Printers Eat Strawberries. J. W. Thomas, of Molalla, favored the Enterprise with a crate of his Table Rock River Strawberries the early part of the week. The fruit, throughout the whole crate, was uniformly large. Each berry was in its prime—in color a dark luscious red that penetrated to the center of the heart. A great many of our berries are lacking in flavor this year on account of the cold, damp weather. These Oak Point Farm berries, however, seemed from their flavor, to have been favored with the heat that the weather man could provide. Last, but in no way least, each berry had been carefully picked and was still attached to a goodly length of stem. This product from Clackamas County is but one point in the demonstration of the fact that we can raise fruit as good as the best that is grown in the state.
