SNIDOW IS DELEGATE

Local Man Elected One of Ten From Oregon to Head Camp

WOODMEN CONVENTION

Lively Session of Third District at Portland—Discussion on Welfare of Order—Enjoy Banquet.

G. L. Snidow of Oregon City was one of the 10 delegates elected to the Seattle head camp at the Third district convention of the Woodmen of the World at Portland, Wednesday. In the apportionment of delegates, Multnomah county was given five, Marion one, Yamhill and Benton one, Linn and Clackamas one, Columbia, Polk, Tillamook, Clatsop, Lincoln and Washington two. A resolution endorsing the administration of Head Consul I. I. Boak was adopted.

The afternoon session was devoted to the consideration of resolutions affecting the welfare of the order. This order of business was prefaced by a lengthy address from A. L. Hawley, chairman of the board of head managers. He stated that a proposition would be made at the head camp session to raise the rate of assessment on old members so as to place them on an equally paying basis with the new members of the order. He expressed himself as being opposed to such a course. He said that if present rates of assessment on new members was not adequate then he would favor equalizing them once for all. He also thought it might be advisable to raise the per capita tax on all members.

Head manager Hawley also favored retaining the cumulative plan of insurance policies whereby the beneficiary would receive one-half the face value in one year after death, two-thirds in two years, and the full value in three years. He reported the organization to be in a good sound condition in every way, with plenty of funds for present needs and credit good everywhere.

A proposition will be made at Seattle to change the term of the head officers from three years, as at present, to two years, and the convention was asked for an expression on this subject.

Some of the delegates favored a term of four or six years and a resolution was offered making the term six years. After much debate an amendment was offered making the term four years. Both were voted down and the convention failed to instruct the delegates for any change whatever.

A motion to abolish the accumulative certificate plan was warmly debated and lost by a large majority.

A hotly contested resolution was one which would debar any member engaging in the liquor business from all benefits after death, even if otherwise in good standing. Head Manager Hawley and others opposed this resolution on legal grounds and recommended expulsion from the order. Others favored a new law on the subject providing more power for the camps. This matter was brought up by the recent death of a saloonkeeper in Portland who was a member of the order in another state. He had kept his dues and assessments paid up and his policy had to be allowed his beneficiary. The resolution was lost.

The last business before the convention was choosing of Newberg as the next meeting place.

The convention adjourned at 5 o'clock after several resolutions of thanks all around. In the evening the delegates went in a body to the Baker theater and finished up their day with an elaborate banquet in the dining room of the new Woodmen hall at the expense of the Portland camps.
