PERSONAL POPULARITY.

Personal popularity counts for much in elections, and this is truly shown by an examination of the returns from Clackamas County. We have Sheriff Beattie, with a majority of more than 1000 in an acknowledged Republican stronghold. We find J. E. Jack, Democratic candidate for assessor, with a majority of nearly 500, and George Chamberlain victorious over Cate by 534. The reason is in the personal popularity of the men.

The Republicans who always vote the straight ticket may find cold comfort in the fact that Beattie and Jack are both men of sterling qualities and will make good officials. Beattie has made a good record during the two years he has been sheriff and the argument that he was entitled to a second term did him good. If Mr. Jack is successful in the same measure, he is then sure of eight years in the assessor's office, which is not so bad as it might be.

Some of the Republicans polled a fine vote, but they did not run against men of any considerable strength. The Republican nominees for clerk, treasurer, school superintendent and surveyor had no Democratic opposition. Mr. Holman, for coroner, has a plurality of 376, although a vicious fight was made against him, and his re-election is an endorsement of his economical record. Mr. Mattoon bore the brunt of a hard campaign, for there were Republican office holders arrayed against him, and the same was true of Mr. Moody who went down to defeat.

But the men who are called good fellows received the big vote, and the Republicans who were elected will make no better officials than would the men who were not successful. The fortunate ones simply had no opposition worthy of mention and carried their party vote or a large portion of it.

The lesson is plain, but it has been preached to deaf ears in Clackamas County and in Oregon. Let this condition continue and we shall have a Democratic county by degrees. Two years ago we had no Democratic office holders. Now we have three, and in two years we may have a few more and the Republicans, or the men who pose as such, may well stand by and watch the rapid disintegration of their party, once all powerful, but now suffering a painful decline.

The direct primary law will stand a few amendments, but who will be brave enough to suggest them. It is satisfactory to the largest degree to every Democrat, and it is pleasing to the men who are so selfish that they will play the dog in the manger and because they will not allow a plurality vote in the party to rule in the primaries. The medicine, my friends, is bitter.

OUR COMMERCIAL CLUB.

The Enterprises hopes to be able to announce in its next week's issue that the organization of a Commercial Club in Oregon City is a fact. The town has been looking on for several years while our brothers and sisters, Albany, Eugene, McMinnville, Corvallis and others have pushed themselves into the public notice and through the medium of the press as well as the clubs have had more than local prominence in the public eye.

John Hartog, manager of the Eugene Commercial Club, said that Oregon City has ten chances to succeed through the formation of a Commercial Club where Eugene has one. And John Hartog is right, as he usually is. Show us a town with the natural advantages of Oregon City. Show us a city of like population with a payroll like ours. Show us such a magnificently situated place, with an immense water power and factories employing 1000 people. Show us this place, and we will show you a town that is ahead of Oregon City, and why?

Because they boast. Because they spend money for publicity. Because they use printer's ink and plenty of it. Because they make the city attractive to the farmers of the country surrounding. These are the things that make a healthy and progressive town.

Oregon City has her chance, and she certainly will not turn it down this time. The plan of organization is the only right one, and the social features of the Commercial Club will do much to retain the interest of its members.

Bring a friend into Oregon City. Maybe it is wash day or perhaps your wife is shopping or visiting or doing the hundred and one things that women have for their friends? Why, to the saloon, for there is no other place.

The town needs a Commercial Club, and every merchant and business man should hunt up the promoters of the plan and ask to be enrolled. Don't hang back. Push the proposition along and incidentally help yourself.

As the members of Congress return to their respective homes they carry with them a consciousness of much important work wisely and carefully performed and a confidence that a vast majority of their fellow citizens will entertain no doubt that the welfare of the country can be best promoted by the retention of as large or larger Republican majorities in the two houses of Congress, as well as by the election to the highest office in the land of one who is in thorough sympathy with the policies and aims of the present administration and whose broad experience and matured judgment will save him from the visionary schemes of doctrinaires and the legislative experiments advocated by an inexperienced and wholly incompetent minority, which throughout the session just concluded, has demonstrated with augmented emphasis, its utter incompetence to direct the affairs of a great and growing nation.

IT IS A DIRTY FARCE.

Some three years ago, more or less, says the Oregonian, Binger Hermann was indicted by an Oregon grand jury on accusation of complicity in land frauds. The country has been waiting for the proofs. A continuous stream of insinuation has come out of the detective and other official service to the effect that there was "hot stuff" about Hermann. The newspapers have been supplied with it, in Oregon, at Washington, and more or less throughout the country. But Hermann has not been brought to trial. Is there, in reality, any proof against him? Or is this an industrious proceeding, on the part of detectives, and prosecuting attorneys, to make it appear that they have been earning their money?

The same about Senator Fulton. There has been an infinite amount of talk against him, in official circles. Henry made long speeches against him. Officials of the Department of Justice, here and at Washington, have been giving out whispers for years that "they had the dope on Fulton"; that he was subject to indictment, and that terrible things were to be told and revealed. But they never do anything but utter cowardly and malicious insinuations, telling the people through the newspapers that awful revelations are coming. "We can't tell much now, but there be those that could tell an' they would; just wait." The Oregonian thinks that both Mr. Hermann and Mr. Fulton have waited long enough, and that the public has waited long enough. We now believe that Mr. Hermann never will be brought to trial, and that no distinct charges ever will be formulated against Mr. Fulton. This dirty and cowardly business is now about at an end.

A Mistaken Idea

Some people have an idea that in order to have a bank account they must have a large sum to deposit, that the bank does not care to be bothered by small accounts.

This, however, is not true of the Bank of Oregon City, which welcomes new accounts, whether of $1.00, or $1000, and the same courtesy and service is accorded the small depositor as those in more fortunate circumstances.

It is our object and wish to serve the public in financial matters in a manner that shall be satisfactory to all—old or young, rich or poor.

We want your banking business and will be pleased to open an account for you to have you open an account with us.

The Shively Theatre was well filled Wednesday night with people to witness the production of "Diamonds and Hearts," a three act drama, by the pupils of the ninth grade of the Barclay High School. The Oregon City Band advertised the show on Main street early in the evening and then marched to the Theatre. Pupils of the city schools were there in large numbers, and were liberal in their applause to their schoolmates. The leading parts were taken by Marie Roos and Alexander Bowen. The acting of Zeta Andrews (Hannah Barnes, a country woman), and Frank Clark (Abraham Barnes, uncle of the hero), was especially good, as was that of Waldo Caulfield. Miss Helen G. Abbott, teacher of the fifth grade in the high school, and Mrs. Theodore Clark worked untiringly to make the affair successful.
