

LOCAL BRIEFS

It's here—our winter supply of wetness.

The Red Men will elect officers on next Tuesday evening.

Wilhelm Ott, who has been sick four months, died at his home in Gladstone last Friday week.

Efforts are on foot for the erection of a new school house at Welches, where a new building is badly needed.

Council held a short session Wednesday evening and then adjourned for one week. Little of importance was considered.

Superintendent McHane, of the Willamette Pulp & Paper Co., made a business trip to Lebanon last week to look into business for the big firm operating both plants.

Thomas Gerber is the new Postal operator in Oregon City. He was formerly night operator in the office of the Farmer's Telephone Co.

Holidays are causing matters to pile up in the local courts and Oregon City lawyers and clients are wondering when they will be able to adjust their differences.

"Indian Jake" Williams is dead. He was well known to people of Oregon City. He was sick but about a week, pneumonia having gained a firm hold on him which his physician could not break.

The young people of Oregon City enjoyed a masquerade at the roller rink Friday night last. The city band furnished the music. Prizes were won by Miss Bertha Fredericks, Miss Beale Mills, Leonard Runyan and George Roney.

The school teachers have been paid a second time this year with warrants that have to be held or discounted in order to get the money. No one seems to be blameable for the condition, still it is not very pleasant for the teachers.

The Vancouver Independent says: The wise man who drew his money out of the Vancouver banks and placed it in the Merchants National or the Portland Guaranty & Trust Company bank in Portland has yet a few things to learn.

The Recorder's office is again open for business. At the beginning of the holidays Mr. Ramsby decided to await the outcome but the papers presented for filing had become so numerous that on the advice of his attorney he began the work of filing last week.

Little Margaret Maddox, who was severely injured in an accident early in the summer, at which time her father met his death, died Wednesday night, aged 13 years. All efforts to save her were fruitless, the little girl having sustained internal injuries of a serious nature.

There will be a box social at the West Oregon City schools in the main building, next week Wednesday evening. Ladies are invited to bring their boxes of lunch, and these will be sold to the highest bidder. No admission fee will be charged to the social. Proceeds for benefit of the school library.

All this week passengers have been transferred at the Clackamas River on the O. W. P. line, account the putting in of a new steel bridge. Preparatory work was such that the final placing into position of the new steel bridge was quickly accomplished. When completed this will be one of the safest structures on the line of this popular railway.

The town of Willamette is having a little excitement over its water supply. There is a rumor that the railway people, who own its present site, intend to sell and the people of the town in consequence wish to arrange to buy the land or secure another site. At a meeting of citizens Saturday night a committee was appointed to plan for a future site and report.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Davis, after a continuous residence on their farm in Patton Valley, Washington county, for 27 years, have just sold out and are now moving to Roseburg, where they have purchased a seven-acre tract and expect to remain there permanently and engage in the poultry business.

Two Clackamas county citizens were committed to the State insane asylum Wednesday. They were Mrs. E. A. Bullock, of Willamette, aged 59 years, has hallucinations that come from unsound mind. Mrs. Alice W. Atwood is accused of trying to kill herself and her husband. She comes from Gresham and is 60 years of age.

Walter & Kasbohm, who operate a bakery on upper Seventh street, had a set-to the first of the week in which Kasbohm played the part of the "frightful example." It is a long story, but when District Attorney Ely learned that the man who received the most punishment was the aggressor it was allowed to drop. Peace has been made and arbitration agreed upon as the best method of settling difficulties.

Employees at the two paper mills in this city are circulating a petition asking for the discharge of foreigners in these mills. The workmen say they fear that the number of foreigners at work in the mills is becoming too large for the good of men who have their homes in the city, and this move is a step towards keeping the mills Americanized. So far so good, but it is a well known fact that in the past the paper companies have had their hands full to keep a full complement of men, without asking as to their nationality or previous condition of life.

Judge Ryan addressed the good roads convention at Portland Thursday of last week on the speaking to the subject, "How to Provide Funds for Road Building." The Judge advocated a tax of one mill, to be apportioned among the counties of the State by a State board of highway commissioners acting in harmony with a county board. Each county, he said, should contribute a like sum in order to obtain this aid, and the property-owners adjoining the road should assume a portion of the expense. Others in attendance from Clackamas county were: George Lazelle, Frank Jagger, and County Commissioner John Lawellen.

Wm. Ott was buried in the Clackamas cemetery from the M. E. church at Clackamas.

Rev. A. R. Laudy, presiding elder of the United Brethren church was here Sunday to hold quarterly meeting at the U. B. church in this city.

