Monday morning and will have charge of the fourth grade of the Eastham school, while Miss Nellie Stevens will be transferred to the second grade.

Miss Meldrum, who has resigned from her work at the Eastham school leaves today for Palo Alto, where she has been offered a position in the Miss Harker's school, a private institution for young ladies.

Miss Nellie M. Stevens had petitioned the board of directors for the change from the fourth grade to the second grade as she is especially adapted for the work of the primary grades. She has had special training in the Weston Normal school for five years for this work. When Miss Stevens came to Oregon City she accepted a higher grade only because the positions in the primary work were filled.

AGED MINISTER DIES AT ALBANY

A special to the Star from Albany Wednesday morning announced the death of Rev. E. J. Thompson of that city. Mr. Thompson is the father of Mrs. Chester Roake, the daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Roake of this city. When informed by the Star of the death of the reverend, Wednesday morning, Mrs. James Roake said that no word had yet been received by them.

Rev. E. J. Thompson passed away at the age of 73 years, Wednesday morning. He was born in Middlebury, Vermont, and was educated in New England. Throughout his life Dr. Thompson was prominently identified with educational and ministerial work.

For nearly 20 years he was head of the department of mathematics and astronomy in the university of Minnesota. He came west to Salem in 1884 where he occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church. From 1885 to 1887, he assumed the presidency of the Albany College and pastorate of the Presbyterian church of that city, resigning in 1887 to accept the charge of a church at Corvallis.

Deceased was a member of the Knights Templar lodge. The interment will take place in Albany Saturday.

Five children are now living: Mrs. Elmer Samuels, Raymond, Wash.; Mrs. William Fortmiller of Albany; George Thompson of Boston, Ore.; Anson W. Thompson of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Chester Roake of Chico, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Roake visited in Oregon City and in Albany during the holidays, spending a week here. The reverend was at that time in feeble health.

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by Howell & Jones, druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

DEPOT IMPROVEMENT PROGRESS

Lots of Room, Handsome Exterior, Comfortable Interior and Another Means of Access Provided.

A decided change and bright and cheerful spot to look at nowadays is the Southern Pacific depot on which the painters are putting on a bright yellow coat of paint. The priming of the building began Tuesday morning and in a short time the depot will assume a cheerful appearance with its Colonial yellow and the trimmings of brown. This change from the heretofore gloomy slate garb with its ghastly trimmings will indeed be striking.

The carpenters are putting the finishing touches to the trimmings and fancy work of the outside, while a large crew is busy on the inside in preparation for the painters. The waiting room is also to be cheered up and brightened by a combination of colors which the boss painter says will give the room a refreshing appearance.

The officials of the company seem to have returned to the land of the living and have woken up to the fact that the people of Oregon City wish to be accommodated and that no more of the spectral colors would do. They have substituted a color—as near the natural living flesh as possible—a flesh-white with just a dash of pink.

The Southern Pacific company has been painting a few of its depots in the new colors since last July. Many other improvements around the depot will take place. A general idea of the spacious waiting room can now be had. The office will be roomy and the agents of the company will begin to think that they are once more like the rest of the citizens—free to move around within their office.

The old office and the old waiting room will be used as a baggage room for the storing of light freight, such as trunks and other small parcels.

Now that the partition has been taken out between the new and the old freight rooms, it is easily seen that the space will be sufficient and the accommodations more nearly coinciding with the demands of the patrons. A runway has been built between the two rooms as the floors differ in height, the south freight floor corresponding to the floor of the freight cars. This will make the handling of the freight an easy matter. A platform on the outside has been built to reach to the freight cars on the siding.

The frontage of the depot or platform will also generally be improved with a better coat of granite and the same will be leveled off from the tracks to the side of the building, while the embankment which runs to the foot of Seventh street will be rearranged on a better level and a railing will be placed along the wall.

The company has also decided to give a better access to the depot and will have two stairways built; one running from the walk on the south side of Seventh street along side of the depot to the granite platform and tracks. The other will be from the iron stairway or rather be a continuation of the first landing running south and will thus enable people coming down the hill to reach the depot without crossing the street.
