OFFICER SEARCHES

LADY AT CANBY

City Marshal J. S. Dick, of Canby, experienced the novelty of searching a woman for concealed weapons Wednesday and seemed to perform the task with such coolness and dexterity that several men about town have hinted that they believed they could hold the job of city marshal.

The episode came about in this manner: A. S. Jeffries, who was recently cleared of an attempt to murder Tony Genini, was in town with Mrs. Genini, who seems to be "the beautiful lady" in the drama. It was over her that Jeffries sought to annihilate Genini, the destroyer of his hopes, though Genini has a prior claim by right of discovery. Genini was also here. The tragedy was about to be repeated, Genini had a gun, and it was hinted that Jeffries and Mrs. Genini also had dangerous weapons hid under their clothing. Mr. Dick flashed his star, raised his hand to high heaven and said: "The majesty of the law shall be upheld! Hold, foul traducers, until I place my hands under thy clothing and wrest from thee those instruments of death, else chains and a bastille await thee!"

The belligerents stood back. Mr. Dick searched the men first. He found a gun and took possession of it. He then came to Mrs. Genini. He hesitated. The crowd that stood watching the performance laughed. Mr. Dick discovered a bulky substance which from surface indications resembled a gun. "Put your hand under there if you want to," the woman said. Mr. Dick took new courage and completed his undertaking. He didn't find a gun.—Canby Tribune.

The Spokane banks announce that they are ready and willing to resume specie payments as soon as the Chicago and New York banks take the initiative. The Chicago banks a few days ago informed those of New York that they were ready as soon as New York would begin. From New York there is no intimation of immediate action, but the reports are optimistic and there are indications that the expected opening up of the flow of money will start soon. It may not take place until the beginning of the new year, though improvement in the situation leads many to hope that the day may be nearer at hand.

Southern Democrats are again making an appeal for the nomination of a Presidential candidate from the South, and they make out an interesting case, though it is hardly likely successfully to appeal to the National convention. Of course, the Democratic candidate, whoever he may be, will get the Southern vote, but it is felt that that section has a right to special recognition.

A friend of the Standard Oil corporations raises the quibble that in the case of the Alton the Standard did not accept "rebates" but was permitted to ship at rates below the published schedule. This is a distinction without a difference. The Standard and the Alton both violated the law and the officers of both corporations knew it at the time. Any discrimination that permits one shipper to enjoy lower rates than another is "rebating" as the public knows it, whether the form lies in the return of cash secretly that has been paid openly, in unjustifiably large allowances to the shipper by the railway for the transfer of freight at a terminal, in wrong classifications or in billing consignments below their true weight.

An entire village built by the French during their occupation of the Isthmus and completely buried by the dense growth of 20 years has been discovered at Calmito Mulato by the engineering force that is locating the center line of the canal in the Charges division. A majority of the buildings are in sufficiently good condition to be used again.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Meade Relief Corps and Meade Post Hold Elections Monday.

The annual election of Meade Relief Corps, W. R. C., and Meade Post, G. A. R., was held Monday. In the afternoon the Relief Corps elected the following officers:

Pauline Schwartz, president; Julia Tingle, senior vice president; Anna Tufts, junior vice president; Mary Randall, chaplain; Jennie B. Harding, treasurer; Louise Freeman, conductor; Catherine De Ford, guard; Mrs. Frank T. Barlow, Anna Tufts, Charlotte Gynup, Mary Randall, delegates to department convention; Julia Tingle, Catherine De Ford, Hattie Fitzgerald, Louise McAnulty, alternates to department convention.

The following officers were elected Monday night by Meade Post, G. A. R.: Enos Cahill, commander; O. L. Clyde, senior vice commander; Faxon Hayford, junior vice commander; J. A. Tufts, surgeon; George A. Harding, quartermaster; J. M. Kellogg, chaplain; H. Blankenship, officer of the day; J. C. Paddock, officer of the guard. Installation will be held first Monday in January. Plans are being made for a joint installation of the Post and Corps officers.

STOCKMAN BREAKS HIS LEG.

Sheridan Man Suffers an Accident While Rounding Up Cattle.

A. J. Bewley, a prominent cattle dealer of Sheridan, Ore., suffered a broken leg Saturday while rounding up cattle in the mountains 15 miles northwest of that city. Bewley was alone, and while hurrying his horse to head off some of the unruly members of the herd, his mount slipped and fell with his body underneath. The weight of the horse broke his leg. The wounded man managed, however, to secure his horse, get on a log and mount. Then he made the trip back to town for medical assistance.

The scene of the accident is a lonely section of the heavily timbered region west of here, and Mr. Bewley considers himself exceptionally fortunate in making his way back to town. Had his horse been wild, he might have been left to perish in the forest. A physician was called and set the broken leg.

Making a Success with Sheep.

There does not seem to be any doubt of the fact that it is easier for a grain farmer in the Willamette Valley to handle sheep on his farm than any other kind of stock. The wheat fields supply pasturage for the sheep during a good share of the year, and the mutton breeds of sheep are particularly benefited by having growing wheat fields to graze on in winter. With a flock of sheep on the place a farmer is more likely also to raise clover, vetches, rape, etc., and thus get into a system of rotation of crops which will increase his crops of grain.

It is proposed that the laws and regulations in New York city be so changed as to permit of the sale of skimmed milk. The only objection to its sale which is valid is that if the skim milk can be sold at all, it will open the doors to the fraudulent sale of partly skimmed milk. On the other hand skimmed milk is a wholesome and cheap article of food, and many persons would be glad to buy it for what it is.

In Montana report clearing as high as $50 an acre in sugar beets. It is estimated that about 9000 acres in that county were given over to the culture of this crop during the past season and it is stated that a large acreage will be grown next year. The sugar factory has been in operation since the middle of October and its produce is being shipped to all parts of the country at the rate of five or six cars a day.

The California Fruit Grower says most of the prune holdings on the Pacific Coast are in firm hands, and all told there will be no great carry-over of prunes into January. Stocks on hand in California now are only about one-half the quantity on hand in that State in May last.

Foraker is "Out for It."

Senator Foraker formally announces his purpose to be a candidate for the Presidency. It means first, that he will contest Ohio with Taft. Second, that he will be backed by all the trusts, syndicates, rebaters, plungers, wealthy malefactors and predatory delinquents in the country. The whole brood will support him for the nomination, Democrats as well as Republicans; and should he be nominated, they will support him in the election, unless they can corrupt the Democratic party in making a nomination as satisfactory to them. It is conceivable that they might support Bryan as against Taft, and they certainly would against Roosevelt, should he be the candidate. But now they will devote all their efforts to support of Foraker.

R. Jacobson, senior partner of the firm of R. Jacobson & Co., of McMinnville has announced that he will retire in the near future and spend his remaining days with his family in Portland. Mr. Jacobson is one of the pioneer merchant of Yamhill county, having begun business there about 39 years ago.

Ashland Tidings: A big brown bear which has been feeding upon the fruit in Miss Nellie Russell's apple orchard near Steinman, was caught in a trap a few days ago and will commit no more orchard depredations. The captors were John Taylor and John Beagle. Bruin measured 6 1/2 feet from the tip of his nose to the tip of what stands for a bear's tail.

The Corvallis Times tells a good hunting story: This is gospel truth. Jesse Watkins, who lives in the first house south of Bruce, knocked over ten geese the other night at one shot, and he got six of them. Darkness was settling down, and he was concealed in a clump of bushes. The geese alighted within a short distance, and at the hypothetical moment, he turned both barrels loose, with the result recorded above.
