THE COURTS

Charge Early with Fraud.

The Clackamas Mining & Milling Company has filed a suit against Charles A. Early, foreman of the Ogle Mountain Mining Company for $500 damages. It is stated that Early, asserting title to the claims of the plaintiff company to himself, by threats of bodily harm and force of arms, ejected the employees of the company and began to take valuable gold ore from the mine, preventing the company from doing the labor required by law. Judge McBride has signed an order restraining Early from continuing his interference. The Clackamas Mining & Milling Company represent that it has been the owner of the Elkhorn mine in Mineral Mountain, South Molalla and Ogle Mountain mining districts since May 2, 1902, and has had possession since that time.

The main charge is drunkenness. The couple have one son, aged 5 years, named Harold.

Advertisement for Hood River Apples.

The order from the Chinese government for ten boxes of Hood River apples to be placed on display at an exhibit to be made at Peking this winter would seem to indicate that the long talked of awakening of China has arrived. However, it appears that China has been supplied heretofore with Japanese apples, and having developed an appetite for the fruit that is supposed to symbolize man's fall from grace, wants a change. The Japanese fruit is said to resemble its native sons, being both small and brown, and to have become particularly unpalatable to the residents of the Flowery Kingdom since the conquests of its smaller but more enterprising and energetic neighbor. Let us hope that the flavor of American fruit will create as fervid desire for more as did the poor horse gnef to Oliver Twist, and that the countless millions of China will soon be munching them.—Better Fruit.

O. F. Wilbur is something of a satirist and when he "takes his pen in hand" continues to sling ink until the bare spots show in bold relief.

A United States deputy marshal last week asked for the loan of his wheel and after knocking about five dollars out of the wheel gave Wilbur 25 cents.

This led Mr. Wilbur to sit down and write to the deputy's chief and tell of the "generosity" by which he had suffered. What the bill of expense was which the said deputy turned in to his chief the letter from Mr. Wilbur is likely to bring forth.
