

CANBY ROBBER ESCAPES COOK

BURGLAR OF KOCHER'S STORE SIGHTED BY OFFICER BUT GETS AWAY.

Officer Ely Fires Two Shots At Running Thief But Neither Counted—Loaded With Hardware.

A man suspected of robbing Andrew Kocher's store at Canby, was arrested by Officer Cook Tuesday night, but he managed to break away and escape.

Two reports of a revolver about midnight warned several persons in Oregon City that there was something doing and in a short time a few citizens were out to see what the trouble was all about, but they were too late to be of service to the officers.

The man the officers were after had gotten away from them and had gone down to the river bank, passing through the court house yard, where officer Ely took two shots at the stranger. The shots went wild and the fellow got away.

The local officers were first warned by the officers of Canby that a man had entered the store of Andrew Kocher of Canby and that he was headed toward Oregon City. About 11:30 Officer Cook, who had been detailed to watch the railroad track closely saw the man coming up the track and at once arrested him. It was seen that the man had the stolen goods on his person, but in some way he made a move and got away from the officer, running up the track and toward Main street when Constable Ely, who was at Main and Seventh streets, took up the chase. The man was running and would not stop so he fired two shots, neither of which took effect. The constable followed toward the court house.

Later it was heard that the man had been seen near the place of C. B. Frisell and the search was continued but no clue of the man was found.

"Kal" Kocher, a son of Andrew Kocher, drove to Oregon City Wednesday morning to see what the officers had done. When seen, Mr. Kocher told how the man, apparently a hobo, of short stature and dark features, had been lounging all Tuesday afternoon in the Kocher store yet nothing was thought of it. "Kal" went to lodge that evening and the store was closed at 6 o'clock.

About 8 o'clock one of the residents of the town wanted to buy some goods and called at the place where the clerk, Dan Patch, lived and the two went to the store. Upon entering the store it was noticed that things were pretty well scattered around and on going further inside razors, knives, guns and revolvers were seen scattered everywhere.

Dan rushed up to the lodge and notified Kal who called up the officers of this city. Mr. Kocher left for Portland on the noon car where he will hunt for the man. He says that he can easily locate him as he could recognize him among a thousand.

"He got away with about $150 worth of razors and knives" said Mr. Kocher Wednesday noon. "He did not get away with any money and part of the knives and razors were found Wednesday morning scattered along the railroad track where the first move was made to run."

An umbrella identified by young Kocher was found by Night Chief Shaw. The thief is said to be a young fellow and a professional crook.
