

COUNCIL IN BUSY MEET

Council Orders Many Improvements—Other Matters Discussed.

The meeting of the city council Wednesday evening was well attended, there being several important ordinances before the board. A remonstrance was received protesting against the proposed sidewalk on Duane street, and it was moved that this remonstrance be granted.

The proposition of M. Geehan, to build a sidewalk from the city limits to the cemetery, was referred to the street committee, and they were vested with the power to enter into a contract with Mr. Geehan.

The fire commission was granted more time before submitting their report. The report of the treasurer was read and accepted.

City engineer Rands read an estimate of the cost of laying brick pavement on Main street. Councilman stated that he has talked with representatives of the Portland General Electric company and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company on the matter, but as yet he has made no agreement with them. He believes they will reach an agreement and was granted more time.

The committee on bids read and accepted the bids of H. Jones for the proposed street improvements, and the mayor and recorder were authorized to enter into contracts with him. The figures on some of the bids will be adjusted a trifle. In regard to the water pipe down Singer Hill, the council reserves the right to so alter the contract, that the Knapp sidewalk constructed of concrete on Tenth st. will not be disturbed by the building process.

The question of building a new walk six feet in width on Water street, from Fourth to Eighth was referred to the street committee, and they are to report on it at the next meeting.

The poll tax matter was left with the finance committee, and they were given full power to act on it.

WILL DISTRIBUTE YOUNG SHAD

OREGON AND WASHINGTON
STREAMS TO BE FILLED WITH YOUNG MIN-
NOWS.

The United States Bureau of Fisheries have begun distributing the shad that were hatched at the shad hatchery at the basin on the east side of the river. These eggs were taken from fish captured opposite the Oregon City Mill and Lumber company's plant in Greenpoint. During the last two weeks Commissioner O'Malley has been a very busy man, making arrangements for the distribution of the young fish in different streams of Oregon and Washington. Recently 300,000 were liberated in the Skagit river near Sedro-Wooley, Washington. Two thousand rainbow trout have been liberated in Hermit Lake.

A stock of 300,000 shad have been sent to the Snohomish river and liberated and quite a number have been introduced to the waters of the Molalla by Messrs. Hiram Straight and Clyde Huntley. Other shipments will be made at regular intervals. The eggs are kept in glass tubes till they are hatched, after which they are moved to an aquarium, where they are kept till they are about five days old, when they are distributed. This method of the Fish Commission of stocking the streams of the country is very successful in all parts of the country, and it is the general opinion that the distribution of shad in the streams of the northwest will prove a great benefit to the country.

FIXTURES ARRIVING.

The new office when completed will be one of the finest equipped in the state and will contain all the modern conveniences of an up-to-date office. The outside work is being pushed with all rapidity and it will be but a short time till the Home company will be operating in this vicinity.

BROOK TROUT PLANTED.

Through the efforts of the Oregon City and Molalla sportsmen the United States Bureau of Fisheries has planted 1500 Eastern brook trout in the waters of the Molalla river and tributaries. Superintendent Henry O'Malley, of the bureau, will return today from a trip of inspection at the Baker Lake, Wash., hatchery.

THE COURTS

Through a Portland attorney, Mabel May Bentley has instituted a divorce suit against Edmond Reister. She states in her complaint that the twain vowed to be true on November 8, 1893. She was a good and faithful helpmeet to her leige lord, and was always looking after his welfare. Brute that he was, he did not not appreciate these little kindnesses, and one day, August 31, 1894, while they were living in Buffalo, he deserted her, and since that time she has never gazed upon his winsome countenance. Her mother received a letter from him during the month of June, 1906, postmarked at Kansas City, and she, the plaintiff, immediately wrote him a long and passionate letter, but this letter was returned unopened, marked "Address unknown" by the postal authorities. As he does not provide for her, plaintiff asks the court to grant her a decree.

Thomas E. Cain was appointed guardian of Mabel, Arthur and Roy Deardorff. The estate is valued at $2000.

ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL

Presents Its Commencement Program to Large Audience Thursday.

FIVE RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Archbishop Christie, of Portland, Presents the Diplomas—Friends of School Delighted With the Showing Made.

The commencement exercises of St. John's school were held before a large and appreciative audience at Shively's opera house, Thursday evening. The stage was beautifully decorated with roses, pink and white pennants and potted ferns. The class motto, "Our Pathway Turns," was hung across the stage in pink letters the whole being decorated with vines of ivy.

From the first number to the last the program was well rendered, and pleased the large audience. The song "My Own United States," was well rendered by the entire school, the manner of singing expressing much patriotic pride in their native land. "Lustspell" as played by three of the graduates, Misses Anna Michels, Mae Christensen and Lavada Freeman, was well applauded. The entrancing manner in which these young ladies interpreted this composition, speaks well for their musical education. "The Postman's Whistle" as sung by the primary scholars, and the rose drill by 21 little girls were two of the most attractive numbers. In the former, the clear voices of the children were broken at intervals by the imitation of a postman's whistle. The rose drill was about the most novel number, and was truly beautiful, as the tots, each carrying a large rose and dressed alike, formed circles and figures as well as marched. This gave the stage the appearance of a vast garden of moving rosebuds.