Superintendent of Schools Gary last week visited the schools at Borling, Firwood, Cherryville, Welch's Marmot, Bull Run, and Sandy, and found all in very good condition.

Streams in the East are to be supplied with salmon eggs taken at the hatchery on the Clackamas River. 100,000 eggs are to be shipped to Nashua, and Laconia, N. H., in the near future. About 4,000,000 eggs have been taken so far at the Clackamas station this season.

Milwaukee citizens are up in arms against the Milwaukee Club—at least some of them are—and the matter of a "Club or no Club" is to be threshed out at the coming election. A ticket is to be completed of those opposed to the club and an effort put forth to elect it. Whether the other side will contest it or not remains to be seen.

The Clackamas County Sunday School Association convention at Milwaukie last week proved an enjoyable affair to those who were privileged to attend. There were fair crowds and good speakers talked on interesting subjects assigned them by the committee having the convention in charge.

So far Dr. W. E. Carl is the only candidate who is willing to carry the banner with "Mayor" inscribed on it at the election soon to come. If the Doctor is sincere in his promises made in his announcement—and we have no reason to believe otherwise—perhaps it is just as well to let him have the office without any contention. The only question in politics worthy consideration is that two parties are more certain of calling out the best man than a continued one-sided affair.

A canvas of the Portland business houses, wholesale and retail, as well as the factories, proves that business has gotten back to normal conditions. Many report an increase over last year. There has not been a failure or a suspension of a single business house or factory in that city. The people of the State can depend upon the newspaper of Portland giving them the facts, and before they get these facts they can depend upon any news contrary to the above statement being merely rumors.

Meade Post, No. 2, Grand Army of the Republic, has made the following nominations for officers: Enos Cahill, commander; O. L. Clyde, senior vice-commander; Faxon Hayford, junior vice-commander; J. M. Kellogg, chaplain; H. Blankenship, officer of the day; George A. Harding, quartermaster; J. A. Tufts, surgeon; J. C. Paddock, officer of the guard. The election will be held the first Monday evening in December and the department inspector will be present. At this meeting the proposal to change the time of meeting will be taken up. Meetings are now held one afternoon and one evening of each month, but there is a proposal to hold both meetings in the afternoons, as a matter of convenience to the veterans.

We print by request the following: Hiram Hughes of Spokane, Wash., died at his home November 2, and was buried at that place. Mr. Hughes was formerly a resident of Springwater, where he spent his boyhood days, and was a brother of Mrs. R. D. Wilson, with whom he visited in this city for three months last year, having come here for the benefit of his health, and which was greatly improved by the change, and was also a brother to Robert Hughes, of this city and has a sister, Mrs. P. O. Warlock, of Springwater. Mr. Hughes was the son of Samuel Hughes. His parents died several years ago. He was about 58 years of age and leaves a widow and two daughters. Mr. Hughes was a retired business man of Spokane.

Will Clackamas county have an exhibit at the meeting of the State Dairy Association next month that will show to the State at large that this county has superior advantages for the raising of fine cattle and for dairy purposes? President C. H. Dye and Secretary Thos. F. Ryan, of the Oregon City Board of Trade, have taken up this matter with those directly interested in this work and are hopeful that some of the dairymen of the county will interest themselves sufficiently to make an exhibit, so that it may at least be known that we have cattle and are able to realize something from them. Any who are willing to assist in this work will receive from Secretary Ryan information as to prizes and exhibits. Let us hope that all will unite in this movement, as it means much for the county.

The United States weather bureau at Washington is considering a plan to get reports from across the Pacific ocean. If the plan is adopted reports will come once a day from Honolulu, Midway, Guam, Manila, and Tokio. Reports are already received from Hawaii. It will be necessary to make arrangements with observatories on the other side, and the expense will be considerable, but Professor Moore, head of the bureau, believes that the data obtained would be of great value both commercially and scientifically.

THE DAITNY, DELICATE RAIN.
C. A. Briggs.

Heigh-ho! the rain!
The dainty, delicate rain!
Hear how it taps at my window pane!
Gratefully sweet, like Love's moist fingers
Fald on a brow where fever lingers,
Drop the cool sounds on my heated brain.
Heigh-ho! the dainty, delicate rain.

Rings Dyspepsia Tablets do the work. Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, bloating, etc., yield quickly. Two days' treatment free. Ask your druggist for a free trial. Sold by Huntley Bros.

STATE NEWS.

The La Grange Observer reports that Warren Loven this year picked 81 boxes of marketable apples from one tree on the Frank Mitchell place at Cove, Oregon.

