Sacrificing Values FOR SPACE

The delay in completing the new Masonic Temple means a loss of many dollars to us. With the expectation of moving into our new store-room in the Temple early in November, we bought largely for the Winter and Holiday trade. At the present rate of progress we will do well to get into our new quarters by Spring. This delay means a great disappointment to us. We purchased large stocks of a dozen different lines, not expecting to have our new, large and commodious quarters in which to display, store and sell. These new goods are arriving daily and we have no place to store them, let alone put them on display. What are we to do? We must sell our goods in order to find any place for these new goods that are arriving daily. WILL YOU HELP US? WE'LL MAKE THE PRICE AN OBJECT! These new goods, ordered for fall delivery, are arriving daily and they must be sold fast.

Owing to the crowded condition of our store and our inability to properly display goods, we have decided to reserve space for certain lines each day and will offer same at greatly reduced prices.

This is an opportunity seldom offered at the beginning of a season to purchase new goods at such reductions in prices. It will pay you to stop in every day and examine the goods. Extra Special Sales Days as follows:

Increasing Use of National Forests.

"Within three decades after the first Federal recognition of forestry, and sixteen years from the date when the first 'timberland reserve' was created, there have been established, in the interest of the whole people, 150 million acres of National Forests, effectively protected against fire and trespass, and thrown open on advantageous terms to the use of the public."

This reads the annual review of forest work in the Yearbook of the Department of Agriculture. "Forests have so large a place in the national life that in some measure every citizen shares the benefits which attend successful effort to preserve, restore, or establish them. Yet it will always be the Western industries which will most profit from the presence of the existing National Forests, upon whose resources—mainly wood, water, and range—they are largely dependent. The Government always favors settlers and home builders and prior users, both by granting free use of timber and by encouraging small sales. The business of the National Forests must increase largely; for so vast are the resources of timber and minerals, and the opportunities for various business enterprises and for the development of power and irrigation, that the utilization of the forests can be said to have only fairly begun."

"Throughout the year marked progress has been made in securing the most prompt, simple, and precise business methods, and in bringing the forest officers in the field and, through them, the public into closer touch with the aims of the Government in its forest policy. On January 1, 1906, the area of the National Forests was 97,773,617 acres, and on December 21, 1906, 127,154,371 acres.

Interview with Mr. Theo. N. Vail, President American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

An important change in the policy for thirty years of the Bell Telephone Company has been made known. When questioned regarding the report that the Western Electric Company, the concern that manufactures the apparatus used by the Bell Companies, would hereafter sell telephones and supplies to all buyers, President Theodore N. Vail, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, confirmed the report.

He explained that the idea had been under consideration for a long time, but that heretofore one difficulty had been that the Western Electric needed more plant; its full energy being required to supply the demands of the Bell Companies alone. This obstacle to doing a general business has been overcome by the recent completion of very large additions to the Chicago factory of the Western Electric Company, and hence it is now in a position to take care of outside orders.

In reply to a question as to the probable effect of this action on the revenue of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Mr. Vail said that no considerable direct increase was anticipated, but that a great indirect advantage was looked for from improved relations between the public and all of the associated Bell Companies, because there had been an entirely erroneous idea more or less prevalent that the charges of these companies for their services were based on a monopoly of telephonic instruments, while the fact is that the instrument is but a small part of the plant required in giving telephonic service.

It is felt that this action may cause it to be more clearly understood that the Bell Company's only claim for patronage is based on their ability to furnish the best service at reasonable prices and not on any instrument monopoly.

Mr. Vail explained that at the present time many inefficient telephone instruments are in use on local and private lines, and that the Bell Companies desire to see these replaced by standard instruments in order that it may make traffic connections with the greatest possible number of properly equipped lines assuring proper service and transmission. For example: There are thousands of so-called "Farmer Lines" which will furnish valuable feeders for the toll lines of the larger system when properly equipped and maintained. This situation can now be provided for through the sale outright of Bell instruments and apparatus.

In answer to the question whether it is intended that the Western Electric Company become an aggressive competitor of the independent manufacturers, who up to this date have had a monopoly of the selling trade, the only reply was that the Bell interests were fully prepared, either from the manufacturing or operating side of the business, to meet all the needs of the public, and that they wish to demonstrate that they claim or ask no advantages other than their ability to meet those needs under square competitive conditions of quality and price—there would be no trade war, but any manufacturer who have been selling inferior goods at high prices under the old monopoly of the selling trade, would naturally suffer a loss of business.—Adv.
