HUNTLEY'S C.P. MEASURE IS KILLED

BILL TO STOP IMMEDIATE USE OF MONEY AT ELECTIONS SHELVED.

Judge McBride Was Its Author But U'Ren Received Brunt of Witty Remarks by Rodgers.

Salem, Feb. 7.—The bill introduced by Representative C. G. Huntley to prevent corrupt practices at election, was shelved yesterday by indefinite postponement in the House, on the plea it was "too cumbersome." Rodgers of Marion made a sarcastic speech against it in which he assumed that W. S. U'Ren was the author of the bill. Mr. U'Ren occupied a seat within bar. Rodgers called him the "sage of Oregon City, father of the initiative and referendum," and in concluding Rodgers said he was glad Oregon still had U'Ren, who had seen the abuses resulting from the direct primary in its operation, and now came forth as the "Godfather of Oregon's legislators to lead them back into the path of righteousness from which they had strayed."

The speech was ironical without vindictiveness and created much amusement.

Campbell Repays in Kind.

Campbell made reply to Rodgers saying that the gentleman from Marion must have a noble idea of his constituents if they could be influenced by a chew of tobacco or a drink of whiskey. Mr. Campbell ridiculed the claims of those members of the House who had declared that they favored some law such as that proposed in the Huntley bill, but took exception to that particular measure because it was too cumbersome.

"If those men want this sort of a law, why don't they introduce a bill proposing such a law?" inquired Mr. Campbell. "So far as the author of this bill in concerned, the gentleman from Marion county is also mistaken. The bill was carefully prepared by one of the foremost judges in the state, one from every lawyer removes his hat, a judge whose decisions are less frequently reversed in the supreme court than are those of any other judge in the state—the Hon. Thomas A. McBride.

Huntley made a strong talk for the measure as being designed primarily to give the poor man an equal chance with his more wealthy neighbor in aspiring to serve the people in a public capacity.

The vote to indefinitely postpone carried by 30 to 23, all of the Clackamas members vote in the negative.

The house passed yesterday by a vote of 44 to 13, three absent, Freeman's bill which makes the issuance of passes by railroad companies to state officers (including legislators), and district officers and county judges and sheriffs, a condition precedent to the right of such companies to exercise eminent domain power in condemning private property and acquiring rights of way over such premises.

This bill was favorably reported to the house by the judiciary committee after some slight amendments had been made to the measure, the most important of which were to limit the issuance of these passes to the county judges and sheriffs of the different counties, rather than to all of the county officers, as was contemplated in the original bill, and to deny to such officers any mileage allowance.

This is the bill or one similar to which W. S. U'Ren is reputed the author. The railroads claimed to be favorable, but it is generally believed to be a real reform measure on a small scale.

Campbell and Dye voted for it, Jones and Huntley against it.

The bill for district county high schools, introduced by Representative C. H. Dye of Clackamas, will be favorably reported by the house committee on education. This bill provides for the consolidation of two or more contiguous districts for the purpose of maintaining district high schools. The expense of maintaining such institutions shall be provided by a special tax on all of the taxable property within the district included in the consolidation, and the advantages of the high school shall be available to the pupils of eligible school age within that section.

The only amendment reported by the committee, and it is agreeable to the author of the bill, provides for the election of a board of directors, to consist of one director from each of the districts included in the consolidation. As originally drawn, the bill provided that the board of directors