A party of 25 Portland enthusiasts were guests of the Commercial Club of Mosier last Saturday. The entertainment included a long drive through the valley and a dinner. The visitors were greatly impressed with the wonderful possibilities of the valley in a horticultural way.

Arrangements are being made so that the bank of Senator E. W. Halbes, at Forest Grove, which has been closed for several days, will resume business in a few days. Depositors will receive one-third of their deposits at once, if desired, one-third in six months, and the balance in eight months.

Secretary Wilson is said to be in favor of establishing one central beet-sugar factory in each state where there are now several factories. A number of smaller factories could extract the raw sugar to be forwarded to the central refinery. This would leave the pulp where it was produced for feeding purposes, which would be of advantage to the beet grower in several ways.

While filling the tank of the gasoline generating plant at Pacific University, Forest Grove, last week, Geo. Fletcher stepped on a match and ignited gas that is supposed to have formed beneath the floor causing an explosion that almost completely wrecked the building as well as breaking out several windows in the dormitory. The force of the explosion blew the roof off the building; loss $1000.

Everett L. Jones, of Albany college, representing Oregon, won the Pacific coast intercollegiate prohibition oratorical contest. D. C. Boyd, of Stanford college, representing northern California, was second, W. E. Robert, of Occidental college, Los Angeles, representing southern California, was third and Warren N. Cuddy, of the University of Puget Sound, South Tacoma, representing Washington, was fourth. Jones will represent the Pacific coast in the national prohibition contest. The winning oration was entitled "Principles of Citizenship."

FRUIT INSPECTOR

A. J. LEWIS

URGES ALL FRUIT RAISERS TO SPRAY THEIR TREES THIS FALL.

The time has arrived when we must recommence a crusade on the fungus and insect pests that infest our orchards, and I want to insist that you commence this work NOW. We realize that one of the most destructive fungus diseases that we have to contend with is what is known as black spot or anthracnose, and to check and control that we must spray in the fall, about the time the rains begin. Either the bordeaux mixture or the lime and sulphur solution is effective for this disease, if applied at the proper time and in the proper manner. But as the lime and sulphur is also a specific for the San Jose scale, branch form of woolly aphis, oyster shell scale, and all other forms of insect or fungus life that may be hibernating or dormant on the tree, I should recommend its thorough and persistent use.

I believe intelligent use of this remedy alone will come near emancipating us from the many pests we are fighting both insect and fungus. There is one thing I want to emphasize; if you don't understand what to do or how to do it, don't know what remedy to use to obtain certain results, don't do anything till you have found out so you can work intelligently. There is nothing that has a greater tendency to retard the work than the doing something and not getting satisfactory results. Be sure you are right before going ahead would be a good motto in this matter.

Begin at once to do the work and you will have no excuse for not doing it for want of time. Those that sprayed last winter and did the work intelligently and well will not have to be urged to repeat the work this season. But there are those who neglected or failed to do the work last winter for some reason, and that class will be urged emphatically to do their duty to their neighbor if they cannot be aroused to its benefits on their own account.

When we see the progress that is being made on all sides of us it behooves us to get a move on if we don't want to be distanced in the race. There are a number of old, diseased orchards in the county that must be removed; they cannot be renovated. And still they are left to cumber the ground, spread pests and disease, and are entirely without value to any one. These must go. There has been a large amount of good work done in the county, but still there is much to be done. Let us all do our duty and then we can all rejoice in the results that are sure to follow.

I am at your service and shall be glad to do what I can at any and all times to aid and advise as far as I am capable.

A. J. LEWIS,
Fruit Inspector Clackamas Co.

It is a well known fact that persons living in the Pine forests do not suffer from kidney diseases. One dose of Pinules at night usually relieves backache. 30 days' treatment, $1.00. Your money refunded if not satisfied. Sold by Huntley Bros.

The New York trust company paid out $24,000,000 during the present run, without closing its doors.

Scarcely half a dozen women delegates attended the meeting of the Kansas Equal Suffragists convention at Topeka, Kan., last week.

The American Cultivator reports that Postmaster Charles W. Abbott, of Reading, Mass., this year gathered 28 barrels (not boxes) of first-class apples and seven barrels of seconds from one tree.

Saloons of Bellingham were open Tuesday although an election was being held. On general election days the saloons are required to keep both front and back doors closed until midnight, but City Attorney Beach spent much time examining the new law and found it contained nothing to indicate that the saloons should be closed. As a result the police made no effort to keep the voters sober.
