OREGON CITY AND OAK GROVE UNITE

REPRESENTATIVES OF LOCAL BOARD OF TRADE MEET THEIR NEIGHBORS.

Oak Grove, Feb. 28.—At a special meeting of the Oak Grove Improvement association last Tuesday evening there were present from Oregon City, County Judge, Grant B. Dimick, Mayor Caulfield, Thos. Ryan, secretary of the Oregon City board of trade, and County Commissioner Lewelling. Each of these prominent men made lengthy remarks pertaining mostly to the best methods of developing our respective places and the county at large, and each advocated that in co-operation there is strength and suggested that the two places might better advance their interest by co-operating, one with the other. Judge Dimick dwelt at length upon the improvements of the public highways now being carried on in Clackamas county.

T. F. Ryan extended to our people, in behalf of the board of trade of Oregon City, a hearty invitation to attend the meetings of that body. Mayor Caulfield and Commissioner Lewelling both said that they are willing at any time to do anything in their power to assist us.

A feeling of good fellowship seems to have arisen from the visit of these most worthy officials. We may go Oregon City way yet.

It was announced by the president that representatives of both the Electric Light company and the telephone company will be present at our next meeting and state to us just what we may expect from them.

The president also announced that the name of our postoffice will be changed from Creighton, Oregon, to Oak Grove, Oregon.

The musical program was excellent and each number, without exception, was met with a hearty encore. A number of new members were enrolled. Our next regular meeting will be held one week from Thursday night, March 7, 1907.

A NEW INDUSTRY FOR OREGON CITY

The people who are constructing the Home Telephone company at Portland, having almost completed the plant there, are turning their attention to other places including Oregon City. Sometime last fall our attention was called to the fact that a number of business men of Oregon City had organized a telephone company to meet the necessities of the situation by giving the farmers' lines accommodations at Oregon City. To this end a small plant was constructed and they proceeded to give service, but the demands made upon this company for extension and further development necessitated a larger expenditure of money and a fuller development of the field. A representative of the Home Telephone company of Portland, went to Oregon City last fall and met Messrs. Caulfield, Campbell, Huntley, Bonney and Dr. Mount, the directors of the Farmers' Independent Telephone company. These gentlemen stated that they were not in the telephone business as a business, but their company grew out of the necessities of the case and they together with a number of Farmer lines interested asked the Home Telephone company to interest itself in the property and build it up. After some negotiation the above named gentlemen relinquished their rights, at some pecuniary loss, and matters remained in statu quo until the Home Telephone company of Portland was ready to proceed with construction.

It has been deemed advisable to permit the company to remain as it is and to make it a strictly local proposition and to construct at Oregon City an up to date, cable, conduit telephone system which will afford the citizens of Oregon City and the Farmers' lines unequalled telephone service and connection with Portland and all the adjacent country.

To this end the company has asked the city council for a new franchise, has made its plans and is now engaged in the construction of a plant.

As usual, the existing telephone monopoly comes to the front and by its tactics of delay and obstruction seeks to prevent the advent of this new enterprise into the city. This is a repetition of a policy practiced all over the country, but a mere glance shows that the people are not disposed to favor this theory of industry and development, but are, on the other hand, in favor of competition, which works the same results in the telephone business as in other lines of industry.

The Oregon City and Farmers' Independent Telephone company is strictly an independent telephone company and from the hearty welcome it is receiving at Oregon City and from the expression of good will on all sides, the success of the enterprise is absolutely assured.

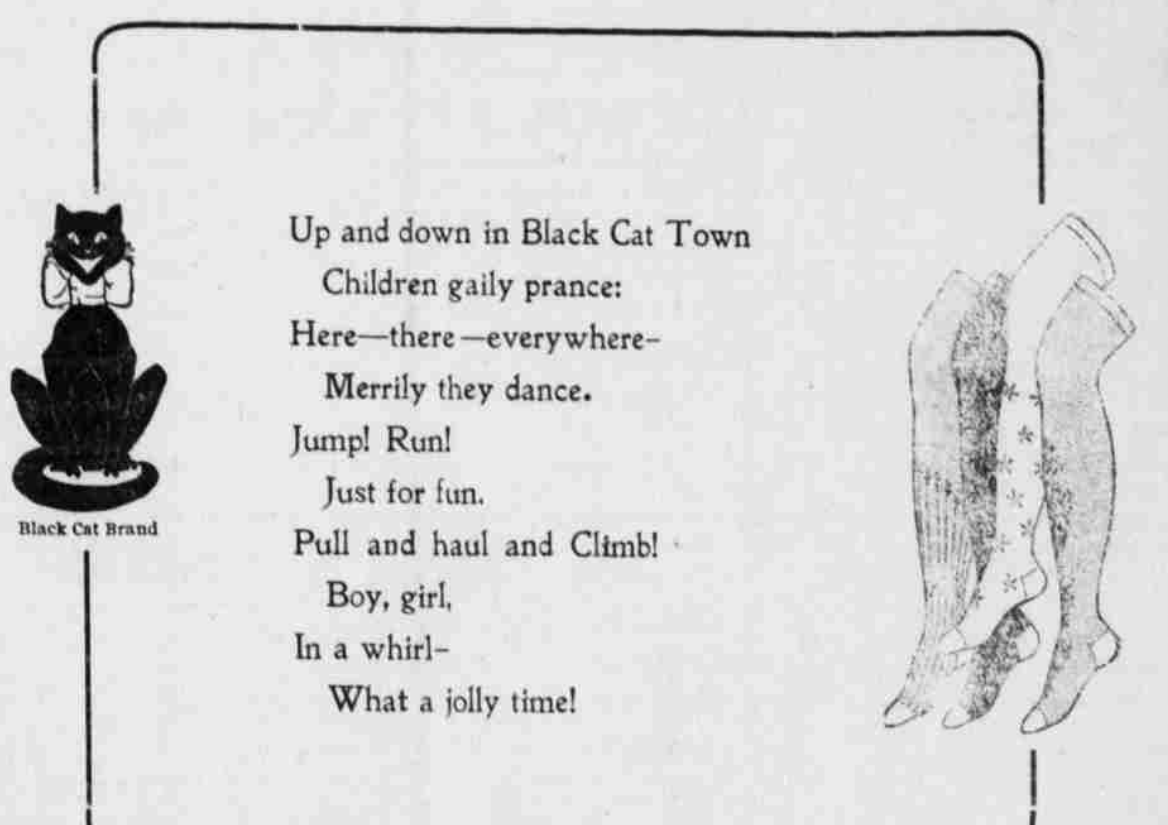

The Home Telephone company of Portland has commenced to give service and a hearty invitation is given to all citizens of Oregon City and Clackamas county to visit the exchange at the corner of Park and Burnside streets and examine a strictly up-to-date telephone equipment.

The Home Telephone company recently installed an all cable plant at Albany, Oregon, and likewise at Corvallis.

The undersigned sincerely hopes that the people of Oregon City will see to it that this new enterprise may receive the encouragement it deserves and that it may become a substantial local industry and an important factor in the commercial life of the city.
