

STAFFORD WOMAN MAKES CARPET LOOM

SHE IS NOW OVER-RUN WITH WEAVING ORDERS—MAN INHERITS $65,000.

Stafford, May 8.—Weather still continues fine and vegetation never grew better. Most late gardens have been planted and some are planting the main crop, potatoes, but old timers say those ought not to be planted until June, then they will be still green and get the benefit of the early fall rains.

Clans Peters has a brick cellar built inside his new wood house. It is handy and convenient. It was built by Charles Thompson, who makes and lays brick also.

Why can't women stand it to vote? They can do everything else a man can. We are especially proud of one of our native daughters who prepared the material for a carpet, then went to work and made herself a loom and wove the carpet and also wove for her neighbors with such good success that she now is bombarded, as it were, with sacks of rags waiting their turn.

John Gage, who returned home with his mother ten days ago after a protracted siege of typhoid pneumonia, accompanies his brother C. M., on a trip to Coos Bay. They start Wednesday evening. His friends hope the trip will be a benefit to his health.

Mrs. Powell's sister, Mrs. Scott and two little boys are making a visit in Stafford.

Quite a number attended the circus at Oregon City. Some pronounced it "bum," and others thought it "some." Many men of many minds. We didn't get our pay for the last hen, and hen fruit has dropped so we couldn't go.

Messrs. Brink and Nessbaum are altering over and building on to the H. Schatz house. Gus Gebhardt is doing the work.

Six chicken-eating cats have been sent to the happy hunting grounds and the cheerful peep of little chickens can again be heard in the land.

Most of the neighbors attended the funeral of Mr. Woodhouse, Thursday. Rev. Leesman preached from the text "Thou shalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a stack of corn coming in, in its season," showing that a full age did not necessarily mean an old age, but when the good husband-man knew the corn was ripe for the harvest.

It is rumored there has been a wedding. It is also rumored that Martha Shilwe—Hamilton's young husband, has fallen heir to a fortune of $65,000. That is a lot. Hope they will spend it in Stafford.

Hop work is being rushed as it never was before. The new hop yards are fine but the old hop yards are just about a failure. They will not produce 50 per cent of a crop and several old yards are being plowed up and put into spuds.

Estacada, May 8.—Mrs. Snyder, who with her husband recently purchased the Robert Miller homestead near Linn's Mill, 12 miles east of Estacada, died suddenly Saturday night of heart disease. Mrs. Snyder retired in the evening in perfect health, apparently. When her husband awoke in the morning and had started a fire in the kitchen stove, he discovered that she was dead. She was buried in the Mt. Zion church yard, Monday afternoon, Rev. McPherson of Estacada, officiating. She leaves an aged father, husband, three sons and a daughter to mourn her death.