Miss Annie Michels' interesting essay, "A Character Sketch of the Ancient Assyrians," was listened to with great interest, and stands as a testimony of the thoroughness of her study. A duet, "Kaloola," by two boys of the class, Joseph Muench mandolin, and Joseph Justin piano, was applauded to the echo. Frank and John Busch rendered a violin and piano duet, "Gypsy Dance," in their usual pleasing manner, and were loudly applauded.

In her essay, "Our Earth as a Planet," Miss Florence Draper discussed in a clear and pleasing manner the question that has bothered man at all ages. A novel and interesting feature of the program was an Indian club drill by John Weber, James Michels, Christ Michels and John Busch. In this the boys kept perfect time, and all their motions were made simultaneously. Another novel and beautiful number was the quartette, "Pride of the Ball," as played by E. Telford, first mandolin; F. Trovenger, second mandolin; M. Flanagan guitar, and Sattie Ciancy piano. The class song, "Come Where the Lilies Bloom," was perhaps the most delightful vocal number on the program. Too much praise cannot be given the members of the class for their work on this number. The solo parts by Miss Florence Draper, soprano, and Miss Annie Michels, alto, were worthy of special mention.

The valedictorian was Miss Mary C. Weber, and she delivered one of the most beautiful addresses ever heard in Shively's hall. Taking as her subject the class motto, she told of the trials they were apt to meet in their new life. She told of the joys and sorrows of the last term of school and how in the end, by perseverance they had triumphed and had finished their school life with honors. The manner in which the address was delivered was pleasing and the clear voice of the speaker rang through the hall.

The diplomas were presented to the class by Archbishop Christie of Portland. Those who received them were Misses Mae C. Christensen, Lavada M. Freeman, Florence M. Draper, Annie M. Michels and Mary E. C. Weber; Messrs. Joseph M. Justin and Joseph A. Muench.

The Archbishop addressed the class. He praised them highly for the excellence of their program, and stated that such a program as this could only be rendered by the students of a Sisters' school. As graduates of St. John's school he stated that they had received the best kind of an education as far as they had advanced, for besides teaching those branches taught in other schools, they are also given a religious training. He admonished them to always be truthful and just, and stated that no matter what calling they undertook, they would succeed if they practiced these virtues. He also stated that another grade would be added to the course of study of the school, and that by next year this school would be the most advanced in the city. After a few remarks the Archbishop concluded, amid a storm of applause. The graduates then received the hearty congratulations of their friends. All the graduates were remembered by their friends with flowers and after these had been distributed, the stage was a veritable bank of flowers.

MAYOR CLOSES SALOONS

Following is the text of the Mayor's letter to the saloonkeepers:

Oregon City, Oregon, June 22, '07.
The closing of saloons on Sunday in Multnomah county, by District Attorney John Manning, has brought about a situation in Oregon City, on account of its proximity to Portland, that cannot fail to attract the serious attention of all good citizens.

Regardless of their views on the strict observance of Sunday from a religious standpoint, or of their particular ideas on the Sunday closing question from any point of view, all good citizens believe in having an orderly and decent state of affairs in our city, whether it is Sunday or any other day.

Many good citizens differ as to the policy of closing saloons on Sunday. So far as I remember the "Sunday closing law" has always gone by default in Oregon City. I am frank to say, that without some more exhibition of a sentiment in favor of its enforcement than I have yet seen, I would not under ordinary circumstances now take the responsibility of invoking the law for that purpose.

It did not require a very close observer to notice last Sunday, that under present conditions a very undesirable class of Portland's citizens who are compelled to refrain from dissipation and carousing there, are determined to haunt Oregon City on future Sundays. The congestion of the class referred to in our city will almost certainly lead to scenes of disorder and rowdiness.

As the executive of the city's laws, with full power to prevent the continuance of the situation, I do not propose to assume the responsibility for any serious results which almost inevitably follow such scenes.

I consider the situation to be one fraught with danger to the orderly and decent reputation which Oregon City has always enjoyed, and I am not willing to allow myself to become answerable for permitting this situation to continue, and provide a harbor for the class referred to.

I would respectfully call your attention to the bond given by all saloonkeepers in Oregon City, "That he or they will not give, sell or otherwise dispose of any wine, malt or spirituous liquors on Sunday," also section 1974, page 694, Bellinger and Cotton's Code, the terms of which will be strictly enforced from this date.

Yours truly,
E. G. CAUFIELD, Mayor.

GROCERY DRIVER KICKED BY HORSE

Samuel Wonder, driver for the Rochdale Co-operative company, received several painful though not serious injuries by being kicked by a horse in the Fashion livery stable, Saturday morning. The accident occurred about 8 o'clock while Wonder was carrying the animal. Without showing any signs of anger or fright the brute suddenly kicked at Wonder with both feet, striking him in the right thigh and groin. Luckily, Wonder was standing very close to the horse and did not get the full force of the blow, or the result would have been more severe. He was taken immediately to Dr. Meisner, who dressed his injuries, after which he was taken to his home at Williamette Falls.
