Roast Heart.

One sheep's heart, two tablespoon fuls of bread crumbs, one large onion, one tenspoonful of sage, pepper and salt. Wash the heart well in cold water; remove all pipes from it, leaving any fat or skin to cover the stuffing over. Boil the onion until tender and chop it well; add the bread crumbs, sage and seasoning; mix all well together and fill the heart well; draw the skin over and sew it; flour well and place in a baking pan, put some drippings on the top and bake in a quick oven, basting constantly for twenty minutes to one-half hour, ac-cording to the heat of the oven. To make a gravy, remove the heart to a hot dish and keep hot, pour off all the fat, flour the pan and sprinkle with salt and pepper; rub the pan well with a spoon to loosen the brown parts and pour on some hot water, boll up and strain around the heart.

The Shiny Nose.

The greasy skin that causes such heartburnings among women who can not prevent their noses from shining is a result of a disordered condition of the fat-producing glands of the skin.

The secretion from these glands is both abnormal in amount and is al-tered in character, being more oily than usual. The skin of the forehead, cheeks and nose is affected, the mouths of the tiny glands being dilated, and often there is noticeable enlargement of the superficial blood ves-The cause is unknown. Smooth Starch.

Starchmaking requires skill on gas stove to prevent burning. Instead of dissolving the starch in a kettle and pouring boiling water upon it in the old way, when it browns before cooking, try placing water in a kettle, pre-viously rubbing a bit of clean lard in the bottom. To each quart of boiling water add one ladle of starch dissolved in a little water, and stir in as you would thickening to gravy.

Macaroni Balls.
Thicken one cupful of milk with one tablespoonful of flour creamed with one tablespoonful of butter and season with one saltspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Chop cold macaroni quite fine, having at least two cupfuls, and adding two tablespoonfuls of cold bacon, chopped. Add the sauce, mix well together, form in small balls, dip in beaten egg, then in corn meal or crushed vermicelli and fry in deep fat.

DEPOSITOR'S SECURITY LAW.

Mr. Dixon Proposes to Tax the People's Meney In the Banks of Oregon.

CANBY, Or., March 16.—(Editor of the Enterprise.)—If I am not encroaching on the space in your valuable paper. I shall request permis-sion to present to your readers the great good that would accrue to the people of Oregon by the enactment of a depositor's security law, protecting depositors against loss of their mone; in insolvent banks. There is now a general demand for measures that will better protect the interests of the people as opposed to the corporations and the money power, and the de-mand for a depositors' security law is the outgrowth of this sentiment. I believe, however, that there are too many money-made senators and representatives in congress to pass a national law at this time, and the proper thing for the people to do is to take the matter up through their state legislatures. Then if congress total registration is less than half passes the law the national statute of the voting strength of Clacamas. can supersede the state laws on the county and there are only 22 days resubject and in the meantime the peo- maining before the books are closed ple will have protection without wait for the primaries.

ing for congress to act. In my candidacy for the legislature from Clackamas county, I have promised the peo-ple that if I am nominated and elected I will introduce the bill at the next session of the state assembly. My plan is to have the legislature create a state banking board composed of the governor, the state bank examiner and the state treasurer. this board be vested with authority to collect a tax of 1 per cent (or whatever amount is deemed sufficient) on the total daily average balances deposits in the banks of the state. Put this money in the state treasury to be known and used as a liquidation fund. Then when a bank falls let the state treasurer pay the depositors of that bank dollar for dollar. The state bank examiner can then take over the affairs of the defunct bank.

I would advise that the various state and national banks should first give their consent to be taxed, before the money is collected into the state treasury, and not compel any bank to pay the tax. I believe the conservative and safe banks of the state would willingly pay their share of the liquidation fund, and the bank that falled or refused to guarantee its de-positors under the law would have to take the consequences. If, after the first annual tax was levied and collected, there were no bank failures for a number of years, then there would be no further assesments made. But if several banks should fail the first year, require the associated banks to make the loss to depositors good by contributing their share to the state fund. This law-in operation would restore absolute confidence and bring into circulation millions of dollars that are now hoarded away because the people are afraid to trust their money to the banks under the present system. I believe the bankers and depositors will all agree with me that this hoarded money should be in the channels of trade.

I shall now attempt to show by facts and figures that a depositors' security law would be a good thing, not only for the people, but the bankers as well. The official report of State Bank Examiner Steele, of Oregon, shows that on August 22d, 1907, the 55 national banks and 111 out of the 134 state and private banks had on deround numbers, $65,000,000. Twenty-three state and private banks made no report. This was shortly before the panic started last fall. December 3, four months later, the bank examiner made another report and found only $57,000,000 on deposit. The depositors had withdrawn $8,000,000 in this short period of time. As a result of these heavy withdraw als several banks in Portland were compelled to close their doors, notwithstanding the fact that some of them were en a good banking basis. A depostors' security law would have saved these withdrawals, and the busines interests of the state would not have been crippled as they were during the famous "holiday season."
Let us suppose, for example, that a tax of 1 per cent, should be levied on the banks on a basis of $65,000,000 of deposits. Then we would have $650,-000 in the state treasury as a liquidation fund. Suppose that the bankers had this $8,000,000 which has been withdrawn, and which so far as is known, is still hoarded away, loaned out at the legal rate of 8 per cent per annum. Their interest would be $640,000, or nearly the eatire amount that would be required of the banks to support a liquidation fund, based on a tax of 1 per cent. on $65,000,000 of deposits. This example shows that the increased circulation that would result from the passage of such a law would provide for the liquidation fund by increasing the earning capacity of with gilt edged security. A great many of your readers know this to be true. The banks are afraid to turn loose of their money and the depositors are afraid to put their money in the banks. Our present money stringency is not due so much to the scarcity of money as to the lack of public confidence.

A depositors' security law is in effect in Oklahoma and as a result the banks are overflowing with money. The people of Kansas and adjoining homa banks for deposit, and the Kansas bankers are so alarmed over the situation that they have petitioned their governor to call a special session of the legislature to pass a depositors' security law in order to keep Kansas money in Kansas banks.

In the matter of resignation of W. With a tax of 1 per cent., a bank having $25,000 of the people's money E. Wanker as Constable for district would be required to put $250 into the state treasury, and this is a very small amount indeed compared to the great benefit that would follow both to the bankers and the depositors. The banks demand security before letting a dollar out of the bank. Why should not the people demand security before putting their money in the banks? The national banks can pay their share of the liquidation fund after having secured permission from the comptroller of the currency.

I should be glad to hear from other readers of your paper on this subject, as I believe it is one of the greatest importance. It is within the power of the people to have laws more in their favor if they will only demand them at the ballot box.
